BID FOR TWO-PARTY SYSTEM

Premier Manning Seen Dumping Socreds as National Force

By PETER NEWMAN

OTTAWA — A development which could seriously affect the future realignment of the Canadian party structure is about to explode on an already volatile political scene.

In a book due to be published in about 10 days, Ernest Manning, Canada's most successful politician, in effect, renounces Social Credit and throws his support behind the Conservative party.

People close to the Alberta premier claim that his dramatic move is not the result of any sudden revelation, but the end of a long and earnest search for an ideology to fit the times.

While Manning continues to protest any personal involvement in national politics, his forthcoming book leaves open the possibility that he might become an important influence on the next Conservative administration.

He is understood to have already acepted an invitation to address the pre-convention thinkers' conference which the Conservatives are planning for Quebec City on August 7-10.

Reliable political sources who have read the book say that Manning is advocating three important changes in Canada's political scene:

1. That Social Crediters give up the idea their party will ever become a national force.

2. That they join the federal Conservative party.

3. That the Conservative party adopt his new philosophy and turn ideologically to the right, so that national politics in Canada becomes realigned into recognizable left- and right-wing movements.

Manning's book, called "Political Realignment: A Challenge to Thoughtful Canadians," is based only in part on his "white paper on human resources development" published last March, which outlined a non-partisan but ultra-conservative approach to government.

The new volume, which was largely the work of Manning himself (though he had help from his son Preston and Eric Schmidt, a sociologist) is based on the idea that in Canadian society today the self-reliant individual is losing control over his own destiny.

RIGHT WING

Those who have read a draft of the Manning book describe it as a well-thought-out appeal to people who support a similar right-wing philosophy, but now find themselves in different political parties.

It's an attempt to form an alliance between the supporters of pure free enterprise and politicians who are conscious of the realities of getting elected in what has become a welfare state.

Manning attempts to combine these two strains into a new political philosophy he calls social conservatism. It keeps the emphasis on the individual as the primary source of production and as the main benefactor of economic activity but it does reflect some concern for the under-privileged.

In terms of practical politics, probably the most interesting part of Manning's book is his examination of the various national political parties as potential vehicles for his new philosophy.

Most significant is his rejection of Social Credit as an effective national force, even though he has fought hard to help its cause during 10 federal election campaigns.

SHARE IDEAS

Although a number of its adherents share his ideas, he also rejects the Liberal party, because he claims it is too monolithic, too close to the federal civil service, and too imbued with what he calls "nineteenth century socialism." He takes strong exception to the "universality" approach inherent in most of the Liberal welfare measures. The NDP, he disqualifies by definition, and then turns his attention to the Conservatives.

While Manning recognizes the Tory party's leadership problem, he points out that the kind of approach to politics he is preaching has

MOVE TO TORIES DENIED IN PART

EDMONTON (CP)—Premier Manning says he has written a small book advocating a political realignment in federal politics but denied published reports that he, in effect, renounces Social Credit and throws his support behind the Progressive Conservative party.

The 100-page book, Political Realignment, a Challenge to Thoughtful Canadians, is expected to be ready for the presses early next month.

In an interview, Premier Manning said the book simply stresses what he has been saying for two years, that there is a desperate need in Canada for realignment of political thinking.

He was asked to comment on a report, by Peter Newman of Ottawa, saying that in the book he renounces Social Credit, supports the Conservatives and that he is understood to have accepted an invitation to address a thinkers' conference planned by the Conservatives in Quebec City Aug. 7-10.

380 Dead In Viet Battles

3 MiGs Downed Over N. Vietnam

From AP—Reuters

SAIGON (CP) — South Vietnamese and South Korean troops reported killing 380 Communist soldiers in two savage battles today.

Over North Vietnam U.S. Navy pilots shot down three MiGs from the sky and probably downed a fourth.

The aerial action was the first significant dogfight over the North in six weeks when U.S. pilots claimed to have downed 27 MiGs in a month.

South Vietnamese headquarters said an elite airborne battalion killed 240 soldiers in northernmost Quang Tri province along the coastal plain in a fight with what was evidently a battalion of about 500 men. The Communists were reported to have abandoned 89 weapons on the field.

JUNGLE HQ TAKEN

About 100 miles to the south in coastal Binh Dinh province, troopers of South Korea's White Horse division overran jungle headquarters of the Viet Cong's 95th Regiment and reported killing 140 guerrillas. They captured 70 weapons.

A U.S. military spokesman said all four jets downed were MiG-17s, encountered during a bombing raid on a gasoline storage centre at Ta Xa about 20 miles northwest of the port city of Haiphong.

There were no immediate reports on U.S. losses.

Military sources said it is believed the North Vietnamese air force is concentrating on replacing its losses and retraining its men, besides being harassed by regular American bombings of its major MiG bases.

The Communist fighters signalled renewed activity two days ago when eight MiGs challenged raiding U.S. Phantom jets, but neither side suffered casualties in a brief exchange of fire.

STRAFE SUPPLY TRUCKS

In raids Thursday, Thunderchief and Phantom jets attacked Yen Bai airfields 78 miles northwest of Hanoi, where supply trucks coming south from China are believed to be halting for refuelling, a U.S. spokesman said.

Meanwhile, in South Vietnam, B-52 bombers flew three missions over the northern province of Thua Thien to unload bombs on infiltration routes reported being used to move North Vietnamese men and equipment into the South.

U.S. infantrymen and Viet Cong guerrillas clashed 18 miles south of here on the fringes of the Mekong Delta.

The U.S. military command issued figures Thursday showing that more Americans have been killed or wounded in the first 6½ months of this year than in all of 1966.

Command officials said 4,448 Americans were killed in action so far this year, about 600 less than the entire year of 1966, and 35,104 U.S. troops were wounded since Jan. 1—a jump of some 5,000 over the total for 1966.

De Gaulle Tour May Jolt Canadian Unity Efforts

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Fears are growing among federal officials that French President Charles de Gaulle's tour will harm Canadian efforts towards national unity.

His visit may deliberately or inadvertantly strengthen the separatist cause.

He arrives in Quebec City Sunday.

Canadian untiy may be severely damaged, depending on how de Gaulle conducts himself during the visit and how the wild-eyed separatists in Quebec seek to exploit his presence.

GREAT GAINS

French Canada has made great gains in recent years — during Prime Minister Pearson's administration — in insisting on a special status for Quebec.

English speaking Canadians have learned to adjust and accommodate themselves to this fact of life, particularly noticeable in a city such as the capital where there is a large population of French-speaking as well as English-speaking Canadians.

There is worry here that General de Gaulle — always a trouble maker — may see the visit as a golden opportunity to strengthen support for his anti-United States views in this country.

He may seize the chance to stir up old antagonisms and increase his popularity in Quebec so that the federal government would be reluctant to line up with the U.S. in any new confrontation with France over the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

General de Gaulle may be out to deliberately "neutralize" Canada.

The French president is a past master at exploiting such difficulties as exist in Canada. He instinctively seizes on the dramatic and symbolic. With him in Quebec will be Premier Daniel Johnson, who is demanding more provincial influence in both domestic and international affairs — in particular Quebec influence.

CALLING CARD

President de Gaulle left a calling card Thursday at St. Pierre Miquelon — a promised $2,000,000 trawler.

His wife's nephew Jacques Philippe Vendroux, newly elected deputy of St. Pierre, said this was the only hard promise de Gaulle made during private talks with Governor J. J. Buggia and local government officials.

The trawler will be based here and government owned. Mr. Vendroux declined to say when it would arrive.

Vendroux, asked about rumored development of a gambling casino on the island, said this was possible. He would say no more.

Police Think Dead Girl Murdered

CALGARY (CP) — Body of a Comox man's 14-year-old daughter has been found outside the city here and RCMP officers say they suspect foul play.

Dead is Marlene Lowry, 14, missing for more than five weeks from her Calgary home.

Marlene, younger daughter of Mrs. Ivy Lowry of Calgary and Sgt. Merlin Lowry of Comox, was reported missing by her mother June 10 after she failed to return from a party with school friends the previous evening.

Supt. J. L. Vachon of the Calgary RCMP said it was not yet known whether the girl had been criminally assaulted.

A statement issued by the RCMP said the body, badly decomposed and semi-nude, was found by Frederick Newsome, a Cochrane, Alta. farm worker, in a field three-tenths of a mile from Highway 1A on the city's outskirts.

"The clothing was in a state of disarray and an article of clothing was found around the girl's neck," the statement said. "Foul play is suspected. However the exact cause of death has not yet been determined."

SOVIET STILL HOPES FOR UN PEACE FORMULA

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)—Russia refused today to abandon hope of General Assembly agreement on the Middle East despite Arab reluctance to accept any solution recognizing the existence of Israel.

The Russians are reported to be showing new interest in a Latin American formula to link the crucial issue of Israeli troop withdrawal with the Arab countries, ending their state of war with Israel and acknowledging the Jewish state. Canada supports this formula.

Let Liberals Join Tories, Says Bonner

A merger of the Liberal and Conservative parties nationally would be more in the interest of Canada than realignment of Conservatives with Social Credit, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today.

He was commenting on the philosophy of Social Conservatism as proposed in Alberta Premier Manning's book, Political Realignment: A Challenge to Thoughtful Canadians, to be published in August and reviewed today by Peter Newman.

Mr. Bonner, speaking in the absence from Victoria of Premier Bennett, said he had not read the book.

But he deplored any appeal to the right which Mr. Manning considers essential to the survival of individuality.

REALIGNMENT

Mr. Bonner agreed that Canadian political parties are in need of realignment.

"The Liberals are publicly and completely in disarray," he said. Only the Conservatives are in worse shape.

He said "Rather than inventing a new party such as 'social conservatism,' I'm rather in-

STRANDED ON MOUNTAIN

Tiny Woman's Pack Almost Big as Her

GLENNALLEN, Alaska (AP) — An Anchorage bush pilot plans to make another attempt to pick up a Japanese woman attempting to climb 12,002-foot Mount Drum alone.

Pilot Mort Clement said he attempted to pick up the 32-year-old woman at a pre-designated spot on the mountain Thursday but high wind and "downdrafts as great as 2,000 feet per minute" prevented a landing.

Clement said he saw Miss Sakae Kishi's yellow nylon tent at the pre-arranged point near the 4,000-foot level.

"The wind at that point might be blowing as high as 70 knots, and it would be most likely she would remain under the protection of her cover," he added.

He said he dropped notes wrapped in a large, orange plastic container with streamers attached advising the climber to stay at the pickup spot until he could land.

Miss Kishi arrived at Glennallen from Tokyo Saturday and began her ascent of the mountain that afternoon. Although she weighs only 78 pounds, she toted a 58-pound pack of supplies.

Tshombe Freed To Hang

Secret Trip Likely To Congo Gallows

ALGIERS (UPI)—The Algerian supreme court today ordered former Congolese Premier Moise Tshombe extradited to The Congo, where he faces execution on the gallows on treason charges.

Tshombe had been tried in absentia in the Congolese capital of Kinshasa and sentenced to die. He was in exile in Spain at the time.

At the United Nations, meanwhile many UN delegates said The Congo could not afford to execute Tshombe because it would have a full-scale rebellion on its hands.

Diplomats warned Congolese authorities to proceed with caution. One source said, "even the simple presence of Tshombe in his home might trigger trouble." Another said, "If they execute Tshombe they will have another civil war. The Katangese will rise up in arms."

KATANGA

Tshombe comes from mineral-rich Katanga province which he led in secession from the central Congolese government shortly after The Congo obtained its independence from Belgium in 1960.

Tshombe later served as premier of a reunited Congo but then went into self-exile in Europe.

Tshombe was taken to Algeria June 30 after his private plane was hijacked over the Mediterranean June 30 and the pilot forced to fly at gunpoint to an airport near Algeris.

Shortly afterward, a rebellion by Tshombe's former Katanga gendarmes and white mercenary troops broke out in the northeastern Congo but the rebels were put to flight by Congolese government forces.

Just before the Algerian court announced its decision Tshombe said he was "the victim of the CIA and of my popularity in The Congo."

The 48-year-old Tshombe has sometimes been called the "rubberman" because of his past ability to bounce back from difficult situations.

MASSACRES

Mobutu's government had demanded Tshombe's extradition from Algeria to Kinshaha, where he was sentenced to death on charges of treason, massacres in Katanga province and other offences against the state, described as criminal.

Informed sources said it was likely that Tshombe would be extradited in secret and that the move would be announced only after he reached the Congo.

In a spirited declaration before the court, Tshombe said his friendship with President Charles de Gaulle of France "displeased the imperialists."

In his declaration, Tshombe outlined his political career and said:

"I will go to The Congo if the supreme court so decides, for I am a man. But I call the court's attention to the responsibility it has in the eyes of the Congolese people and the entire world."

NEGROES MEET TO CONSIDER BLACK POWER

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — About 600 delegates to the first U.S. national conference on Black Power are gathered here today intent on making the once-divisive slogan a working symbol of Negro unity.

All whites, including reporters, were excluded from all working sessions and delegates, including H. Rapp Brown, chairman of the Student Non-violent Co-ordinating Committee, were asked not to give individual news conferences.

But the tone of the orientation session Thursday set by Negro comedian Dick Gregory and Los Angeles black nationalist Ron Karenga, was not so much anti-white as pro-black and anti-white exploitation.

Minneapolis Erupting In Violence

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rock throwing, at least two shootings and a dozen small fires were reported as violence flared up in Minneapolis, Minn., Thursday night and early today.

A police inspector said the second outbreak in two nights occurred on the Negro north side of the city. There were no deaths from the shootings but two injuries.

Earlier, Mayor Arthur Naftalin blamed the Wednesday night outbreak of street fights and firebombing on a few "lawless" individuals and said the Negro community was not at fault.

In Durham, N.C., 300 Negroes staged a relatively peaceful march to the city hall to underline their demands for better housing and other social reforms.

A battalion of national guardsmen were dismissed after the march, but a small number of the guardsmen remained on the scene where policemen, sheriff's deputies and state highway patrolmen — all heavily armed—lined the route of the march.

FORECAST MORE VIOLENCE

A group of Negro leaders in Cairo, Ill., warned city officials Thursday to expect more racial violence if demands were not met by Sunday afternoon.

"Cairo will look like Rome burning down," if the Negroes don't obtain satisfaction, one of their spokesmen said.

The Illinois city was hit by firebombing and sniping last Sunday night and fires were ignited Tuesday night despite a strict police surveillance.

Woods Industry Now Deadlocked

Workers in Northern Interior Will Take Strike Vote Soon

VANCOUVER (CP)—Conciliation talks between the International Woodworkers of America and lumber companies in the northern interior have failed, it was disclosed today.

IWA regional first vice-president Jack MacKenzie, who is heading the northern negotiations for the union, said the breakdown will be followed by an early strike vote.

He said the conciliation stage ended with labor department officer Jack Sherlock recommending only that no conciliation board be appointed.

Mr. MacKenzie said the union rejected as "wholly unacceptable" the employers' offer of a wage increase of 20 cents an hour over two years.

The IWA is seeking parity with coastal rates and conditions for both the northern and southern sections of the Interior, which negotiate separately.

Mr. Sherlock, also acting as conciliation officer in the southern interior, has brought down no report so far for the southern section.

However the latest employer offer in the south of 26 cents hourly over two years has also been rejected by the IWA.

Parity with the coast entails a 50-cent hourly hike on the present base rate of $2.26 hourly as well as incorporation of job evaluation training programs and automation provisions.

Mr. MacKenzie said a union strike vote will be necessary "to make the employers realize that northern interior woodworkers need and demand parity with the coast."

He added that a strike-authorizing vote does not necessarily mean a strike.

"As the present contract does not expire until Aug. 31 there is time to get the message across to the employers in further and more realistic talks about parity."

'HATE' CAMPAIGN

West German Newspaper Blasts Israel

MUNICH (AP)—A West German rightest weekly newspaper issued a revised edition today without the picture of Adolf Hitler on the front page that prompted police confiscations Thursday and the night before.

But the picture of Israel's Defence Minister Moshe Dayan was still there, as was the banner headline: "Israel's Auschwitz in the Desert—the Mass Murder of the Arabs—Dayan in Hitler's Footsteps."

The flag of the Deutsche National und Soldaten Zeitung — National and Soldiers' Newspaper—carried in its newest edition the inscription: "First edition since confiscaton."

In place of Hitler's picture was an article assailing the police search and seizure action that had been ordered by the Munich district attorney.

VIOLATED FEDERAL LAW

The district attorney said the action was taken because publication of the Hitler picture violated a federal law against propagating emblems of unconstitutional organizations.

Today's special edition of the weekly said the confiscation of the front page and three attached pages was greeted by the newspaper's foes at home and abroad not "because they feared the Hitler picture, but rather the comparison of the Israeli atrocities against the Arabs with those of the Nazis."

The newspaper's main article maintains that Israel has erected concentration camps in Egypt, Syria and Jordan modelled on Auschwitz, the Nazi extermination camp in Poland.

The newspaper's publisher, Gerhard Frey, issued a statement saying: "If one can prove incorrect a single word in the confiscated edition, then we are willing to apologize and do penance.

Pearson Insists: Admit Arabs

He reaffirmed an earlier stand that Canada must admit its share of Arabs if there is a United Nations program for immigration.

The chamber had written to Mr. Pearson to say directors felt Canada should not admit several thousand Arab refugees, in effect placing them in a strange environment for which they would be ill-prepared.

The prime minister agreed the refugee problem could not be solved by scattering Arabs through many countries; that most must be re-settled in Arab States.

This could be accomplished through an economic program that would provide for the refugees to be self-supporting.

But Canada will have to accept "a certain number, as well as the obligation to train and prepare those accepted for immigration into our population," Mr. Pearson said.

"As I see it, the problem is, in fact, threefold: Israel will have to readmit at least a token number; the majority will have to be absorbed in Arab countries through international development schemes which would make that possible; and some will move from the area to overseas countries where there are opportunities for them."

been a part of its traditional concerns.

He urges Social Crediters to get out of the federal field and support the Conservative party and states that he himself will work hard to help bring about such a realignment.

Manning plays down the importance of individual leadership in this process, emphasizing again and again that the most important step is to commit a political movement to a distinguishable set of principles, something that's accepted, adopted, written down and unchanging.

He insists that he himself will not run for national office under his new banner of social conservatism, but will do everything else in his power to foster his philosophy's adoption by the federal Tories.

Manning's policy declaration is a highly significant move because he has been a loyal adherent of Social Credit since the party was founded and became its youngest cabinet minister in 1935 and premier of Alberta in 1943.

His swing away from Social Credit is an attempt, which is gaining adherents in all federal parties, to polarize the nation's politics into recognizable left and right-wing movements.

Manning believes that in such a realignment, the Conservatives are bound to triumph, becuase they would enlist the loyalties of "all the Tories, many right-wing Liberals, and most Social Crediters and a substantial block of people not now associated with any party," while the opposing group would have only "leftist-type Liberals ad the NDP."

"I prefer not to comment on the subject matter of the book until it is available to the public, other than to say that it will have an important message for the Canadian people substantially different from that conveyed by Mr. Newman's premature and largely inaccurate speculations," Mr. Manning said.

"The book most definitely will not be a repudiation of Social Credit nor will it be an endorsation of the present Conservative party.

"I am not throwing my support behind the Progressive Conservative party as such, nor am I urging other Social Crediters to do so. Equally untrue is Mr. Newman's statement that I have accepted an invitation to speak at the Conservative party thinkers' conference prior to the leadership convention."

Although he would not discuss the content of the book, Mr. Manning said "It is wholly false to even suggest that I have renounced the philosophies of Social Credit."

The premier received assistance in writing the book from Erick Schmidt, a sociologist on the government staff.

DISTASTEFUL

"I find an appeal to the right just as distasteful as an appeal to the left. To rally around the right is not the direction in which this country is growing," Mr. Bonner said.

B.C. Social Credit League president George Driediger predicted the book would "disrupt the political climate.

"This is going to cause an awful lot of people to take a new look at Canadian politics . . . It is going to come as a shock to some of our people."

He did not wish to comment on the basis of Mr. Manning's philosophy. "It would have to be taken up at our convention to determine whether we go in a

"This will make for a very interesting convention," Mr. Driediger said.

. . . THIS GREAT COUNTRY

Queen Mother Optimist on Canada

By BRENDA LARGE

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Queen Mother Elizabeth today thanked the people of the Atlantic provinces for making her 13-day centennial tour "so enjoyable." She also looked optimistically into Canada's second century.

She said at a luncheon at Newfoundland's Memorial University: "Wherever I have been in the Atlantic provinces, I have been received with a kindness which has touched me most deeply, and which I will always remember with gratitude."

Speaking about Canada's centennial year and the country's future, the 66-year-old Queen Mother said:

"As Canada moves forward into its second century, I have found all around me a spirit of courage and enterprise which I feel certain bodes well for the people of this great country in the years ahead."

The Queen Mother told Premier Joseph Smallwood it seemed "hardly possible" it was nearly 30 years since her last visit to St. John's with her late husband King George VI.

"We were deeply touched then by the loyalty and affection shown to us, and in a broadcast to the people of Newfoundland I recall that the King spoke of the pleasure which it gave to us to be in the capital city of the oldest colony in the empire."

Newfoundland has seen many changes in the intervening years and in 1949 experienced "an historic transition" from the status of a colony to full membership in Canadian confederation.

"Since I arrived here yesterday, I have seen all around me evidence of progress and prosperity and I know that what is true of St. John's is ture also for the rest of this forward-looking province."

Later, the Queen Mother will attend a garden party in her honor given by Lt.-Gov. Fabian O'Dea at Government House.

LEAVES SATURDAY

The Queen Mother concludes her 13-day visit to the Atlantic provinces Saturday when she flies back to London aboard an RCAF Yukon aircraft.

Thursday, the streets of St. John's, were bedecked with Union Jacks, the new Canadian flag and the red ensign as more than 30,000 Newfoundlanders turned out to welcome the Queen Mother.

This island province is enjoying one of its hottest summers in recent history and temperatures reached the high 80s Thursday afternoon when the Queen Mother attended a trooping the color ceremony at the Pleasantville parade ground, site of a former American air force base during the Second World War.

The Newfoundland Regiment, which fought in both the First and Second World Wars, performed the trooping ceremony. The Queen Mother was welcomed to the parade ground by the honorary colonel of the regiment, Sir Leonard Outerbridge, the first lieutenant-governor of Newfoundland after it became a province.

Following the ceremony, the Queen Mother presented the Canadian forces decoration to the regiment's honorary lieutenant-colonel, Mr. Albert M. Martin.

A thousand Newfoundland school children, including a large contingent of brownies, cubs, guides and scouts, gave the Queen Mother a rousing welcome when she attended a children's rally Thursday morning at Memorial Staduim. She told them, in a brief speech, that in Canada's Centennial Year "the emphasis has been on youth because it is on you that the future depends."

I.Q.

Q. DO YOU ASSUME THAT UNLESS YOU CAN SEE A FLAW WITH THE NAKED EYE, A DIAMOND IS FLAWLESS?

A. Flaws or inclusions that can be seen with the un-aided eye, obviously mar the beauty of a diamond. Only when there is no flaw visible under 10-power magnification should a diamond properly be called "flawless." As members of the American Gem Society, we have been trained to determine a diamond's clarity exactly, and show you exactly. New Rescue Attempt Under Way

Hostages Held By Mercenaries

KINSHASA, The Congo (Reuters)—The Red Cross launched today an operation to rescue a group of hostages, including at least 20 Europeans, held by rebel mercenaries in their jungle retreat.

A Red Cross transport plane was due to land today in Punia, a forest town about 150 miles south east of Kisangani, formerly Stanleyville, in the second attempt to rescue the hostages.

The mercenaries, believed to number about 100, fled into the jungle from Kisangani after Congolese troops crushed their rebellion last week.

Reports on the number and nationalities of the hostages have varied. But some 16 Belgian hostages are reported to have flown to Portuguese Angola earlier this week in a mercenary aircraft.

President Joseph Mobutu, in a message to the mercenaries, has asked them to lay a white cloth on the airstrip at Punia if they agree to the evacuation of the hostages, and a black one if they refuse.

IN NIGERIA

Register For Safety, Rebels Told

LAGOS (Reuters)—Ibo tribesmen from Nigeria's breakaway eastern region living in Lagos were urged today to register with federal authorities "in their own interests" following bomb explosions in the Nigerian capital.

Radio Nigeria broadcast a call from Ibo community leaders telling members of the dominant tribe in the east to register at three centres in the capital.

In another broadcast, the radio described a bomb attack on a Lagos suburban telephone exchange Wednesday night, in which at least five persons were killed and 64 injured, as a "premediated act of irresponsible terrorism."

Federal authorities previously blamed terrorists from the breakaway east, which proclaimed itself the independent republic of Biafra six weeks ago, for two other attacks in the last three weeks.

BAR CHEATING JAILS GIRL EIGHT YEARS

WARSAW (Reuters)—A Polish barmaid was given an eight-year prison sentence and three leading Warsaw restaurant managers seven years each for cheating customers, the Warsaw newspaper Trybuna Ludu says.

House Arrest For Newsman In Peking

HONG KONG (Reuters) — China decided today to restrict the personal freedom of Reuters' Peking correspondent, Anthony Grey, as a reprisal for the "unjustified persecution" of Communist reporters by the British authorities in Hong Kong.

Peking radio said the Chinese government told Grey that he will not be allowed to leave his residence in Peking until further notice.

Today's action by the Peking authorities followed a two-year prison sentence imposed on a correspondent of China's official news agency, the New China news agency, in Hong Kong.

Correspondent Hsieh Ping was arrested during the current wave of Communist-led anti-British demonstrations in the British colony.

He was sentenced Wednesday on charges of unlawful assembly and taking part in an intimidating assembly.

Seven other reporters from the New China news agency and leftist newspapers in Hong Kong also have been arrested and charged with unlawful assembly.

Grey, 29, was assigned to Peking in March this year after serving as Reuters correspondent in East Berlin.

VISA CANCELLED

Peking radio said he was summoned to the Chinese foreign ministry today to be told of the restrictions on his free movement. He also was told that the government has cancelled the visa it issued to him.

The radio quoted a foreign ministry spokesman as saying that the arrest of Communist correspondents in Hong Kong was a "grave political provocation" against the Chinese people by the British government and the Hong Kong authorities.

Enter Mr. Stanfield

NOVA SCOTIA PREMIER ROBert Stanfield's entry into the Progressive Conservative Party leadership race and the imminent break by Alberta Premier E. C. Manning with the federal Social Credit movement in order to back the Conservatives are two events which could have great impact on the Canadian political scene.

Mr. Stanfield with his reputation as a successful and moderate politician, not tarnished by the party bickering which has plagued the Conservatives for so many years, could be just the kind of attractive figure which convention delegates might decide could lead them out of the political wilderness. Although he is not too well known, perhaps, in most parts of Canada, this may not necessarily be a handicap for Mr. Stanfield. His opposition at the leadership convention has, with a couple of exceptions, been over-exposed to the Canadian public.

Mr. Stanfield's greatest strength, however, will undoubtedly be that he is a winner. Never mind that the Tories have been notably unsuccessful with leaders from the ranks of provincial premiers — Mr. Drew and Mr. Bracken, for example — for there is nothing to say a breakthrough cannot be made. Ending 23 years of Liberal rule in Nova Scotia in 1956 and holding strongly to power since gives Mr. Stanfield an aura of leadership success which none of his opponents possess. If he can't capture the top party post, at least Mr. Stanfield is going to be very influential in the wheeling and dealing that will be going on in the "smoke-filled rooms" and on the convention floor.

Certainly his candidacy will discomfit a number of the contenders. Mr. Donald Fleming particularly will feel his support ebbing away to the Nova Scotian and Mr. Diefenbaker could well have had his mind made up for him on whether to contest or not by Mr. Stanfield's entry.

...And Waiting in the Wings

THE NEW DIRECTION TAKEN by Premier Manning in an attempt to influence the federal scene, described by Ottawa columnist Mr. Peter Newman on page one today, may have a stronger impact on the Conservative Party—and on Canadian politics—over the long term than the choice of a leader this fall. It should be noted, incidentally, that the timing of Mr. Manning's book and the fact that he will be a speaker at the Conservatives' pre-convention "thinkers" meeting next month indicate that he is not disinterested in the outcome of the leadership race.

The Manning decision to give up all hope for the Social Credit Party as a national force is a logical outcome of Social Credit's national failure as well as the Alberta premier's abandonment over the years of Social Credit doctrine in favor of what can best be called an old-fashioned conservatism. His evident hope is that by joining forces with the Conservatives nationally — and bringing with him some new political and financial resources—he can bring about the evolution of a new party which would polarize Canadian politics into distinct right and left groupings which would offer voters a clear choice of ideologies. There may well be a fallacy in this kind of thinking since the whole history of Canadian politics has shown that Canadians are not by nature extremists and they have generally preferred the centre rather than the options to left and right.

If the Conservative Party accepts the Manning embrace it will be at the risk of losing its progressive wing and there is room for doubt that Mr. Manning could make up in numbers the adherents thus lost. In his own stronghold, the voters who support Social Credit provincially mostly vote Conservative federally now, so the gain would be small. Outside of British Columbia —which would be an enigma until Mr. Manning's drawing power, and Premier Bennett's influence, were tested in a federal election — the Social Credit vote is not an important factor.

A possible outcome of the Manning move would be to push the more progressive Conservatives into the Liberal Party as a reaction against the right-wing policies which the Alberta premier appears to espouse. Whether this would happen would depend on the temper of the times but given the predilection of Canadians for meeting in the centre, it is a possibility which the Conservatives will have to consider carefully before they welcome Mr. Manning into their midst.

Cowichan Lake Precedent

A REPORT FROM LAKE COWIchan emphasizes the surprise of a Crown Zellerbach official over the number of deadheads in the lake itself.

These partly submerged logs are considered a serious hazard to recreation seekers who travel the lake in small craft, and the company has agreed to mark them with flags pending their recovery, either for sale to lumber yards or to pulp interests.

The situation draws attention not only to the presence of deadheads in Cowichan Lake. It serves to remind waterfront users around this city—and elsewhere on the Island—of the intrusion of break-away logs that are now clogging some of the beaches and, when floating, are increasing the dangers of boating generally.

At Cowichan a commercial concern is engaged in removing the logs, hopefully for profit. The action is one that could form a precedent in other areas where trunks have broken away from booms and now, instead of being commercially valuable, create a public nuisance.

No University Racism

THE STATEMENT BY MRS. Shirley Baker, housing co-ordinator for the University of Victoria, has made it perfectly clear that racial discrimination has no place whatever in the policy of the university.

Her frank explanation of the regrettable insertion of a phrase, "white only", on forms for students' lodgings off campus clears up any suggestion of discrimination at Gordon Head. That phrase has been eliminated, although it was originally intended to spare some foreign students embarrassment when applying for quarters. "It was a case of doing the wrong thing for the right motive," says Mrs. Baker, accepting responsibility.

But if the policy has been defined explicitly, this does not solve the problem of accommodation for students of all origins. A severe shortage of living quarters faces the university when term starts in September. The university is attracting a swelling volume of students, but it can meet the requirements of the out-of-town young men and women only if they can find somewhere to live during the academic year.

FROM AMMAN

By GAVIN YOUNG

An Emotional Urge for Triumphal Battle

"DO you think there's going to be another war?" It is a question asked countless times in Jordan and Lebanon, eagerly and in a tone that pleads for reassurance and the comforting answer: Yes. As Israel's Hawks and Doves squabble over whether or not to annex this or that part of occupied Arab territory, Arabs live through a period of agonising anticipation. What positive action can their own leaders take? Is there any way to wrest the initiative away from the Israelis?

In the weeks since the war, Arab businessmen, teachers, students, refugees, soldiers and politicians — even waiters and taxi drivers — have done little else but exhaust themselves emotionally in endless arguments about what should or should not be done.

Until quite recently the strongest arguments centred upon the hope of immediate rearmament and an attack on Israel. In the aftermath of defeat, all that many Arabs could conclude from the Sinai and Jordanian campaigns was that to strike first from the air — all other factors notwithstanding — meant instant victory. Therefore, it was concluded, all the Arabs had to do was quickly to build up a force of aircraft with the capability of carrying a bomb to Tel Aviv, launch it into the Israeli skies early one morning and wait for the Israelis to collapse.

This may sound like an absurd exaggeration. But in fact Arabs of various backgrounds and nationalities have expressed this idea to me in the post-war weeks. The news that the Soviet Union had supplied Egypt with some 200 aircraft to replace those destroyed by the Israelis immeasurably raised the spirits of the Arabs who, understandably, felt that military humiliation could only be wiped out by some sort of military success. Perhaps more than most races, the Arabs like to think of themselves as a warrior people.

Martial Appeal

It is no doubt for this reason that the militant radios of Cairo, Damascus and from time to time Baghdad, have habitually appealed to the martial side of the Arab emotions.

Thus many Arabs are ill-prepared emotionally for the sort of long-drawn out diplomatic manoeuvring that seems to be in prospect for the next few months. It will be too undramatic. It requires too much patience.

"Is there no short cut?" Arabs ask one with rising irritation. "Do we have to sit around and talk while Israel flouts the United Nations resolution condemning the annexation of Jerusalem and consolidates her other gains — the fruits of aggression?" For there are very few Arabs of any class who accept for one minute that Israel was provoked into defensive war by Arab threats. If that is the only view of things from Western Europe and if it is responsible for the opinion polls now appearing in the Western Press that show 90 per cent solidly behind Israel and only 4 per cent pro-Arab, it is as well to point out that perhaps only 4 per cent of Arabs — excluding the leadership — understand on what those Western points of view are based.

Even Arabs who now see that an early resumption of hostilities is probably out of the question will not accept the present situation. No Arab leader could survive a deal with Israel. King Hussein whose country has suffered most in being chopped in two might, in ideal circumstances, hammer out some long term agreement directly, or indirectly with the Israeli leaders. As things are, he has made quite plain he cannot think of such a thing.

Today, it seems as if the Egyptians are prepared to play cautiously for time. One of President Abdul Nasser's close friends, Mohamed Hassanein Haykal, the editor of the influential Cairo daily newspaper Al Ahram, has recently touched on the need for a new realism in Arab political, tactical thinking; even for the establishment of more permanent bridges with Western Europe, though rapproachement with the United States is apparently unthinkable—still more so since America abstained on the one resolution to pass the General Assembly and which condemned Israel's move to annex Jerusalem.

Gains Unacceptable

But there is no question of Egypt accepting Israel's major territorial gains. Other countries are in full cry against Israel and any Western countries believed to have helped her: Algeria, for example, has not agreed to any cease-fire, and Syria's wildly erratic and extreme Left "socialist" regime cannot, even if it wanted to, abandon its all-out militancy.

What then, Arabs ask, can Israel expect to gain in the long term out of efforts to weld the West Bank of Jordan in a Palestinian State, linked perhaps federally to Israel? Jordanians and others believe this is happening. Reports from Israel confirm that the Israeli Government is moving up to 250,000 refugees from the Gaza strip into "empty" refugee camps in the Jericho Valley on the West Bank. These camps are only empty today because the 80,000 refugees who have been living in them since 1948 have fled to the East of Jordan. Yet presumably these must be allowed to go back — or do the Israelis intend them to be sent off to other Arab countries as a way of "eliminating" at least that human part of the refugee problem?

What seems clear is that all these manoeuvres, if real, will not moderate Arab attitudes to Israel; rather, they may further inflame them so that later Arabs in a West Bank "Palestine" could be used as a dangerous fifth column by Arab States. They could become (as Mao Tse-tung might put it) the "sea" in which infiltrating Arab 'fedayeen' could safely "swim." The result would be fresh bloodshed, possibly war.

Hopes of Moderation

On the other hand, moderate Arabs and foreign observers here believe that less Israeli intransigence and a few statesmanlike gestures from Tel Aviv to alleviate Arab refugee misery and Arab governmental fears of Israeli expansionism, might make things easier for all those, Russians, moderate Arabs and Israelis and others, who hope that the traumatic events of early June might provide an opportunity for a whole new series of agreements, hopefully leading to a long period of peace.

If, by digging in her toes and trying to solve the Palestine problem on her own, Israel makes it impossible for Arab Governments like Egypt and Jordan to accept any kind of quid pro quo settlement via third parties (perhaps the UN), those vociferous Arabs who hanker for military action — or guerrilla action — will grow in influence. The danger of another conflict, in one, two or five years time will be considerably increased. And in the interim, those Arab governments which still harbour at least a modicum of friendship for the West might be swept away on the tide of extremism bred of inescapable humiliation.

Letters to the Editor

Thanks for the Hospitality

On many occasions during our Pacific Naval Assembly I have received from the officers and men of the visiting Japanese and United States ships very sincere and favourable comments on the warm hospitality and friendship extended by the citizens of Greater Victoria.

I would appreciate an opportunity to express my thanks and appreciation to the very large number of people who have been so kind and generous in giving time and effort to make our visitors welcome. Each small and individual gesture has been very much appreciated by our guests and has helped to make their stay a most enjoyable and memorable event. They have sailed away with a very fine impression of the people of Victoria and citizens of Canada which can only help the good relations between our respective citizens.

It is my pleasure and privilege to thank so many citizens of Greater Victoria for all that they have done.—J. A. Charles, Rear-Admiral, Maritime Commander (Pacific).

A Tot of Brandy

After reading the detailed report on liquor operation and profit by John Mika, I cannot help wondering why our government, that can raise the price of liquor, make a huge profit and raise the pay of the liquor commissioner, cannot afford an act of kindness toward the senior citizens of the province.

Among the elderly, there are people who for the privilege of having been born too early, today live on a scanty pension —people, who using thrift, manage to stay out of welfare.

Nevertheless, personal budgets can receive a severe jolt when sickness arrives, with the price of medicine and pills and when a doctor suggests that a bottle of brandy will be helpful.

I have had to buy pills to be used four a day at 40c each; pills three a day at 75c each. How long can our limited budget last? Now the brandy.

Please give us at least two bottles of liquor per month at cost. It will be a blessing to many. A. Randy, 3318 Oak St.

To the Well-informed

I only wish to attract your attention, upon a mistake often made in reference to those two, Prince and Princess of Monaco."

Why do so many people refer to them as a Royal pair?

Royalty is to be treated as such, when kings and queens come to visit our land.

But to call the Prince of Monaco a king and his wife queen is, to the well informed, ridiculous to the extreme. Dr. Frederic Bronner, 976-B Humboldt.

Looking Back

From The Times of July 21, 1907:

News has just reached the city of the wreck of the steamer Ptarmigan on the Columbia River.

The ship struck a rock on the river between Golden and Windermere, tearing a giant hole in the hull and the vessel quickly filled with water.

Over 100 passengers were on board at the time but all managed to get ashore safely with the help of the crew.

Soon after the passengers had escaped a fire broke out in the smokestack of the ship.

Hand-Outs

By MAURICE WESTERN from Ottawa

Western

THE greatest growth industry of centennial Canada is government and the key to success in our ever-more dynamic civil service (guidance teachers please note) is the ability to work out formulae for the distribution of government grants. One of the youngest but most ambitious departments in Ottawa is industry. Presided over since birth by C. M. Drury, it is crowded with eager young bureaucrats intent on bringing in the benefits of the welfare state to backward businessmen. It is dedicated to the interesting proposition that, given the right formula, all parts of the country can be brought to common and desirable levels of prosperity and contentment.

All things have small beginnings. When the area development program was initiated in 1963, there were 35 designated areas. It is a curious fact that the more prosperous the country gets, the more areas Mr. Drury designates. Thus the revision of 1965 (when the economy was practically bursting at the seams) produced 81 designated areas and a splendid new centennial effort by the minister's experts has now brought the number to 95.

If Mr. Drury survives we can probably look forward to a time when all Canada will be a designated area.

There are two reasons why prosperity increases the number of depressed areas. The first, official, reason is that the original formulae were imperfect. There has been constant improvement with officials working late at night collecting overtime. The second reason is political pressure.

Happily Varied

For people with a talent for formulae, work in Mr. Drury's department must be sheer delight. Not only has it been possible to work out eight distinct criteria (some of them with provisos) for determining eligible areas; it has also been discovered that the formulae for handouts can be varied in many interesting ways.

In addition there is area flexibility. Strictly speaking this is not a Drury discovery. It goes back to the times of the late Mr. James Gardiner and the put-in-take-out principle of the Prairie Farm Assistance Act. So we now have "manpower centre areas" which may be cities, towns, countries, or census areas. In Newfoundland, there is a put-in principle involving a lake and a parallel of latitude. There is also a put-out principle to exclude the North.

It is possible in a brief space merely to skim over criteria, on which much thought has obviously been expended. Without doubt, however, literature is available from the department for any businessman interested in obtaining up to $5 million from the government for the purpose of establishing a facility in an uneconomic area. Attention is also directed to an encouraging "note" which says: "Development grants are exempt from federal income tax and do not reduce the amount of capital cost which may be used for tax purposes. Special accelerated depreciation allowances may also be taken for tax purposes on the new buildings and equipment on which the approved capital grants are based."

If this fails to check the drift of businessmen to the NDP, wait for the next revised alternative formulae.

It has long been recognized in Ottawa that any minister with a new program has to start out with restrictions; otherwise, even in these free and easy days, there may be panic on the Treasury Board. The trick is to surround oneself with civil servants so versed in their craft that over a period they can reduce the restrictions to the invisibility.

How well Mr. Drury has succeeded a few examples will show.

Eligibility

According to the first listed criterion, an eligible area must have had an unemployment rate twice that of the national average over the past five years. This is made a bit less harsh by Criterion 2, which says that the unemployment rate may be only 50 per cent above average if it can be shown that the rate of employment growth is less than two-thirds of the national average rate.

Reading a bit farther, however, we learn that an area may be eligible if, for the most recent five years, there has been a decline in the level of employment.

Nothing here about national averages. Nothing about the amount of decline. If a boom area is booming only a little less than it boomed five years ago, Mr. Drury stands ready to help stricken businessmen with hand-outs.

For entrepreneurs who still can't qualify, all is not lost. An area cursed with prosperity may still have the good fortune to be located close to one which is lagging in a relative sense. It may then be grouped, qualifying as a constituent of an area "traditionally recognized as a distinct geographic and economic region." With a little digging businessmen should be able to uncover all sorts of traditions, forgotten over the years. They can write to Mr. Drury or their local MP.

The minister, in announcing the new criteria, expresses his gratification with the new program. He mentions various encouraging statistics, including the fact that more than 700 applications have now been approved.

One may suspect that the instinct for profit is as high in the business community as it is among the civil servants of the department of industry.

Zany Caribbean Situation Has Threatening Overtones

By LAURENCE STERN

ANGUILLA, West Indies—It is all too tempting to cast it as a comic opera, a Ruritanian happening, this spectacle of little Anguilla becoming Britain's first ex-colony to seek reunion with the Crown.

But there are overtones of serious trouble in the circumstances that caused 6,000 normally gentle Anguillans on this patch of coral debris to cut themselves loose from the central government, 70 miles away.

Aside from its 15-man ruling council, the island has little in the way of formal civil government. Since the breakaway from the central government of Premier Robert Bradshaw, the Anguillans have flown the Union Jack, the flag of San Francisco which was donated by an admiring newspaper editor from that city, and now no flag at all. The island is, in a sense, a stateless state.

Pressing Its Case

Anguilla is pressing its case for affiliation with the rest of the world both in London and at the United Nations. Its leaders have already appealed to the United States and to Canada to adopt it as foster parents but both deferred to Britain's seniority as colonial proprietor of Anguilla for the past 300 years.

And Britain takes the view that the thunder on the islands is purely an internal matter for the newly emancipated states to solve.

All this has led to a seriocomic escalation of both offensive and defensive actions on both sides. The Anguillans, fearful of invasion by Bradshaw's lilliputian navy and air force, are ready at a moment's notice to block the island's airstrip with metal drums and automobiles. Rifles and revolvers are legion on the island.

And, in the capital city of Basseterre on St. Kitts, there are persistent reports of arms shipments flown in by night from Antigua.

Bradshaw has imposed near martial law on the island and has sworn in 1,962 "special constables". Some apprehensive residents of Basseterre liken the special constables to the Ton Ton Macoute organized by Haitian dictator Francois Duvalier.

"Man, there is intrigue all around this city," said one well-known Kittitian. "People are terrified to talk."

Another implored: "Please, in the name of God, don't use any names if you write about this. They have thugs who will cut your throat gladly for 25 cents."

Bradshaw refuses to see reporters these days on grounds that the British and American press have projected a harsh and unfair image of him to the outside world. "He went out of his way to talk to reporters but he feels it is pointless," explains the bearded young minister of education, Fitzroy Bryant.

Bradshaw's obsessive concern with security and his turn toward more and more "emergency" measures has given rise to fears that the island is heading toward a Haitian style regime.

Rigid restrictions have already been imposed on public meetings in St. Kitts. Airport police have begun impounding movie cameras and tape recorders carried by incoming visitors.

Spirits Are High

Word is around that the central government is trying to import helicopters from private American suppliers. Helicopter landings would be the only way to circumvent the simple but effective blockade of Anguilla's airstrip.

But any attempt at military seizure could plunge the island chain into a frightening blood bath. Anguillan spirits are high, especially after the intoxication of newly-proclaimed independence.

To help guide them through the legal perils of new statehood, several well-to-do Anguillans hired Harvard constitutional law Professor Roger Fisher, who flew down from his vacation home in Martha's Vineyard to observe the general election.

"As an international lawyer," Fisher explained, "I was interested in the problem of the mini-state, say the typical former colony, that is too small to maintain its own civil service. And then, suddenly, along came Anguilla."

Political Handicappers Give Fulton Best Chance

By GERALD WARING

Waring

OTTAWA — Davie Fulton would appear to have the best chance of becoming the new Conservative Party leader, on the strength of a sample poll of members of the Parliamentary Press Gallery, taken before Nova Scotia Premier Robert Stanfield entered the race.

Donald Fleming placed second in the poll tabulation.

There were six well-known contenders for the Tory leadership when the survey was conducted last weekend, with the prospect that the six might be augmented by the belated candidatures of John Diefenbaker, Duff Roblin or Mr. Stanfield.

Thus it might be entirely misleading to suggest that a Fulton lead over Fleming on the first ballot would necessarily be maintained in succeeding ballots, after the dropping of low men and the redistribution of their support among those still in the race.

The parliamentary newsmen who gave serious attention to the straw poll ballot rated George Hees as third most likely to win. He was followed closely by Alvin Hamilton in fourth position, while Mike Starr and Wallace McCutcheon trailed well behind the rest of the field.

Sixty per cent of the recorded ballots gave Fulton the best chance to win, on the strength of opinion of the course of the leadership race seven full weeks before the convention, while 32 per cent favored Fleming.

However, an impressive number of those polled said they would change their minds if Diefenbaker, Roblin or Stanfield were candidates.

Forty-five per cent said Stanfield would have the best chance, while 50 per cent said Roblin would have the best chance. Thirty-nine per cent said Diefenbaker could knock off any of the currently avowed candidates. Only 26.3 per cent thought the Old Chief could take Roblin, while 31.6 per cent thought he could beat Stanfield.

In all the ballots there was only one write-in, for Dalton Camp.

A certain regional polarization is apparent in the opinions expressed. They placed the two westerners, Fulton and Hamilton, first and fourth, with two Torontonians, Fleming and Hees, second and third.

Starr, from Oshawa, and McCutcheon, from Toronto, were suggested as the first casualties in convention balloting. The subsequent disposition of their support, perhaps mainly between Fleming and Hees, might put Fleming in the lead. Alternatively, it might push Hees into a position closer to Fulton and Fleming.

In the latter event, the decisive factor might then be the appeal of the candidates to delegates outside their home bases.

What is the significance of the poll results? They clearly represent no more than the opinions, the feelings, the political intuition of men who are specialists in the observation of the workings of party politics. They cannot take into account the many "X" factors that will influence the final result, such as addition or withdrawal of candidates, or the dropping of candidates on second and subsequent convention ballots, and the consequent realignments of convention support. But with those reservations, they do show which way the parliamentary correspondents believe the Tory wind is blowing.

Sharp-Tail Snake Spotted Only to Disappear Again

By DR. CLIFFORD CARL
Director, Provincial Museum

Carl

For several seasons around the year 1860 while HMS Plumper was engaged in surveying parts of the British Columbia coastline, Dr. David Lyall, the ship's surgeon, spent part of his time ashore collecting natural history specimens in what must have been an exciting new world. Many of the plants and animals he picked up were first records for this part of the coast and a good many were undescribed species, as was discovered years later when the material was critically examined at the British Museum.

Among the animal specimens which this naturalist collected on Vancouver Ialand was a small reptile called the sharp-tailed snake because it ends with a conical spur. This creature is of special interest not only because of its unusual structure and habits but because not one has been collected on Vancouver Island since that time.

It seems incredible that a snake could be collected by a casual visitor, for Dr. Lyall could not have had much time for that type of work, and not be taken again during the next 100 years. Yet this seems to be so. No further specimen of the sharp-tailed snake has turned up on Vancouver Island despite the large number of naturalists who have worked over the area in recent years.

However it has turned up on one of the Gulf Islands. In 1949 Mrs. John Freeman and the late Mrs. Alan Brooks each collected a sharp-tailed snake on two different occasions on North Pender Island and a year later another one was found by Mrs. Brooks in the same locality. The three specimens were given to the Provincial Museum and they constitute the only examples taken in British Columbia since Lyall's time.

In Oregon and California this little snake is relatively common and it has been found in a couple of isolated localities near Tacoma, Washington. Obviously the British Columbia specimens are at the northernmost edge of the species' range.

Part of the reason this snake is so rarely seen is because it is secretive, hiding most of the time under cover, even underground during dry weather. It seems to prefer damp places along streams in pastures or open meadows and is found in the open only after rain. The Pender Island specimens were actually collected in a garden where regular watering probably kept the ground moist. Moreover, sharp-tailed snakes seem to depend mostly upon slugs for food and these in turn are creatures of damp places.

Another reason why it has been overlooked is that it resembles a garter snake in general appearance; it tends to be reddish-brown or grey on the back with an indistinct yellowish or reddish line on each side. However it has two features by which it can be easily distinguished. Look for a sharp spine on the end of the tail; no other snake has this structure. And on the underside look for a ladder-like pattern of alternating crossbars of black and cream which is also most distinctive. In size the snake may range from eight to 18 inches; the three Pender Island specimens averaged about nine inches long but were probably not full grown.

This little snake also has another unusual habit. When climbing a sloping surface it dips the spur on the end of the tail into the ground to give it added purchase — a most un-snake-like performance.

Almost needless to say, the sharp-tailed snake is entirely harmless. It is relatively slow moving and never attempts to bite.

From now on take a second look at every snake you see on Vancouver Island. If it looks like a sharp-tail, catch it and call the Museum; it may be British Columbia's rarest reptile.

Send questions in natural history to Dr. Cliff Carl, care of the Victoria Daily Times.

CIVILIANS BEAR BRUNT OF WAR

By RICHARD HARWOOD

SAIGON — The civilian population of South Vietnam appears to have suffered twice as many casualties from the war this year than the South Vietnamese army, according to figures released by the government health ministry in Saigon.

The ministry said 21,112 wounded civilians were treated at government hospitals in the first six months of this year. The figure did not include civilians killed outright as a result of military operations, those who died of wounds before they could be hospitalized, or dead and wounded civilians in the extensive areas of Vietnam under the control of the Vietcong.

It is assumed, on the basis of previous estimates by the Saigon government, that one person is killed for every two persons hospitalized. If that assumption is correct, at least 10,000 civilians were killed from Jan. 1 to June 30, exclusive of the victims in areas under Vietcong control.

That would raise the known civilian casualty total to more than 30,000 in the first half of 1967. Total American military casualties in the entire year of 1966 were about 26,000 including 3,746 dead.

Up to mid-June of this year, casualties sustained by the armed forces of the Saigon government totalled 15,776 which were broken down as follows: 4,714 killed; 10,114 wounded; 948 missing.

There are no estimates available from either the health ministry or the American mission on the number of civilians wounded or killed in areas under enemy control. But the presumption is that far heavier casualties are sustained in Vietcong areas than in areas under Saigon's control because of the persistent bombing and artillery attacks on those areas.

There are also no estimates on which side in this war is responsible for the heavy civilian toll.

NEW REPUBLIC

Young as they are, the Jaycees who heard President Johnson in Baltimore must have been carried off in a flood of nostalgia — back to the Eisenhower era of cook-outs and positive thinking. It was a gloriously old-fashioned, Fourth of July speech. The voice was Lyndon's, but it echoed Ike — you never had it so good. The Jaycees cheered, whistled, cranked sirens, for in their middle-class hearts, they knew he was right: "criticism is no doubt good for the soul, but we must beware that it does not upset our confidence in ourselves"; we should count our blessings and compare what we have to what our grandfathers had; "the cussers and the doubters (should) be relegated to the rear"; "protesters and peaceniks" who "walked over the tulips" at the Pentagon are a pitiful handful.

They cheered the President's inventory of our national treasures: Our education, our prosperity, our feeding habits are second to none anywhere. "We own half the trucks in the world. We own almost half of the radios in the world. We own a third of all the electricity that's produced in the world. We own a fourth of all the steel. Our health conditions rank favorably with those of other countries in the world. And although we have only about six percent of the population in the world, we have half of its wealth. And bear in mind that the other 94 per cent of the population all would like to trade with us . . . Now I would like to see them enjoy the blessings that we enjoy. But don't you help them exchange places with us, because I don't want to be where they are." There it is. Don't "tear our country down and our flag down," and "more money will be spent on poverty in the United States and trying to do something about it this year by the federal government than we spend on Vietnam."

Further Outbreaks In Ruptured China

By STANLEY KARNOW
The Washington Post

MAO
. . . compromising?

HONG KONG — A pair of important frontier provinces at opposite ends of Communist China are currently erupting in dissidence as local factions fight to resist efforts by Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung and his partisans to undermine their authority.

The turbulent provinces are Southwestern Yunnan, strategically adjoining North Vietnam, and Northeastern Kirin, Manchurian industrial area bordering on the Republic of Mongolia, a Soviet sphere of influence.

The disorder in these disparate regions significantly dramatizes the way unrelated corners of China, motivated by different impulses, appear to be opposing Mao's central control and, in the process, lacerating the country's unity.

Peking's concern with Yunnan was underlined earlier this month when a high-level delegation headed by Vice-Premier Hsieh Fu-Chih flew into Kunming, the province's capital, in an attempt to pacify local civilian and military groups battling each other for power.

Unprecedented Move

It was the first time Mao has sent so prominent a subordinate into a province disrupted by his reckless cultural revolution, and the unprecedented move seems to have been prompted by external as well as internal imperatives.

On the one hand, the military apparatus in Yunnan commands the estimated 50,000 Chinese troops operating inside North Vietnam to protect and repair the railroad connecting Kunming with Hanoi. Built by France when it controlled Indochina, the railway is one of China's two vital supply routes for shipping military equipment, food and other aid to the North Vietnamese.

Thus Peking is not only anxious to curb unrest that might jeopardize that supply route, but is also apparently worried that North Vietnam's leaders may be discouraged by the spectacle of anarchy in what they consider their "rear area."

Reliable reports suggest Hanoi is already disturbed by the convulsions caused in China by the cultural revolution.

Encirclement Tactics

At the same time, the Maoist move into Yunnan is evidently a tactic to encircle Szechuan province, China's largest food-producing region, which has virtually broken away from Peking's domination.

As part of this tactic, Mao seems to be striving to put the rebellious southwest under the aegis of Kweichow, one of the four provinces in China where his supporters have managed to seize power. In his mission to Kunming, Hsieh Fu-chih was accompanied by Li Tsai-han, the new Maoist boss in Kweichow, whose presumed aim was to reorganize the Yunnan apparatus to include his own men.

What is making this operation difficult is the fact that Kweichow is among China's poorest provinces. Consequently, Mao's effort is as unrealistic as, say, an attempt to place California under the control of Nevada.

Overthrow Attempt

The trouble in Yunnan goes back to January, when Mao's followers there tried to overthrow the entrenched provincial Communist party committee. The local party chief, Yen Hung-yen, committed suicide, but his machine fought back with the support of the area's army units.

Months of sporadic skirmishing in Kunming reached a climax late in May when the regional military district's deputy political commissar, Chang Tzu-ming, mobilized 30,000 troops, workers and youths to attack a rally being held by Mao's partisans and the city's medical college.

As Red Guard wall posters told the story, Chang's legion, armed with crowbars, bricks and guns, surrounded the medical school for 20 hours, killing 266 Maoists and wounding over 1,000 as they tried to break the siege.

The fact that Hsieh Fu-chih and his delegation were able to land in Kunming and hold a meeting there indicates that the protagonists in the Yunnan struggle have at least declared a truce.

There is no evidence, however, that they have achieved unity. As a recent radio broadcast from Yunnan put it, "The alliance of the two big factions in the Kunming area is in the initial stage and is now developing further"—a hint that compromise negotiations are proceeding slowly.

In Northeast Kirin province, meanwhile, the old established party apparatus and its military allies are apparently hanging onto their authority against assaults by the Red Guards and other Maoists, whom they have dubbed "counter-revolutionaries" disguised as "extreme leftists".

Judging from a broadcast from Changchun, the capital of Kirin, local Red Guards are smashing and looting shops and offices, burning buildings, and even attacking police and troops as they claim to oppose the province's "bourgeois dictatorship."

Major Battle

In addition to sabotaging Changchun's water supply and electric power plant, the broadcast said, the self-styled "leftists" also beat up soldiers in a manner "so inhuman that it could not bear to be seen."

As in Yunnan, fighting has been going on in Kirin for months, mainly between provincial Red Guards and Peking youngsters on one side, and the party machine defending itself.

A major battle reportedly occurred early in May when thousands of workers at the Soviet-built Changchun automobiole factory, the largest in China, left their jobs to storm and wreck a university, industrial institute and junior high school believed to be headquarters of the young Red Guards.

Consistent with the way situations in many parts of China have reversed themselves, the Changchun workers and their party supporters are asserting themselves as the true "revolutionaries" while calling the Red Guards traitors to Mao's cause.

Clearly unable to come to grips with the confusion in Kirin, Peking has so far been silent. As in Yunnan, however, Mao may be tempted to try to compromise with the party apparatchiks he has failed to overthrow.

Catastrophe Threatening Prairie Crops

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The long, hot summer may be appreciated by vacationers but it has raised the spectre of a Prairie crop failure which could affect the country's economy.

Scorching weather has plagued Prairie farmers for the last week and the 80-degree plus readings added to a month-long drought have sapped moisture from fast-maturing crops.

Some fallow crops in Saskatchewan are showing signs of burning and the last vestiges of moisture are being drained from Alberta crops. Crops in Manitoba are fair to good, but rain is needed.

In Regina Thursday, Premier Ross Thatcher said the province's drought threat was "sufficiently critical" to warrant federal aid. He intends to discuss the situation when he meets Prime Minister Pearson today.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, in Saskaoon Thursday, said predications now being made indicate a "drought of catastrophic proportions is with us again. . . ."

OUTLOOK GRAVE

The Saskatchewan wheat pool said crop prospects in the heart of the grain belt are the poorest since 1961. That year the wheat yield was 124,000,000 bushels, or 8.2 an acre compared with last year's record 546,000,000 bushels, 27.7 an acre.

One wheat pool agent said rain that fell in the Prince Albert region did little more than "refresh" the air and the situation now is "grim." Precipitation in the area since the start of the year has been less than 30 per cent of normal.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics, in its latest crop report, says "good rains are required immediately."

In Alberta the agriculture department said despite almost critical conditions well-fertilized summer fallow crops were expected to show an average yield.

In Winnipeg, The Free Press, in a crop summary prepared from reports across the Prairies, said the total Prairie wheat yield likely won't be much more than half last year's record 844,000,000 - bushel harvest.

CROPS THREATENED

But federal government officials Thursday said the threatened crop failure should not jeopardize Canada's ability to fill its wheat export commitments, but it could seriously affect the economy.

Anything significantly less than this year's prediction would force the economists to reduce this spring's projection that the gross national product will run to $60,152,000,000.

A crop failure would affect rail traffic and port handling activity, result in less farm machinery purchases and reduced retail sales across the Prairie.

Last year Saskatchewan farmers pocketed an income of $670,000,000 and farm income was $567,000,000 in 1963. This compared with $100,000,000 in 1961 when the wheat and coarse grains crop was less than 500,000,000 bushels.

SEDATE PAIR ESCAPE FATE OF NEWLYWEDS

REEDPORT, Ore. (AP) — Something came between a Fairview, Okla., man and his wife while they were vacationing in Oregon — a 200-pound rock.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Winter, both in their 50s, were driving along the Pacific Ocean near Redport Wednesday when the boulder fell down a steep embankment, crashed through the top and windshield of their car, and landed between them on the front seat.

Winter suffered a scratched hand. His wife suffered from shock.

Policeman Darrell Jolley Jr., said: "If they'd been newlyweds, one of them would certainly have been killed."

BEATLE John Lennon said the group will make a movie later this year but "We'll do it without a director, perhaps even without a scriptwriter writer . . . it will grow as we go along."

Man, Slanguage Makes Most Bods Weak

DETROIT (AP) — Bring your bod over tomorrow and we'll hop in my pig, catch the rays and have a boss time.

If that makes sense to you, then you're hip which is an outdated word to the latest in teen-age talk, which they call slanguage.

The bod is the body—yourself; the pig is a car that looks powerful but has a small engine; catching the rays is getting a suntan; and boss is the same as great.

A Detroit News survey of teen-age talk uncovered these gems, and more.

For example: I'm weak means I'm shocked; bag it means forget it; freak means fine; jacked up means ruined; just can't cut it means just can't bear it.

Pressure Grows For U.S. Shift In Arms Sales

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach says the Johnson administration is "taking a good hard look" at its role as a major supplier in the world's growing arms traffic.

KATZENBACH
. . . second look

But Katzenbach cautioned: "That doesn't necessarily mean it thinks its been wrong in the past, or that anything's going to change overnight. It's an awfully complicated problem—one that involves different kinds of problems in different parts of the world."

The administration's arms-export policy has come in for increasing congressional criticism since the sixday Middle East war. Senators have talked to legislative restrictions on arms sales to potentially explosive areas. A House of Representatives committee is studying the role of the Export-Import Bank in financing secret arms deals.

NO CHANGES HINTED

So far, Pentagon and state department sources indicate, there has been no hint of a major change in the policy under which the United States has sold or given away $46,100,000,000 in military hardware since 1949.

The business - as - usual atmosphere continues despite two government - financed reports by a private consulting organization that indicate:

—The weapons used in virtually every one of a dozen regional conflicts since the Second World War have come from outside sources—primarily the arsenals of the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France.

—While more nations will begin producing their own hardware in the next decade, "the majority of local conflicts will be fought primarily with imported weapons."

—The introduction of weapons into already tense regional situations has not infrequently "provoked or hastened the outbreak of fighting."

SIGN OF BUILDUP

—The end of one regional conflict usually is the signal for a renewed arms buildup that leads almost inevitably to further fighting at a more dangerous level.

—Unless there is co - operation among major powers to curtail arms deliveries, arms traffic will continue to a point where, for example, strategic ballistic missiles may be deployed through the Middle East by the early 1970s.

The reports were prepared by Browne and Shaw Research Corp., of Waltham, Mass., a regular defence department consultant.

In project Diffusion, a study of the worldwide spread of combat planes and missiles, the organization concluded: "The most pressing problem of U.S. military export control policy is the establishment of a more uniform view within the government.

Some official spokesmen are urging industry to increase its export sales of military equipment. Others at a very high level have deplored the costs.

What is the extent of the worldwide traffic in arms?

The United States alone, since 1950, has given other nations 8,540 jet fighters, 20,279 tanks, 30,340 missiles and rockets, 29,716 mortars, 2,100,000 rifles, 1,400,000 carbines, 146,780 machine - guns, 359,423 trucks, 3,698 personnel carriers, 3,292 training planes, 36 destroyers, 24 submarines and 33 tugs.

Big four arms sales to developing nations alone, according to London's Institute of Strategic Studies, total nearly $1,000,000,000 annually, with the Soviets accounting for $400,000,000, the French $200,000,000, and the British and United States $150,000,000 each — apart from $300,000,000 in U.S. grand aid.

International shipments of small arms alone—rifles and machine - guns — have acounted for the transfer of tens of millions of weapons into the arsenals of developing countries since the Second World War, Browne and Shaw estimates.

The Big Four have acounted for 98 per cent of the 5,000 combat jet aircraft sold or given to developing nations, with the Soviets supplying 1,970; the United States 1,540; Britain 1,280; France 420.

These totals do not include 6,500 more U.S. jets shipped to North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies and Japan.

Viet Mission For Two Top LBJ Advisers

By MURREY MARDER
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — President Johson is sending two of his chief advisers to the far east on Saturday to exchange views on Vietnam strategy and troop deployments.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former chairman of the joint chiefs of staff and later ambassador to Saigon, and Clark M. Clifford, chairman of the foreign intelligence advisory board, are the presidential envoys.

The Taylor-Clifford mission wil go first to Saigon, the White House announced, on mission that will take 10 days or more.

From South Vietnam they will go to the other nations contributing forces to the war — South Korea, Australia, The Philippines, Thailand, and New Zealand.

The purpose of their trip was stated in ambiguous terms, resulting in contradictory versions of the motive behind it.

Some sources described it as a troop-pledging mission, specifically directed at soliciting additional troops to augment the new troops the U.S. is adding to the battle.

Other sources characterized the mission as basically an information exchange, to assure sensitive allied nations that their views are being considered in U.S. policy-making.

Cathy Andrews mingled with the Queen's 8,000 guests on the palace lawns.

Miss Andrews, who made the suit herself, works as a secretary in Transport House headquarters of the British Labor party.

Train Kills Nobel Winner In S. Africa

DURBAN, South Africa (Reuters) — Albert Luthuli, Nobel peace prize winner, died today of injuries received when he was struck by a freight train at Stanger, where he was confined.

Stanger is about 30 miles north of Durban.

Luthuli was knocked down by the train on a railway trestle. He had been under confinement in the area since 1959.

Luthuli, 69, was rushed to the Stanger district hospital where he underwent an emergency operation.

EYESIGHT FAILING

It was not immediately known how Luthuli came to be hit by the train, but he has recently been reported in danger of losing his eyesight and had undergone an operation on his eyes earlier this year.

Luthuli was chosen by the Zulus to be their chief, but was dismissed by the South African government in 1952 when he refused to resign from the banned African National Congress, of which he was president.

He was confined to a small area around his Stanger home in 1959, although the government allowed him to go to Oslo in 1961 to receive the Nobel award.

The confinement was extended another five years in 1964.

Luthuli was a mission-trained former schoolteacher and a leader of white-ruled South Africa's African Liberation Movement.

Oil Tanker Owners Claim Bombings Caused Foul-Up

LONDON (AP) — Most of the oil that fouled beaches in southwest Britain after the super-tanker Torrey Canyon ran aground last March 18 was released when British pilots bombed the tanker in an effort to sink it, lawyers for the ship's owners contend.

The assertions was in a letter received Thursday by Col. Patrick Wooton, a landowner who threatened to sue the Barracuda Tanker Corp., a subsidiary of the Union Oil Co. of California.

It was taken by officials in London to indicate the company's defence to a suit by the British government. Britain is asking $9,000,000 compensation for damages and the cost of clean-up operations.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Deterioration of western crops due to dry weather continued to be a major factor in trade on the Winnipeg grain exchange today.

Flax scored broad advances in very active trade. Rapeseed prices showed underlying firmness as July contracts were closed. Oats and barley trade was domestic. Rye prices were steady in light trade.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat all were unchanged except Durham grades which were up three cents.

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures advanced more than two cents on the board of trade today and corn futures again set seasonal lows.

Wheat futures had fluctuated over a narrow range throughout the morning and around noon made a strong move ahead. Large commercial buying set off the advance which also gained momentum over short-covering.

MARKET SUMMARIES

ABC Stock Suffers Jolt

After a delayed opening American Broadcasting suffered a 21-point drop on the New York stock exchange today.

Selling pressure built up on news Thursday that the U.S. justice department had asked an appeals court to overturn approval of the proposed merger of ABC with International Telephone and Telegraph. IT and T held a fractional gain.

Light trading marked today's session on the Toronto market.

AT TORONTO Dominion Bridge lost 1¼ to 17½ and Oshawa A and Versatile Manufacturing lost 1 each to 45½ and 38.

Chrysler of Canada and GMC gained 1½ each to 52 and 91½, Great West Life Assurance 1¼ to 55¼, and Revenue Properties 1⅛ to 11⅛.

The western oil index rose with Banff and Central-Del Rio up 1⅝ each to 15⅞ and 17⅝ and Hudson's Bay and Great Plains ½ each to 39¼ and 16.

Uranium were ahead fractionally with Denison up ¾ to 73¾, Roman Corp., a holding company for Denison, ⅝ to 21⅝, Rio Algom ⅜ to 35½ and Stanrock 25 cents to 4.25.

Golds were up with Kerr-Addison ahead ⅝ to 14⅝, Madsen 7 cents to 1.80 and Dickenson 20 cents to 3.30.

In speculative activity, Northgate and Silverfields lost 20 cents each to 5.90 and 4.30 and Frobex 35 cents to 4.10.

AT MONTREAL the composite index dipped slightly into minus territory in moderate trading today.

Dome Pete remained 1½ points lower at 63 and Dominion Bridge, which said Thursday it expects lower earnings this year compared with last year, moved down 1⅛ points to 17½. Shell Oil slid one point to 30 and Calgary Power ¾ to 23¾. Steinberg's A and Weston A each were off ½ at 19½ and 18⅛ respectively.

AT LONDON equities presented quite a firm appearance on the stock market today, although trading was not large and gains among leaders were small.

In mixed dollar stocks, most Canadian issues were within one point of Thursday's levels. Canadian Pacific and International Nickel firmed up. Canadian banks improved.

The announcement of a merger between Bass and Charrington, two leading breweries, attracted buyers to that section.

Copper shares fell, then rallied well. Profit-taking lowered gold shares but some Australians advanced.

AT VANCOUVER Okanagan Helicopters rose .20 to $3.15 in pre-noon trading.

Commonwealth Acceptance was also better in the industrials and rose .15 to $2.

The mines were weak with Coronet off .10 to $1. Highmont was down .30 to $3; Utica, .10 off at $3.20, and Atlas, .04 weaker at $2.90.

Con Vantor, however, rose .08 to a new high of .42 on 273,000 shares.

PORTAGE DAM OPENING SET FOR SEPT. 12

HUDSON'S HOPE (CP)—A spokesman for the Portage Mountain hydro project said Thursday the massive 600-foot high dam will be completed almost a year ahead of schedule and will be officially opened Sept. 12 by Premier Bennett.

William Findlay, project manager for the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, said first power from the dam will be produced next fall, ahead of forecasts.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Close Eye Kept On Japanese Investment Plans

By AB KENT
Business Editor

Kent

A Vancouver mining executive has been keeping close watch on the direction being taken by new Japanese investment in international mining.

As expressed Wednesday in this column and as warned in B.C. and Yukon Chamber of Mines brief to the federal government countering Carter Commission proposals, there is fear of a cutback in mining exploration and development funds originating in Japan.

To what extent can be appreciated in part by looking at a list of Japanese firms maintaining field offices here.

There are 15 such firms, plus an office of the Japan External Trade Organization, the Japanese consul-general and a Bank of Tokyo Ltd. liaison office.

Their interests in this province alone run into many millions of dollars—an estimated $25 million in mining properties.

The executive, whose company's interests are largely in copper and having close Japanese connections, said there is more Japanese interest in B.C. than in any other part of the mining world.

Naturally the shadow of a recession in mining looms large to the Japanese, whose industry consumes great quantities of iron, steel, copper, zinc, lead, silver and tin as well as non-metallic ores such as coal.

The Canadian mining industry contends that Carter taxation proposals, if adopted, would stifle mining exploration and development, sending risk capital for its expansion to more likely parts of the world.

The government has promised a white paper on implementation of Carter proposals this fall.

Meanwhile the mining industry is busy building a body of opinion against Carter that is destined to keep mining flourishing under government incentives and concessions.

The taxation report came out last winter. In recent weeks the mining executive notes new Japanese interest in these areas:

The Philippines, where Nippon Mining Co. Ltd. is examining a 100,000-ton deposit of .82 per cent copper at Marinduque Copper Mine.

(This ore is of a value similar to that being developed in British Columbia.)

Solomon Islands, where on Bougainville Mitsui Mining and Smelting Co. Ltd., Sumitomo Shoji and Mitusbishi Metal Mining Co. Ltd. are exploring the Crown Prince Range Copper Mine.

Silesia, Poland, where the Japanese copper industry is surveying a 200-million-ton deposit of 2 per cent copper ore, with the intention of helping finance it to production if warranted.

The Congo, where some 30 Japanese mining experts are looking at a high grade copper deposit.

Despite government assurance that no steps would be taken against the mining industry for at least 3½ years, Chamber of Mines manager Thomas Elliott says: "The Carter report hangs like a black cloud over the industry, and some companies have adopted a cautious attitude toward exploration and development."

Implications for the mining industry, under Carter proposals, would have repercussion on the entire economy since mining is worth about $4 billion a year, Mr. Elliott said.

He pointed to the immediate prospect of $400 million mining investment in low-grade B.C. copper and molybdenum properties jeopardized by the report.

Carter failed to consider the special position of mining, requiring massive capitalization in a depreciating asset, Mr. Elliott said.

Vancouver Stock Exchange ranked 11th among 22 North American stock exchanges in value of shares traded last year. It did $319 million worth of business.

A survey by Toronto Stock Exchange—which stood fifth—ranges between $172,000 worth of business done by Colorado Springs Stock Exchange, and the top-ranking New York exchange's $98.6 billion.

Nearest competitor was the American Stock Exchange with $14.6 billion worth of trading.

Chicago's Midwest exchange was third with $3.8 billion, the Pacific Stock Exchange in San Francisco was next with $3.5 billion, and Toronto had $2.8 billion.

Montreal and Canadian exchanges ranked together in seventh and eight place with $1.006 billion.

Calgary did $32 million for 14th place and Winnipeg came 18th with $2.2 million.

Canadian Worker Output Wilting

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal statisticians confirmed Thursday what many economists and federal government leaders have been fearing: The annual growth of output per worker is wilting.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported that its index of productivity in non-agricultural commercial activity rose by only 1.8 per cent in 1966.

This compared with a gain of 2.5 per cent in 1965, and three per cent annually in the three previous years.

The index, based on 1949 output per person employed equalling 100, was 156.3 last year, compared with 153.5 in 1965. In 1961, when the latest expansionary cycle began, it was 137.0.

Both Finance Minister Sharp and the Economic Council of Canada, headed by John J. Deutsch, have warned that a vigorously growing level of productivity should be maintained if Canada is to compete effectively with other countries and have a rising standard of living.

"Advances in productivity," the council said last November in its third annual review of the economy, "are ultimately the key to rising living standards.

"As a consequence of the relatively slower growth in productivity in Canada, average living standards in most of the overseas industrial countries have been moving up closer to Canadian levels."

A finance department official commenting on the DBS report said that since the Second World War, Canada's productivity rate has kept up well with the productivity rate of the United States.

Although Canadian real income per capita is still 20 to 25 per cent below the U.S., Canada has not been falling behind.

NEW ELECTRIC CAR UNVEILED BY FORD

DETROIT (AP)—Ford Motor Co. showed off its prototype of an electric city car Thursday.

Named the Comuta, it's the first to be designed by a major U.S. auto maker specifically for electric propulsion. Ford sees it as primarily a city or shopping car.

The Comuta is powered by four lead-acid batteries, with a fifth run to the car's accessories. It goes 40 miles at 25 miles an hour.

Designed to carry two adults and two children, the Comuta's shape is boxy since there's no engine. The batteries are under the seats and the two electric motors are attached to the rear wheels.

U.K. TAKEOVERS

Business Giants 'Spilling Blood'

LONDON (CP)—Business takeover battles in the normally-genteel world of London's Financial City have become so bruising lately that an emergency crew has been put to work drafting new rules before too much gore is spilled.

Corporate giants have been clouting one another with such gusto that Prime Minister Wilson this week issued a warning, the all-powerful Bank of England waggled an admonitory finger and a working party promptly was turned loose with urgent orders to create a new code of conduct.

Similar codes set up in 1963 and again in 1965 have been punched full of holes recently.

Estimates of company grabs, accomplished or contemplated, run as high as £600,000,000 ($1,800,000,000) and much of this has been to the accompaniment of loud strife.

MERGE BREWERIES

However, none of this applies to the year's biggest merger of them all, announced Thursday, in which Canadian industrialist E. P. Taylor masterminded a £300,000,000 ($900,000,000) marriage between Bass and his Charrington empire to form Europe's biggest brewery concern.

The amalgamation was aimed at having the resources of the two firms—which ranked behind No. 1 Allied Breweries—complement each other. It will give the new Bass-Charrington firm 11,100 pubs, whose tapmen will sell about every fifth pint pulled in England for a total yearly sale of more than £200,000,000.

The merger was dreamed up when Taylor, deputy chairman of Charrington, and Alan Walker, chairman of Bass, took a stroll twice around St. James park three weeks ago. Since then, bankers worked on the scheme without a word leaking out.

Though Walker will head the new holding company and Taylor will be listed only as a director and major shareholder, The Daily Express says the Canadian has become "virtually Britain's 'master brewer.'"

HEADLINE MAKER

The stroke was a top front-page story in most of the national papers. The Daily Telegraph called it "an outstanding example of the virtues of thinking big and simple."

By contrast, other big operations involving struggles for control have had battered antagonists, financial editors and some officials complaining about uncricketlike tactics, shredded ethics and general wear and tear on the public interest.

One of Britain's takeover champions, Sir Jules Thorn of Thorn Electrical Industries, battled it out with Aberdare Holdings for MI, an electrical-mechanical firm with £35,000,000 a year in sales.

Aberdare claims 51 per cent of the MI stock. Moetal Industries, opposed to any takeover but most opposed to Aberdare, then reached into a corporate drawer and came up with 4,720,000 authorized but unissued shares, which it swapped to Thorn for one of his companies.

Exchange to Stay In New York City

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Stock Exchange and city officials have agreed to a tentative plan to cut the city's controversial tax on stock transfers and keep the exchange in the city, the New York Times reports.

The plan needs state and city approval for two proposed changes in the tax, both effective next July 1.

The pact would halve the tax over a period of five years for individuals outside the city buying stocks listed on the exchange.

It also would place a ceiling on the tax due on block transactions by individuals and institutions wherever they are.

The exchange threatened to move out of the city, probably to nearby New Jersey, after the city, with the help of the state legislature, enacted the stock transfer tax increase last year.

The tax ranges from 1¼ cents a share on stocks priced at less than $5 to five cents a share on stocks that sell for $20 or more.

It is a state tax, but the $160,000,000 it raised last year went to the city.

Rocks Go Hammering —Find Aroma of Roses

RICHMOND—Victoria Shamrocks went in here Thursday night with six regulars missing, losers of five of their six previous games and the hangover of a 15-7 embarrassment to New Westminster Salmonbellies fresh in their minds.

And they came out smelling roses.

So help me, George Wainborn, the Rocks whacked, thumped and demolished Salmonbellies 10 12. Now first place is all Victoria's, to have and to hold at least until Saturday. That's when second-place Coquitlam (with 24 points, one behind Victoria) meets Vancouver (two points out of the lead).

Victoria manager Hec McNeill explained Victoria's victory in six words: "They hammered them into the ground."

The lightest team in the Inter-City Lacrosse League, Shamrocks began hitting the 'Bellies after the losers had taken an 8-4 lead.

"They were going after our little guys," McNeill said. "So we went after them. When they heard footsteps that was it for them."

TWO GOALTENDERS

Shamrocks used two goalkeepers, George Grover and Doug Thompson. They stopped a total of 32 shots.

From the 8-4 stage on, Victoria scored 11 of the next 15 goals.

Ranjit Dillon led the carnage with two goals and six assists. He now has 73 points, five more than Coquitlam's Mike Gates to lead the individual scoring derby.

Bill Munroe had four goals and two assists. Glen Vickers, working in Ron Jay's spot, fired four goals. Nirmal Dillon was one and three.

Victoria scored five times on the power play.

Bigelow Man To Overcome

By DON LeBLANC

HALIFAX (CP) — A West Coast physician was favored to win the 1967 Canadian senior golf championship today in the final round of the 54-hole tournament at Ashburn Golf Club here.

Dr. George Bigelow, 57, of Victoria, runner-up to Jack Littler of Port Credit, Ont., in last year's tournament at Brantford, Ont., fired his second two-over-par 69 in as many days Tuesday for a 36-hole total of 138.

"I'd be satisfied with a 69 anytime on this course," he said as he walked off the 5,322-yard layout with a two-stroke lead over Jack Nash, 55, of London, Ont.

Bigelow said an overnight rain would help the course, but the weatherman offered only a slight chance of a shower. Sunny, humid weather was expected for the third day in a row.

"If we don't get rain tonight there will be trouble for everyone tomorrow," said Bigelow, who went out in 34 and fired a 35 on the back nine.

"The approaches to the greens are getting very hard and the balls are bouncing."

FINISHED SECOND

Nash, who finished Wednesday's opening round in a three-way tie for second place with a 72, carded a 35-33—68 for a two-round score of 140.

He had a one-stroke lead over Montrealers Romeo Trudeau and Gordon B. Taylor who slipped to third position with 141s after sharing the early lead with Bigelow.

"I played well, but couldn't get my putts up to the holes," Nash said. "If I get back to my normal putting tomorrow, I'll do all right."

Littler, 59, had a rough time on the front nine and made the turn at a six-over-par 39, picking up a 35 on the back. His 74 dropped him into a fourth place deadlock with Don Anderson of St. Thomas, Ont. who carded a 37-35—72. They each had a 146, eight strokes behind the leader.

W. W. Martin of Brantford and Phil Farley and Hugh Borthwick, both of Toronto, had 147s.

Borthwick and Martin were leading the 60-65 and 65-70 age groups, respectively, while Francois Mavor of Edmundston, N.B., was ahead in the 70- and-over class with a 36-hole total of 162.

Prizes will be awarded for the best score in each group and to the top provincial team.

Bill Wakeham Trails Norman By Five Blows

WINNIPEG—Moe Norman of Toronto, seeking his third straight victory, shot a three-under-par 67 Thursday to take the first-round lead in the 54-hole, $6,700 Manitoba Open golf tournament.

One stroke behind were Bobby Cox of Vancouver, George Shortbridge of St. Paul and Roger Burht of Minneapolis. Also below par, at 69, were Winipeg-pros Stan Homeniuk and Don Harrison.

Billy Wakeham of Victoria, recent winner of the Ontario Open, shot a 38-34 for a 72.

HOCKEY POSITIONS

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has announced the appointment of Pierre Turmel of Ottawa as CAHA administrative assistant and Ken C. Mantin of Truro, N.S., as development co-ordinator.

Seattle Shopping Spree Brought Bonus for Bill

You know how it is with some Canadians.

Bowes' shopping bag literally ran over when he returned from a recent safari South.

In it were:

- Don McKeta, former assistant coach to Jim Owens at University of Washington;
- Fred Forsberg, University of Washington grad; and,
- Steve Bramwell, another UW grid grad.

They will direct Victoria's pro football Steelers.

WILL ALSO PLAY

McKeta is the head man, Forsberg and Bramwell are his aides. Also assisting in the coaching is Joe Carver, former coach of Shearwater Flyers, Canadian intermediate champions.

But sharp shopper Bowes came up with a bonus. Forsberg and Bramwell will play as well as tutor.

Forsberg, 23, is a six-one, 260-pounder, who played as middle linebacker four years for the Huskies. He also had pro time, with Calgary and Denver last year.

Bramwell is the physical antithesis of Forsberg. Also 23, he is a mere five-eight, 145 pounds.

Says Bowes: "Don't sell him short. You have to see him to believe him." What Bowes means is that TNT often comes in small packages.

RECORD HOLDER

Bramwell, a medical student, made the All-American Academic squad in 1964-65. He also excels on the field, holding NCAA career yardage records for kick-off and punt returns and the combined title.

He will handle flanker and kick-return duties for the Steelers.

Drills will be held nightly at 6:30 except Saturdays, when workouts will be held at 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. All workouts are open to the public.

Victoria All-Stars Win Colt Opener

PORTLAND, Ore. — Victoria All-Stars defeated Portland Appaloosa, 7-0, Thursday in the opening game of the Colt League district baseball tournament.

Ralph Anderson pitched a four-hit shutout for Victoria.

Elwood Thomas hit a three-run homer while Larry O'Malley drove in two runs with a pair of singles and Brent Mullins hit a run-scoring sacrifice fly.

Portland Pintos thrashed Dawson Creek, 15-0, in the other game.

Carling Hopes Fade With Shutout Loss

Carlings missed a golden opportunity to move closer to first place Luckies in Men's Senior Softball League action Thursday night at Central Park.

The Carls went down 5-0 to Luckies in the last scheduled league meeting between the teams.

Instead of being a game and a half behind the leaders Carls are now two and a half. Luckies have three league games to play, Carls have four.

Argo Rowers Out in Front

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) —Toronto Argonauts took over command of the Henley regatta Thursday.

Paced by its high-stroking junior 155-pound eight-oared champions, Argos ran up 52½ points for a solid 10-point lead on the Ecorse Boat Club of British Columbia in the second day of competition at this 85th Royal Canadian Henley Regatta.

Colts Draw Again

LONDON (CP)—The Canadian Colts cricket team drew with Repton College in Derbyshire Thursday for its eighth draw in 12 matches of a British tour.

Repton scored 152 for 8 wickets declared in the one-day match, and Colts followed with 114 for 9.

OUT OF GAMES ACE GYMNAST

WINNIPEG (CP) — The United States gymnastic team will be without one of its top performers in the Pan-American Games.

Susan Brown Ousts Champ In B.C. Golf

VANCOUVER (CP) — Susan Brown and Gayle Hitchens, both of Vancouver, met today in the 36-hole final of the B.C. Women's Close golf championship.

Miss Brown won two-up to eliminate defending champion Marylin Palmer of Kamloops in Friday's semi-final play. Miss Hitchens defeated Janet McWha also of Vancouver, 6 and 5 in the other semi-final match.

The amateur golfers playwd the game in a drenching downpour Thursday that resulted in pools of water on greens.

Miss Hitchens three-putted the 17th to go one down and got into trouble on the 18th where she was forced to recover with a left-hand shot.

Belkin Advances

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Foot-sore Canadian Mike Belkin broke through the blistering service of defending champion Cliff Richey and advanced to the semifinals of the national clay court tennis tournament Thursday with a 7-9, 6-2, 6-3, 6-1 victory.

Sizzling 66 Suits Dave Hill Better

DENVER (AP)—Dave Hill, a professional golfer who once managed to record 178 strokes for one round of golf—well, that's the way it came out on his card and he signed it—was in far better circumstances today.

Hill, 30, from the mountain resort town of Evergreen, 30 miles from Denver, led such as Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper into the second round of the $150,000 Professional Golfers Association championship.

Hill got a six-under-par 66 Thursday, a record for the site of this 49th PGA title romp, the 7,436-yard, par 36-36—72 Columbine Country Club course.

Nicklaus, the U.S. Open champion, who banged out five birdies and then an eagle in a seven-hole span finished with a 67 and observed ruefully:

"I wilted. I just got tired and started spraying the ball."

Masters champion Gay Brewer was also in the 75 group.

Sandwiched at 69 were Julius Boros, Dan Sikes and two other new names, Don Bies of Seattle, Wash. and Davis Love Jr. of Atlanta.

Hill's famous score came in last summer's Thunderbird. He actually had a 78 in the second round, but somehow it came out 178-and his 36-hole total was 257.

Thursday he was consistent off the tees, driving into the rough on 14 holes and finding the fairway only twice on each nine.

Hill's eagle two came on an eight iron on the 473-yard 14th.

Floyd to Face Quarry Again

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Jerry Quarry and Floyd Patterson have been rematched for Oct. 28 as one of the elimination boxing matches to determine a heavyweight champion.

Their first meeting last June 9 ended in a controversial draw after the scheduled 10 rounds.

Uruguay Abandons Plans for Teams

MONTEVIDEO (Reuters) — Uruguay, one of the world's leading soccer powers, will not be competing in the Pan-American Games football tournament in Winnipeg.

Financial difficulties forced the Uruguayan Olympic Committee to abandon plans to send teams for the football, basketball and volleyball competitions.

Canadians Thriving On Heat and 'Beat'

WINNIPEG (CP)—Heat, muscle twinges and a Latin-American bongo beat are keeping Canada's Pan-American Games swimmers awake nights—and they're thriving on it.

Coaches say Ralph Hutton of Campbell River, B.C., who won eight medals in the 1966 British Empire Games in Jamaica, is in his best form ever; Elaine Tanner of Vancouver, who won seven medals in seven events in Jamaica, is entered in eight here and turning in workouts "up in world times."

But while the coaches waxed eloquent over the athletes, the swimmers commented wryly on living conditions.

Bob Stoddard, of St. Catharines, Ont., said:

"It's tough to sleep in this heat with eight guys to a room and those Cubans with their bongo drums.

"With them it's record players all day and bongos all night."

The Cubans, right at home in the heat that hung in the mid-90s, complained only that the mosquitos were interfering with their bongo playing.

SLEEP ON FLOOR

Marilyn Corson, the Parry Sound, Ont., butterfly threat who lives in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., said:

"Some of the girls—me for one—are sleeping on towels on the floor because it's cooler. Some girls are sleeping on mattresses on the floor."

Bob Eynon of London, Ont., the women's coach, said that training and other facilities—including food—"are fantastic."

"We had a choice of steak or lobster for lunch yesterday."

Miss Tanner injured a shoulder muscle playing tennis prior to the Canadian swimming championshps here recently and aggravated it playing volleyball but, says Eynon, it has responded so well that he has entered her for eight events.

Mary Pat Pumfrey of Victoria has a strained muscle in the right knee, but Eynon says "it's coming around. Knee troubles are chronic with breaststrokers."

Focal point of the Canadian team at the moment is Bob Kasting of Lethbridge, Alta., who wanted to go to the barber to have his head shaved to cut down on water resistance.

"But the guys on the team volunteered and cut it for free. They left the sideburns, however, and it's cutting down on my times."

Lake Eights Beat Bedford

LONDON (CP) — Shawnigan Lake School oarsmen from British Columbia had two victories over Bedford School at Bedford, just north of London, as their tour of England continued Thursday.

Over a mile course on the narrow and winding Ouse River, the Shawnigan Lake first eight won by six feet over Bedford's first crew in the time of 4:48.

The Canadian second crew won by four lengths over Bedford Seconds in a ¾-mile race. Time was 3:35.

BRITON WINS . . . . . . BISLEY MATCH

Favored Canuck Slips

BISLEY, England (CP) — A Canadian who last week was considered the man to beat could manage only 10th place Thursday as a Briton won the Queen Mary competition, top servicemen's prize of the Bisley rifle meeting.

RAF Cpl. R. N. Van-Gelderen won the Queen Mary with 358 points out of a possible 400 in the two-stage competition calling for rapid and deliberate fire and snapshooting.

Sgt. Joseph Daigle, 37-year-old native of Lakeburn, N.B., who in 1965 became the first Canadian to win both the Queen Mary and the Service Rifle championships, collected 330 points for 10th place.

Top Canadian in the event was Pte. Carol Potvin, Sgt. Daigle's teammate from the 3rd Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment, stationed at Valcartier, Que. Pte. Carol, 26-year-old native of Chicoutimi, Que., seventh with 340.

A team of Royal Marines spoiled the Van Doo team's bid Thursday for the Roberts snapshooting competition, final servicemen's event at this two-week competition for Commonwealth marksmen.

The marines won Thursday's second heat and edged the Canadian team by two points on aggregate score.

Sportsmen Match Skill Against Military Rifles

"You know, I think there really is something wrong with his eyes!"

Vancouver Island rifle-shooting history will be made Sunday at Heal's Range.

For the first time, trigger experts who puncture targets by firing military rifles with groups like the Victoria and District Rifle Association and the men who batter bull's-eyes with bullets from sporting rifles will compete together in a championship shoot.

Starting at 9 a.m. Sunday at the West Saanich Road range will be first Vancouver Island high-powered rifle championships, sponsored jointly by the VDRA and the Vancouver Island Shooting League, one of the newer organizations that provides target contests for handlers of sporting weapons.

The Canadian Centennial event will offer five trophies and five other awards as snipers compete for individual and team honors while matching the effectiveness of sporting and military rifles over various ranges.

Each contestant will fire 50 shots during the course of the match. From 200 yards, 10 rounds will be fired in each of the prone, kneeling and standing positions. Other 10-shots stages will be fired from the prone position at 300 and 600 yards.

Sportsmen are expected to have a slight advantage at the 200-yard range while the military men should have an edge in shooting at the longer ranges because of their greater experience in judging wind and light conditions.

One of the awards up for competition for the first time is the Daily Times Trophy, which will go to the high individual in the sporting rifle division.

In the military division, the Navy Cup will be presented to the high individual in the 200-yard stages, and the Daily Colonist Trophy will be won by the high-scoring competitor over the entire match.

TEAM TROPHY

Contested by marksmen in both military and sporting divisions will be two other new trophies. The individual posting the high agregate score of the day will receive a trophy presented by the Greater Victoria Centennial Society and the top four-man team of the day will win a trophy donated by the B.C. Centennial Celebrations Association.

Joining riflemen from Victoria and the Cowichan area will be entrants from Washington State, Vancouver, Powell River, Campbell River, Nanaimo and Fraser Valley.

Shooting starts Sunday at 9, and when firing ends, the trigger aces may or may not have settled the argument of whether the sporting or military rifle is best for all-around target work.

Blacker the Fish — Better the Day for Fishing

FISHING REPORT

Variety in Catches At Campbell River

Anglers made history of a sort this week at Campbell River. For the first time in the records of Painter's Lodge, all five varieties of Pacific salmon came into the float on the same day.

Brought into Painter's Monday were one sockeye, one chum, three pinks and a fair number of coho and chinooks (springs). Two of the springs tipped the scales at 21 pounds.

Since then, fishing in waters from Campbell River to Parksville has been spotty and anglers have been plagued by wind and rain. Some cheering news was received from Qualicum Friday night, when a few anglers reported increased activity with coho.

Chinooks have been showing in good numbers in the Bamfield area and Pedder Bay was the scene of some excellent fishing Wednesday. Only a few fishermen were out in the Pedder Bay section Thursday but anglers, who landed a good number of chinooks and fair numbers of coho along with a few pinks Wednesday, are hoping for a good weekend.

HOPEFUL SIGNS

There were also hopeful signs off the Oak Bay-Victoria waterfront with a fair number of husky chinooks and a few coho hitting lures.

Saanich Inlet fishing may be improving after a slump just in time for Sunday's junior derby of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association. The derby is open to all youngsters up to 18 years, although only VSIAA members may win club trophies. No entry tickets are required and derby fishing is from 6 a.m. until noon with prize presentations at the Anglers-Anchorage shortly after noon. All entrants will receive free ice cream and soft drinks.

Also coming up at Saanich Inlet is the Dr. Hugh Clarke sportsmen's derby for Chinook Club members. It will be held on July 30 with a top prize of $50 awaiting contestants.

SALMON ON MOVE

Inlet boathouse operators report a good number of fish showing but the salmon appear to be moving around and are not always easy to locate. A fair number of small chinooks and coho have been taken at the Goldstream end while there was some good action with coho near Senanus Island and along the stretch from Willis Point to McKenzie Bay.

Catches have dropped off at Cowichan Bay but some good chinooks have been landed by moochers in Active Pass and coho have been providing some good catches around Tent Island, Porlier Pass and Galiano Island.

Trout fishermen are taking some big browns out of the Cowichan River, mainly in the vicinity of Skutz Falls. Howerver, most of the action comes after dark and anglers unfamiliar with the area can have trouble making their way back from the river in darkness.

Torch Continues Trip to Winnipeg

GRAND FORKS, N.D. (AP)—The burning torch to signal opening of the Pan-American Games in Winnipeg Sunday reached here Thursday night in the hands of a perspiring 10-man relay team.

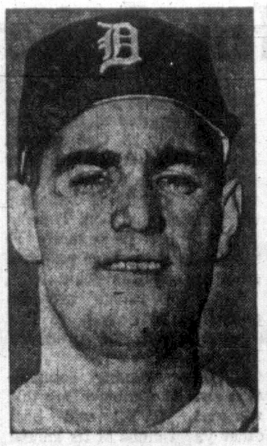
Youthful Track Stars Hit Cinders Saturday

Vancouver Island's brightest young track and field prospects will be parading their talents Saturday afternoon at Victoria High School.

Emphasis will be on precision as officials attempt to run 200 youngsters from 11 to 18 years through 33 track events and 35 field events in about three hours.

Action is scheduled to start about 1 p.m. and meet director Glenn DiGeorgio of Nanaimo intends to have the mammoth program completed about 4.

Many of the Island's finest high school athletes will be chasing titles. All winners will be eligible to compete in the inter-area meet at Kelowna on July 29.



DICK McAULIFFE

Dick's a Tiger With That Bat

Dick McAuliffe wasn't rated much of the slugger when he joined Detroit six years ago. But his current distance hitting is keeping the Tigers within striking distance of the lead in the tight American League pennant race.

The 27-year-old second baseman rapped out his 17th homer and a triple Thursday night in leading Detroit to an 8-4 victory over Washington Senators. The triumph left the Tigers in fifth place, but only three games behind first-place Chicago White Sox.

Cleveland Indians downed New York Yankees 4-0 while the Boston - Baltimore game, the only other one scheduled, was postponed because of rain with the Red Sox leading 2-0 in the bottom of the third.

McAuliffe, a 5-foot-11, 175-pound left-handed batter, had only 24 homers in 497 minor league games covering five seasons before moving up to Detroit as a regular in 1961.

Dick found the home run range in 1964, slamming 24, added 15 the following year and hit 23 in 1966. He appears well on his way toward his big league high this season and is tied for fifth place in the homer derby with the Yanks' Mickey Mantle.

Jackie Brandt already knows it is easier to hit for teammate Don Wilson than against him, and the rest of the National League hitters are quickly learning it, too.

Wilson, a rookie right-hander who pitched a no-hitter a month ago and a three-hitter 11 days ago, cut down New York on two hits Thursday night as the Houston Astros belted the Mets 7-0.

It was his third straight victory and while he has discouraged opposing hitters, his pitching has brought out the best in Brandt. The veteran reserve outfielder, hitting only .237, had six hits in 11 at bats with his only triple and homer and eight of his 10 runs batted in during those games.

Brandt drove in four runs Thursday night with a sacrifice fly and the homer and added a double.

MAKING THE SCENE

Another part-time performer, Gene Oliver, also had a good night, stroking three singles and a two-run homer as he led Philadelphia Phillies over Los Angeles Dodgers 10-4.

League-leading St. Louis Cardinals unleashed Julian Javier, Orlando Cepeda and Bob Tolan, who each homered, and whipped Cincinnati Reds 7-3.

Wilson, 22, allowed only singles by Ed Charles in the first inning and Larry Stahl in the ninth. He struck out nine.

Award Winners

Eight Victoria minor league baseball players were honored at Royal Athletic Park Thursday night.

They were presented with Ernie Stock Memorial trophies by the Victoria and District Baseball Association. The awards are made annually for outstanding sportsmanship in leagues affiliated with the VDBA.

Honored were: Rick Lamoreux, Saanich Evening Optimist Babe Ruth League; Bruce Brown, Cosmopolitan Babe Ruth League; Les Mulebloch, Victoria Babe Ruth League; Brent Mullin, Colt League; Mike Reid, Connie Mack League; Ronnie Mills, Triangle Pony League, and Marvin Diercks, Layritz Pony League; Gordy Rands, Carnarvon Pony League.

Don Had Cause To Be Joyful

By TONY COSIER

When Don Mainland charged home to break up a 3-3 tie in the bottom of the sixth inning Thursday at Royal Athletic Park, the Trail centrefielder jumped high into the air excitedly and flopped on home plate. Just to make sure he touched it, he bounced quickly to his feet and gaily jammed his foot once more on the wide white slab.

Trail won the B.C. Babe Ruth League baseball playoff contest 4-3 over Vancouver Inter-Community. Mainland was the star.

Alert in the field, explosive at bat, Mainland helped move Trail one step closer to retaining its provincial title. If the defending champs can defeat hard-hitting Coquitlam in tonight's 6 p.m. battle, they earn a berth in the final. Inter-Community met Saanich Evening Optimists in today's afternoon tilt.

Mainland drove home two Trail markers with a sharp third-inning liner over shortstop. Refusing to be discouraged after right-fielder Jim Rentmeester made a fine running catch of Gary Little's deep drive in the sixth, Mainland drilled a single to right.

KEY DEFENSIVE PLAY

He stole second, ran to third on Terry McDougall's perfect bunt and scored the game winner when third baseman Brian Wilson fired the ball away trying to throw out McDougall.

Mainland also made the key defensive play of the contest.

The Trail centre fielder, pitching star of Trail's 4-2 victory over Saanich Evening Optimists Tuesday, watched his club's 3-0 lead vanish in the fifth on five walks and a hit batsman.

Vancouver had evened the score and loaded the bases with only one out in that frame when Mainland bolted into action on Jack McDonald's pop fly to short centre. The quick outfielder made the catch cleanly and fired a low bullet, one hop, to catcher Ernie Schleppe to gun down Kirk Duncan attempting to score.

FRAERVIEW WON

Russ Paterson's cool relief pitching and first baseman Bernie Hughes' sharp fielding kept Inter-Community from scoring after that.

Fraserview's Terry Tkach won a 3-2 extra-inning thriller to eliminate North Shore Capilano in the afternoon contest.

Fraserview jumped into a 2-0 lead when John Evans doubled home Larry Warnock and scored on a wild pitch in the third.

Successive solid doubles by Graham McIntosh and Colin Black, followed by Randy Goch's single and Robbie Jones' sacrifice fly, sparked a two-run comeback for Capilano in the sixth.

A bloop single by pinch hitter Kerry Morris brought home Jack Hamilton with the winning run in the bottom of the eighth after a walk, a single and an intentional pass had loaded the bases.

New Foam Douses Fire: Disappears

A new machine which puts out fires in seconds was demonstrated at Colwood naval fire-fighting installation Thursday.

Fifty of the area's top fire-fighting experts were on hand to see the Kiddle Hi-Ex do its job.

Although costing only $2,000, the machine generates a foam which is claimed to be 10 times as effective as anything currently in use.

Bult by a New Jersey-based company, the machine can pump 5,000 cubic feet of foam a minute, using 45 gallons of water mixed with .7 gallons of the foam concentrate.

FIREMEN NOT NEEDED

Its chief advantage is that it can douse a house blaze without the need to send in firemen.

The foam billows into the house, filing every nook and cranny and smothering out the flames through lack of oxygen.

Within six to eight hours it has dispersed without trace.

In addition, firemen can walk through the foam without experiencing difficulty in breathing and it can be washed off clothing.

For demonstration purposes the foam was used on two fires.

It put out a fire in a three-storey damage control structure in five seconds and an oil-fed fire in 10 seconds.

SEA OTTER

Sea Otters Comeback Postponed

A project which would re-introduce the sea otter to the West coast of Vancouver Island has been postponed until next year, said B.C. wildlife officials Thursday.

The cancellation of the plan until next July or August was made ofter a fire in the Alaska plant which destroyed equipment necessary for the transplanting of the animals.

The animals were to be trapped in Alaska this fall and transported by a federal fisheries research vessel to release sites off Vancouver and the Queen Charlotte Islands.

The re-establishment of the friendly animals was planned as a centennial project of the B.C. and federal wildlife management agencies.

Sea otters were exterminated from the coast of British Columbia during the late 1800s by excessive exploitation for its valuable fur and by the ease with which the animal could be hunted.

Wildlife officials are making every effort to replace the lost equipment in time to introduce the project by next summer.

Laughs for Spectators but Theme Serious

By SHIRLEY HEWETT

Victoria's Centennial Summer continues to feature international events.

Hewett

Royal Victoria Yacht Club will host the rendezvous and start of the 36th Annual International Cruiser Race next weekend. Competing boats will berth at Cadboro Bay on July 28, and leave at intervals early Saturday morning to cover an 83-mile course, ending at Edmonds, Washington.

This is the oldest predicted log race in the world.

First run in 1928 from Olympia to Juneau, it was originally known as the Capital to Capital Race. It is now alternated among the various Puget Sound and Canadian Yacht Clubs.

The race will start off Jemmy Jones Island and progress through Baynes Channel to Haro Strait, Speiden Channel, Wasp Passage, Harney Channel, Thatcher Pass, Rosario Strait, Deception Pass, Skagit Bay, Saratoga Passage, and Possession Sound, to the finish line north of the Edmonds Ferry Pier.

There will be five classes based upon the highest flat water speed on any leg of the race. Class I will include boats which have speeds of 8.450 Kn. and under. Class V boats will be capable of 13.351 Kn. or over.

An innovation this year is the new permanent racing number that each skipper will receive before the race. This number will become the boat's identification throughout all recognized predicted log races.

Competing boats will file their predicted logs with the Race Committee at the Yacht Club on July 28. One optional stop will be permitted at any point of the race course provided that it is indicated on the Predicted Log. Timeout period must be exactly 90 minutes and the race resumed from exactly this point.

Some 75 yachts are expected to participate in this "grand-daddy" of predicted log racing.

A more relaxing competition goes in Cadboro Bay this weekend. RVYC will host other yacht clubs at its annual summer sailing regatta, always a popular event on the local racing calendar.

The fun begins Friday evening with the Regatta Championship Trophy Handicap Race. From a staggered start, all boats sail a common course, as the handicap is applied at the start.

Highlight of the regatta will be the second annual competition Sunday afternoon for the Rochfort Seamanship Prize. This unique race for cruising type boats is patterned after the "Lord Gort" Cup, which is sailed from the Isle of Wight in England. While there are lots of laughs involved for participants and spectators, the underlying theme is serious.

Seamanship skills tested include dinghy handling (rowing and boarding a larger boat); sailing off a mooring without using auxiliary power (crew pulling on the anchor to get the boat under way); and rescuing a "man" overboard (one purpose is to determine the most efficient way of handling the boat for the manoeuvre; whether to jibe around or bring the boat up into the wind.)

The whole contest takes the form of a race. Participating boats lie at anchor in a line, with crew on board. At the start gun, the skipper and a junior leave the jetty in a rowboat, while the crew on the boat hoist the sails. (The jib is in its bag).

Once the sailing boat is underway, the dinghy is towed or stowed, and the boats then race a shortened triangle course.

Sometime during the second leg (a run), the "man" goes overboard. "He" can be a life jacket or ring lashed to a pole. The boat then rounds up, picks up the "man," and continues the race. While the "man" is being saved, all other boats must keep clear.

Methods of rescuing the "man" are varied. A crew member may swim to retrieve him; the dinghy may be rowed over; or he can be pulled on board. He must not be speared with a boat hook.

Last year, participants broke oars and oarlocks, and a real "man overboard" situation added to the fun. As many as eight tries were required by some crews to retrieve their "man."

SHORT TACKS: Sid Halls' first big win in his new Cobra was the Discovery Island Handicap Race last weekend. . . . New boats welcomed to the ranks of the CCYC are Ampat with Edith and Adam Ozero, and Bonita with Margaret and Maurice Dunn. . . . Watch for the Chinese junk now cruising in Victoria waters. She's easily identified by her dark hull and crimson foresail. Several years ago, some junks imported from the Orient were listed as packing crates, one way to beat the customs, levies. Seems they carried cargoes of Chinese lanterns, or what have you. Which only proves that a boat can be more than a boat, or something. . . .

HOME GARDEN

Strangely Beautiful And Easy to Grow

By HILDA BEASTALL

Sempervivum (a Latin word meaning "always living") is the name given to an enormous group of rosette forming plants suitable for our gardens.

Hilda

Among the hundreds of species are the familiar plants known as Houseleeks, Cobweb-Houseleeks, and Hen-and-Chickens.

These grow to perfection wedged into crevices of natural rocky outcrops, or into spaces between man-set steps.

Being succulent and moisture-storing by nature, sempervivums propagate readily by the simple method of detaching some of the smaller rosettes with a sharp knife, and embedding their bases into other crevices containing sand and a little soil.

Roots are soon formed in warm weather, and the individual rosettes spread into colonies in a few years.

These strangely beautiful plants are of interest all through the year, since their foliage colors vary with each species and variety.

Some are all dark green, others have areas of purple, bronze or maroon.

During the summer, mature rosettes will add to their general interest by producing 10 to 12-inch hairy stems of flowers in dense heads. They may be white, pink, yellow or red.

Sempervivums are easy to grow and undoubtedly of ornamental value. Where the ground is rocky and soil is shallow or practically non-existent, they will gain a foothold, and a collection of a dozen different kinds will create a paisley pattern of fine muted color throughout the year.

Plants may be raised from seed sown in late summer and the seedlings kept in a cold frame for their first winter.

LOS ANGELES

one of the world's nonstop playgrounds. It's fun to watch the Sunset Strip or to go surfing in Santa Monica. There's the Music Center, the Art Museum and the Hollywood Bowl for culture. There's Disneyland, Marineland or Universal Studio-land for being young at heart. There's a Chinese Theatre called Grauman's that's nowhere near Chinatown. There's a little bit of old Mexico on Olvera Street. There's the Dodgers, and the Angels. There's fabulous shopping, from picturesque Farmer's Market to posh Beverly Hills. And Western's Jet/Coach Excursion Fare is only $111.20 round trip. Join the party!

SAN FRANCISCO

the city by the Golden Gate. You've got a lot in common with San Francisco. A beautiful natural setting, fascinating Chinatown, a bustling waterfront, and hundreds of breathtaking views. But you've got to ride a cable car to Fisherman's Wharf and back to the top of Nob Hill. You've got to see Golden Gate Park and have afternoon tea at the Japanese Tea House. You've got to see the giant redwoods at Muir. And you could spend weeks dining at only the great restaurants, and not hit them all. Western's Jet/Coach Excursion Fare is only $83.15 round trip. You can hardly afford to stay home!

PORTLAND

the center of Oregon's summer activity. The Ashland Shakespearean Festival, the Salem Art Festival, The Robin Hood Archery Festival, the Multnomah and Tillamook County Fairs. The Pendleton Roundup, and much more including the Rose Festival in Portland, the Rose City. Western's Jet/Coach Excursion Fare is only $31.60 round trip. Come visit the neighbors.

plus one-plane through-jet service

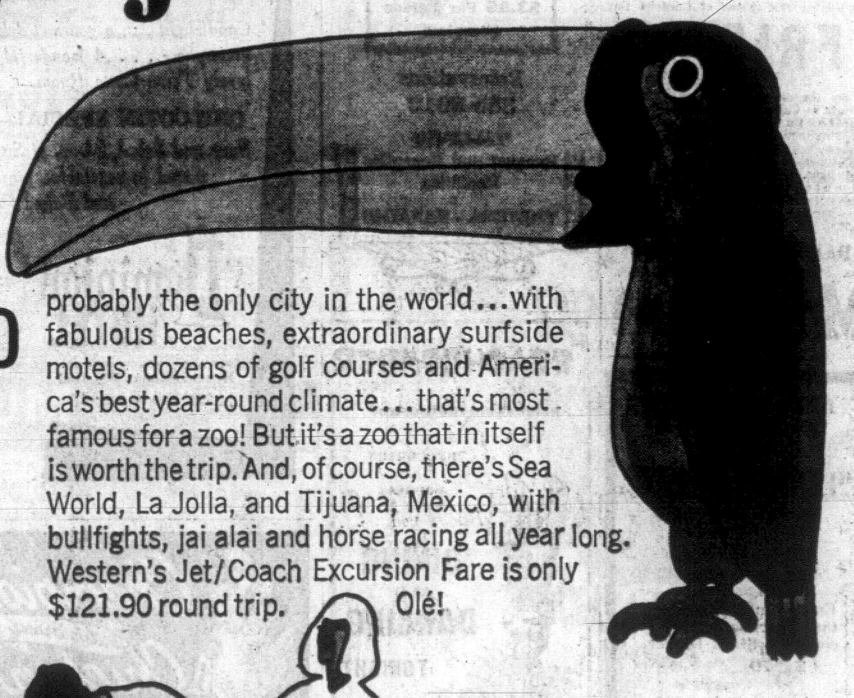
the biggest names in show business, the most luxurious hotels in the world, and a nonstop night life that gives you a chance to become the wizard of odds. Plus great golf on the beautiful desert-championship courses! Day or night, you can be a real sport in Las Vegas. Western's Jet/Coach Excursion Fare is only $129.10. It's only money.



SAN DIEGO

probably the only city in the world...with fabulous beaches, extraordinary surfside motels, dozens of golf courses and America's best year-round climate...that's most famous for a zoo! But it's a zoo that in itself is worth the trip. And, of course, there's Sea World, La Jolla, and Tijuana, Mexico, with bullfights, jai alai and horse racing all year long. Western's Jet/Coach Excursion Fare is only $121.90 round trip. Olé!

PHOENIX

get a horse and ride through the Valley of the Sun. Take your pick of 38 golf courses. And after dark, even the natives go a little wild. Dining, dancing, maybe even romancing under the cover of a balmy, star-filled Arizona sky. The shopping is great, especially in famous Scottsdale. Western's Jet/Coach Excursion Fare is only $151.90 round trip. Come on down, partner.

LINES SUM UP THE MOVIE'S THEME

'They're Married. Why Look Happy?'

TWO FOR THE ROAD
Adult Entertainment
Royal Theatre
By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Any marriage in which one or both partners refuses to go the other half mile is fair game for our movie producers these days.

The snarling feuds in Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? proved so popular that rival companies are desperately striving after this happy box-office formula.

So we have a light-hearted encore of Virginia Woolf in Two for the Road. Audrey Hepburn and Albert Finney have their first big bust-up in an MG which somehow catches fire after she announces she is "expecting."

They snarl at each other in swank hotels and come to the brink of divorce beside a Riviera pool. Yet, even at their lowest ebb, Audrey and Albert are still jumping into bed and saying "I love you — you beast!"

Flashing back and forth through 12 years of togetherness, Two for the Road never quite reaches the end — which may be the reason it holds attention most of the way.

The flashbacks and ingenious photographic effects never give the viewer time to settle into a comfortable groove. And the plot is so desperately modern that the terms "bastard" and "bitch" sound like terms of affection.

Key to the whole thing is an exchange between Hepburn and Finney when they gaze out of their sports car at a bride and groom emerging from church.

"They don't look very happy," says Hepburn.

MANSFIELD DAUGHTER IN JOURNALIST'S CARE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A newspaper man, William W. Pique, and his wife were appointed guardians Thursday of Jayne Marie Mansfield, 16-year-old daughter of the actress killed last month in a New Orleans highway accident.

Pique is assistant city editor of the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner. Pique's nephew, Paul J. Mansfield, a New York businessman, was the first husband of the actress.

FOREST FIRE WATER BOMBED

TRAIL (CP) — Two water bombers and a crew of forest fire fighters were trying late Wednesday to contain a forest fire on the outskirts of Castlegar.

The fire apparently was set by children, police said. A strong wind was hampering the men fighting it.

Icelanders Present Gavel to Province

A carved ivory and reindeer horn gavel was presented to the province by B.C.'s Icelandic community Thursday.

Carved by one of Iceland's foremost sculptors, Rikardur Jonsson, the gavel is the centennial project of the 6,000 British Columbians of Icelandic descent.

On hand for the presentations was John F. Sigurdson, Icelandic consul to the province, accompanied by representatives of the different Icelandic groups in the Vancouver area.

The gavel is inscribed with the words: "Med loggum skal land byggja," which means: "With laws the land shall prosper."

Robbery Hearing Postponed 1 Week

A preliminary hearing into an armed robbery charge against Allan Barry Pearson, 26, was postponed for a week Thursday.

But Pearson succeeded in having his bail reduced from $10,000 to $7,500 after court was told his wife was hospitalized Sunday and his three-year-old boy was staying with relatives in Victoria.

The hearing was set for next Thursday after the accused's lawyer, David Wilson, said he would have to withdraw from the case because a colleague in his office would be acting for the Crown at the fall sittings.

The postponement will give Pearson's new lawyer time to prepare his case.

The accused is charged with the knifepoint robbery of a downtown motel July 7. A man in a hard hat and new overalls scooped $114 from a cashbox at the Embassy Motel, 520 Menzies, after first threatening the manageress, Mrs. Dorothy Low, with a knife.

Royal Chaplain Dies at 91

LONDON (AP)—Canon Travers Guy Rogers, an Irishman, who was royal chaplain to four British monarchs, died in London Wednesday. He was 91.

Born in Dublin, he moved to London in 1903 and in 1917 became chaplain to King George V. He served in the same capacity for Edward VIII, George VI, and Queen Elizabeth II, retiring this year as a canon emeritus.

Wicked Chance Jails Accused For 3 Months

A man convicted of impaired driving for the third time in seven years was jailed for three months Thursday.

City police arrested Neville Brydges, 36, of 1324 Pembroke, Wednesday night after his car went out of control on Bay near Cook and snapped a utility pole.

He admitted in central court previous convictions for the same offence in May of 1960 and October of 1961.

Brydges is the sole supporter of his wife and seven children, he said.

Magistrate Ostler described as "wicked" that the accused would take a chance with his driving, knowing that another conviction would mean a mandatory jail term.

He also barred Brydges from driving for 18 months.

In a traffic court case Wednesday, Ian Douglas Houston, 1627 Redfern, was fined $500 for impaired driving.

Magistrate Byers was told Houston was found asleep in the back of his car July 8 while the auto was stuck in a ditch on William Head Road.

Jailed 6 Months

VANCOUVER (CP) — David Bennett, 18, one of the seven persons who escaped Vancouver city jail July 4, was sentenced to six months in jail Thursday. He had pleaded guilty last Friday to a charge of escaping custody.

LANDLORD FINED IN FRACAS

Soaker Soaked for $50

A landlord who used a garden hose to soak a man helping a tenant move was fined $50 Thursday.

Art Sokalski, 65, was convicted of assault causing bodily harm. He had pleaded not guilty.

Earl Barnswell told the court he and some other friends were helping Mrs. Marianne Darling move from her apartment at 1136 Empress on June 29.

Mr. Sokalski was watering his garden and without provocation turned the hose on him. When he approached to stop him, the accused used the hose as a whip to open cuts on his skull and near his eye, said Mr. Barnswell.

FRACAS ENSUED

A fracas ensued in which Barnswell admitted hitting both Mr. and Mrs. Sokalski.

Magistrate Ostler referred a similar charge against Barnswell and arising from the same incident to another court to be heard.

There had obviously been "bad blood" between the parties involved, commented the magistrate in his summary.

"There is certainly infinite variety to the trouble people can get in to."

When Mrs. Darling repeatedly gasped from the audience at defence testimony during the trial the magistrate told her:

"If you want to put on a performance, the McPherson Theatre is just around the corner . . . I'm tired of hearing you gasp when I am trying to hear this case."

Rent-a-Car Driver Was Suspended

Edward Stone, 584 Whiteside, was fined $200 for driving while under suspension when he appeared in central court for sentence Wednesday afternoon.

Stone was working for a rent-a-car firm while on probation and under suspension for a previous driving offence.

Magistrate William Ostler said he would recommend a further suspension.

Impaired Man Fined

Ronald Warren, 167 Helmcken, was fined $300 for impaired driving and $15 for being a minor without insurance when he appeared in traffic court Wednesday.

His licence was also suspended for six months.

Ban Lifted

VERNON (CP)—The city of Vernon Thursday lifted its ban on the use of its airport by aircraft taking off or landing for sky-diving activities. Council imposed the ban last May following the death in a crash of three sky-divers and a pilot.

ONE-MAN CAMPAIGN . . . . . . TO GET STIFFER LAW

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Every 20 minutes two people are killed in traffic accidents in North America. And one of them is killed in an accident where liquor is involved.

Robert E. Malkin, whose only son was killed in a collision with a drunk driver in 1961, made this statement to the Rotary Club of Victoria Thursday afternoon.

His son, Kit, then 22, was a teaching assistant in marine biology at Stanford University, California.

Mr. Malkin, 54-year-old Vancouver resident, retired from business to embark on a one-man crusade against drunk driving. He put the hideous wreck of his son's car on top of a truck and took it on a 3,000-mile tour of California.

He spoke on street corners for two months and obtained 20,000 signatures to a petition asking former governor Pat Brown to do something to deter the chronic drunk driver.

In 1966 a state law was passed defining drunkenness as a blood alcohol content of .10 per cent.

In his talk to Victoria Rotary Club, Mr. Malkin asked:

"How does it feel to have your only child killed by a drunk driver? First there is a sense of overwhelming loss—a stunned disbelief in the truth that your mind cannot accept or reject . . . an end to dreams that you did not know existed until they ended so abruptly.

"The second reaction, in my case, was a knowledge that this waste of life need never have happened. And, as a man, I decided it was my duty to do all in my power to put an end to it.

"Then I wondered what one man could do against the lobbies which oppose law reform in respect of drunk driving."

Mr. Malkin said these lobbies oppose compulsory insurance, use of drunkometers or breathalysers and any fixed definition of blood alcohol and mechanical safety standards.

"Worst of all the lobbies, presented by some members of the bar, are opposed to anything that might question a man's right to drive, whether drunk or insane.

"This, in some strange way, is regarded as interference with civil liberties. But what of the civil liberties of the man or woman who is killed by drunken driving?"

Mr. Malkin said liquor is involved in more than half the traffic deaths occurring in North America every day.

Last Labor Day, he said, more than 600 were killed in traffic accidents in the United States, and in Canada, with 10 per cent of the U.S. population, 100 died.

"The economic cost of $180,000 per death—a recognized figure—is almost enough to pay off the national debt. Yet we only spend only 75 cents on safety before the accident compared with $1,000 after.

"With the super-highways and the high-speed automobile, the carnage is becoming intolerable.

"Yet society is not prepared to pay the price of absolute highway safety, which would require criminal proceedings against drivers with the slightest trace of alcohol in their systems, as in some European countries.

"We know that driving skill cannot be scientifically measured, but the blood-alcohol factor as an indicator of driving skill can be scientifically measured and measured very accurately."

Mr. Malkin said Canada's federal government pays $100 to every citizen between 16 and 33 who qualitifes for a private flying licence. This is aimed at developing the country through flying.

He urged that driver training should be compulsory before a licence is issued, and that the government should give $10 to every qualifying driver.

"With 400,000 youngsters per annum, this would add about $400,000,000 to our tax bill. What is this compared to an economic waste of $900,000,000 for the more than 5,000 Canadians killed every year on our highways?"

Mr. Malkin said a Victoria and District Safety Council is lined up for organization this fall.

"I am not free to say any more, but I ask you gentlemen, as responsible businessmen, to get behind it and ask the municipal and provincial governments for some money.

"You really need a traffic safety council. Either we will rule the roads with common sense, or the drunks and untrained bad drivers will rule them instead."

In an interview, Mr. Malkin said:

"I no longer feel bitter over my son's death. He could have been killed in other ways, but it is at least an incentive to do all in my power to reduce death on the roads.

Work Crews Hitting Full Summer Stride

Victoria public work crews are hitting full summer stride this month and with a minimum of trouble for tourists.

With little more than six months of the year gone the department is well ahead of schedule on 31 local improvement projects ranging from a $1,393 job on Irving, Crescent and Lillian to an $18,654 project on Kings, Cedar Hill and Forbes.

Total cost of local improvement projects is expected to be in the neighborhood of $200,000 before year end.

Road building crews are also on schedule with 24 regrading and paving projects at a cost of $116,000.

Seven of those projects are already completed, two are under way, and the other 15 will be completed before budget time next year.

BIGGEST PROJECT

Biggest of the regrading and repaving projects is scheduled to start within the next few weeks.

It will see a revamping of Jutland and the Gorge Road to Burnside.

Should the crews run out of roads to repair there are sea walls, bridges, new parking lots and subdivisions waiting in the wings to keep machinery and men busy for the rest of the year.

Not all of the work is on the surface.

Underground projects, 18 in number, run from the installation of 72 feet of eight-inch storm drain on Camosun to the 1,200 feet of 48-inch trunk sewer scheduled for installation in October.

The two main projects now in progress are the installation of 550 feet of eight-inch pipe on Jutland and the re-pointing of 2,800 feet of brick storm drains from Ross Bay to Richmond.

In the building and maintenance section of the public works department a list of 34 projects faced work crews when the year started. Some have been completed, others are already underway and the balance will be finished before the end of the fiscal year.

In addition to the approved work list are seven proposed projects which will require council approval before they can be carried out.

Major item on the proposed project list is a $13,000 expenditure for an addition to the McPherson Restaurant to provide much needed storage space in the area below the main dining room.

Another earmarked but doubtful project for this year is the expenditure of $8,000 for re-roofing a section of Memorial Arena.

Total budget for the public works department this year was set at close to $740,000.

BREWED AND BOTTLED BY
MOLSON'S CAPILANO BREWERY LTD., VANCOUVER, CANADA

Will the biplane (a) get the mail through in time?

CLAMS IN STRAITS DANGEROUS TO EAT

Clams in the Gulf of Georgia are still unsafe to eat, the provincial health department warned Thursday.

A health spokesman said clams gathered from the area of Seymour Narrows in the north, to Active Pass in the south, are still above the toxicity level.

The spokesman said no cases of illness have yet been reported.

The spokesman said oysters, which were restricted earlier when the red tide poisoning was first noticed, now are below the toxicity level and safe to eat.

Ottawa Rejects Carver Grants

DUNCAN—Two Cowichan Indian carvers have had applications for cultural grants rejected by the federal Indian Affairs department.

Simon Charlie asked for $6,000 and Cicero August for $1,800.

Mr. Charlie wants the money to build a longhouse in which he can teach young people to carve.

Cicero August says he wants the money to buy tools so he can teach three student carvers a year.

Mr. August said this morning: "There doesn't seem much we can do to fight the department's decision.

"They say our projects are too commercial but it would just be a way of keeping the art of carving alive among our young people."

Mr. August said he and Simon Charlie will probably try to form a group of Indian carvers which might have a better chance of getting government grants.

He criticized the fact the department turned down the two individual requests after granting funds to two Cowichan groups.

The Corpus Christi sports committee received $4,000 and made a profit this year, and the local Tzinquaw Opera group which Mr. August claims will likely make a profit, also received a grant.

Mr. Charlie said: "How do these people in Ottawa think an Indian carver can exist except by selling his work?"

He complains the original 1966 circular inviting applications for cultural grants made no mention they might be turned down because of a commercial flavor.

Happiness Means Horses To Duncan's Wilf Hillyard

By DON DINGWALL

DUNCAN — Happiness to Wilf Hillyard means horses.

It has been this way all his 79 years and today he still runs two brood mares and a two-year-old foal on his Lakes Road property.

For 30 years and more Wilf Hillyard was a popular figure on B.C. race tracks as a trainer and owner.

Only the tragic and sudden highway death of his wife 18 months ago now keeps him away from going to the races.

He is on his own and has to stay around to look after his 10-acre property.

But until two years ago Mr. Hillyard used to break his own horses and ride them.

Ironcially, it was fear of an accident to himself which made him quit.

Coming to Canada from England in 1928, Mr. Hillyard has been a Prairie farmer and a radio and television retailer in Duncan.

But always there were hourses.

As a youngster in England he handled hunting and polo ponies.

His wife was a keen horsewoman and it was because of this he first bought himself two thoroughbreds "to fool around with."

The horse was rated a certainty for the fortuity race at Vancouver's Exhibition Park, but was injured.

Many horses have passed through Mr. Hillyard's hands in the past 30 years.

She held the Sandown six furlong reccord for several years.

Mr. Hillyard has never sought to be a bigtime owner. Few people in Duncan probably know about his race horse penchant and stables.

He says: "It has been more or less a paying hobby. I don't believe it's possible for the small man to make a living out of breeding horses."

Generally he ran five to seven horses on his own 10 acres and another five acres of rented land.

In his heyday as an owner-trainer, Mr. Hillyard spent eight months of the year away from home doing the racing circuit.

Why does he keep going at his age?

"You must have an interest in life," says the man who likes to remember the thrill of his first track victory.

Name of the horse was Peace Rose, the mare which now grazes in retirement at his back fence.

She hadn't raced before but the trainer and jockey were sure of her winning the six furlong event at Sandown.

Not so sure was Mr. Hillyard.

Peace Rose won, both jockey and trainer made a killing but Mr. Hillyard had ventured only a $5 bet.

Mr. Hillyard thinks the secret to successful racehorse training is "know your horse, know his character."

He has never chalked up his winners but says modestly: "I had my share," and he nurses high hopes for Warrior Square, the two-year-old in his pasture.

Quakers Plan Second Trip To Aid North Viet Injured

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A United States Quaker organization which recently transported a cargo of medical supplies to North Vietnam in defiance of the U.S. government made known today it will try to make another shipment soon.

"It's a matter of conscience," said Lawrence Scott, 58, leader of the project. "When people are being bombed and are bleeding, it's a religious right and duty to help them, whoever they are."

Despite a tightening web of federal pressures and roadblocks, the undeterred task group is going ahead with its planning, gathering funds, screening volunteers, awaiting a go-ahead from the North Vietnam Red Cross.

40 ENLIST

About 40 persons have offered their services for the outlawed mission, aimed at helping civilian war casualties.

It still is contingent on approval from North Vietnam, Scott said, adding that arrangements are being made through correspondence handled from abroad to avoid government interception. However, the sailing date is expected to be in late August.

Scott said the organization has chartered for a year's use a 50-foot U.S. ketch, Phoenix, which carried an initial $10,000 medical shipment to Haiphong last March. The crew members on that voyage were ordered deprived of their passports.

In Washington Thursday, officials of the U.S. treasury department said it has recommended to the justice department prosecution of those crew members under the assets control provisions of the Trading With the Enemy Act.

The justice deparment said the case is under review. Conviction would carry a maximum penalty of 10 years in jail and a $10,000 fine.

Rumors Continue That Duvalier Assassinated

SANTO DOMINGO (Reuters)—Nineteen senior Haitian officials have been executed by firing squad and 15 others dismissed, says reports reaching the Dominican Republic capital amid continuing rumors that President Francois Duvalier has been assassinated.

The rumors say Duvalier was overthrown and killed by a dissident faction within the Haitian regime.

The reports of the executions named Lucien Chauvet, former prefect of Port au Prince and Luckner Cabronne, former minister of public works, as two of these shot.

SHARK MORE THAN SHE COULD BEAR

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—Former Olympic swimmer Linda McGill, training for an attempt on the English Channel record, leaped topless into an accompanying boat today when a shark rose beside her in Sydney Harbor.

Miss McGill was swimming with the top of her bathing suit turned down to avoid chafing her shoulders and lessen water resistance.

They knew Rein Bowie, 23, had been arrested a week ago on a charge of possessing a narcotic and that his bail was set at $2,000 by Magistrate Lorne Jackson.

They also knew Bowie hadn't been able to raise the money and was scheduled to appear in court Thursday to ask that bail be reduced.

But they didn't know that after he was told to return later in the day, after another case had been completed, he was unkindly turned away from the jail and told to leave.

"He came into court just before lunch time," Magistrate Jackson said. "But we were in the middle of another case and I told him to come back at 2:30 p.m."

Bowie was apparently taken back to jail but before he was admitted he was mistaken for someone else and told to leave.

"Then shortly after 3 p.m., Bowie showed up in court all clean and shaved," the magistrate said. "He told me he hadn't had a decent wash and shave since arrested last week, so when he was told to go, he went.

"I took it that if he returned under these extraordinary circumstances he could be depended on, so I reduced bail from $2,000 to $200."

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, JULY 21, 1967 —PAGE 19

Arthur Mayse

If there is one thing we Victorians will turn out for in traffic-jamming numbers, it is a free show such as the Royal Canadian Navy and its guests offered the city this week.

Further, having assembled in our thousands at whatever vantage points are available, I think we provide a pretty good show ourselves.

This thought overtook me a few minutes after 10 o'clock Wednesday evening on a patch of foreshore above Esquimalt's Kinver Beach. I don't know how many of us had swarmed there from the streets where our cars lined the curbs for many blocks. But we made a sizeable quorum as we waited under a darkening and dubious sky for the spectacle to begin.

As Victoria crowds tend to be, this one was so quiet that a stranger would think we'd come to attend a funeral. That, of course, never signifies that we aren't enjoying ourselves.

A few of us had brought lawn chairs. Others scrambled down to the rock-cupped beach below and settled on damp drift-logs, or clambered up to the big black dome to the left for a wider view.

The rest stood on a patch of burned-over grass, waiting in couples, families and casual clumps for the ships to light up.

The people around watched him through his act, then returned their attention to the darkening sea.

Out there, the rearward destroyers of the Centennial fleet rode to their anchors. Seven were full in our view, two others partially blocked off by the far point of the cove.

One moment they lay dark and vaguely sinister; the next, as if a single switch had been pulled, they became magic vessels, outlined end to end by their strings of golden lights.

The crowd gave a pleased murmur, hunched its shoulders against another gentle shower, and settled to wait for the second treat of the evening — the fireworks display.

All this time, more people had been coming down from cars parked anywhere up to half a mile away. The little fir-tree had by now acquired a veritable monkey-load of youngsters, and some older boys had climbed high on the wire mesh fence that crowns the other point.

There they clung in black silhouette, while the illuminated ships twinkled across the water, and a separate blaze of lights to the south showed where the P & O liner "Canberra" headed out to the Pacific.

Then all lights but hers were doused, and up went the fireworks.

Close to where we watched stood a young skeptic, age eight or nine.

While the rockets streamed skyward, he carped, knocked and criticized. Stubbornly, this junior viewer refused to be impressed. But when the last of the fireworks barrage had burst splendidly against the night and the ship-lights blinked on again, he was reluctant to leave.

"Maybe they'll have a refiring," he protested to his parents.

The show was over, though; and, amiably as it had gathered, the crowd began its return to the cars.

It was properly black by this time, with no stars overhead. However there was a scattering of flashlights among us. These helped where the path dipped over a soggy spot, and in a passage through a longshore woodpile.

All in all, it was a pleasant, communal sort of evening, climaxed by a piece of crowd behavior that I think the navy should know about.

After the last rocket burned out, everyone stood there in the dark and extended thanks with a hearty bout of hand-clapping.

Giant Carrier Loading Lumber In British Test

By TERRY IZZARD

An experiment which could see larger bulk carriers docking at Ogden Point is being carried out by a British company.

PEANUTS
WHERE ARE YOU GOING?
I'M GOING TO SUMMER SCHOOL..
THIS YEAR SUMMER BEGAN ON JUNE TWENTY-FIRST...IT WILL END ON SEPTEMBER TWENTY-SECOND...THESE SEASONAL CHANGES VARY GREATLY, OF COURSE, WITH LATITUDE...
7-21
IF YOU WANT TO LEARN ANYTHING AT ALL ABOUT SUMMER, YOU HAVE TO GO TO SUMMER SCHOOL!
SCHULZ

The experiment is in the form of the 45,000-ton Atlantic City which tied up here Thursday to load 1,500,000 board feet of deck cargo.

Largest carrier ever to enter the docks, she will carry a total of 13 million board feet of lumber plus 10,000 tons of pulp and paper when she sails from Port Alberni for England next week.

Commissioned only three months ago, the Atlantic City may or may not be back.

Chartered to Canadian Transport by owners Sir William Reardon Smith and Sons Ltd., it will depend on how the round trip works out financially.

REPEAT

If the lumber carrying proves profitable, she will probably repeat her maiden voyage which entailed picking up coal from Poland, dropping it off at Japan then sailing in ballast to Vancouver Island to load lumber.

Powered by a 13,800-horsepower Sulzer engine, the Atlantic City made the Japan-Canada crossing in only 11 days.

Her propeller is 20 feet in diameter and with all that weight moving through the water it takes five or six miles to bring her to a full stop.

55 MEN

Her first voyage wasn't the most uneventful.

Said chief officer, Anthony Thomas: "We came through the Suez Canal just before war broke out.

"We could see tanks and men being moved across the canal into the Sinai Desert.

"One of the foreign pilots told us they were getting ready to fight. The Egyptian pilots wouldn't say anything."

Due to bridges being closed to allow troop movements, the passage through the canal took three days instead of the normal 24 hours.

NOT TOO UPSET

Asked how ships would fare if the canal is closed to British and U.S. shipping, Mr. Thomas said:

"I don't think anyone would get too upset. With the large bulk carriers of today it wouldn't make much difference. We'd just sail straight around.

"The canal is outdated anyway."

Restrictions Too Severe For Ruggers

Saanich restrictions on a proposed private rugby ground will probably be too restrictive for the Oak Bay Wanderers to proceed.

But the club will wait for a draft bylaw including the restrictions and it is willing to work with Saanich to find an alternative playing field.

This was stated by a club official today following a meeting Thursday night.

Council decided earlier this week to include such restrictions as no commercial use of the ground, no floodlights and no clubhouse.

WAIT FOR WORDING

The rugby club official said while it is felt this will be "too prohibitive" to go ahead with the project it will wait for the bylaw to be drafted.

He also mentioned working with Saanich to find an alternative site if this is the case, specifically the municipally-owned Lambrick Estate at Gordon Head — suggested by one councillor who opposed the club's rezoning application.

The club applied to rezone just over four acres on the north side of Walema between Santa Clara and Del Monte. Council rejected the application at a public hearing, then reconsidered this decision and proceeded but with restrictions on the ground.

Ask The Times

Q. When did the Empress of India come to Vancouver? M.G.

A. The ship was launched in 1890 and came to this coast the following year. It was on the Orient run until at least 1911, says a CPR spokesman here.

Q. What is red tide and how does it affect seagulls when they eat shellfish? I am nine years old. R.C.

A. Red tide is an algae which grows in the sea at certain times of the year and is poisonous. The poison is concentrated in oysters and clams and when these shellfish are eaten by humans it produces disease which affects the nerves and can be fatal. Birds are much more resistant to poison than animals and humans and there are no known cases of seagulls being affected through eating contaminated shellfish.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

COMING to Victoria Monday to speak at Gyro Club luncheon at Empress Hotel is Senator Wallace McCutcheon, former federal cabinet minister and now in the running for the leadership of the national Conservative party which will be decided in September.

CURTIS DEMANDING ACTION

Open Dump Disposal 'Absolutely Absurd'

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis will reactivate local government consideration of improved garbage disposal.

And a new ratepayers group in Saanich will urge all Greater Victoria municipal councils to consider improved methods of both garbage and sewage disposal.

At present, garbage is trucked to open dumps and sewage from the sanitary sewer areas is piped into the sea.

Reeve Curtis, who initiated inter-municipal consideration of garbage disposal some time age, said today he is in the process of reactivating the subject at the inter-municipal level.

TECHNICAL REVIEW

He said there was a technical review by experts but at least one municipality didn't report back to the inter-municipal committee.

President Roy Ralfs of the Saanich Action Committee, which met Thursday night in Prospect Lake Community Hall, said local councils will be asked to investigate alternative methods of garbage and sewage disposal.

About 40 person attended the meeting and another one is expected to be held next month.

LACK OF INTEREST

The Saanich Action Committee has been concerned about the Hartland Road dump, used by the city and Saanich and located just outside Saanich borders.

Reeve Curtis said there doesn't seem to be a "strong interest" in garbage disposal in other municipalities although there is in Saanich.

Public reaction will assist others in reaching a decision, he said.

'ABSURD'

"In the last part of the 20th century, for municipalities to condone carting garbage into the hills and leaving it is absolutely absurd," he said.

While he had not failed to bring this to the attention of others, the result was "something short of overwhelming agreement."

The reeve said there is no reason why the present method can't be improved but it will cost money. If the public will support paying for first-class disposal "then we can do it."

"On the face of it, it is the kind of thing that could be turned to the regional board, failing inter-municipal co-operation," he said.

But it was "unrealistic" for Saanich to tackle the problem alone.

"ALL OR NOTHING'

If the city of Victoria did not join the effort, it would still use Hartland Road dump.

"It has to be an all or nothing situation, otherwise we are just reducing the size of the dump a little," he said.

But while dumping is a "totally unsatisfactory principle," the present dump is being run in a better way than several years ago. "But it is still a dump," he added.

The question of rats, he said, was "properly refuted" by medical health officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread earlier this week.

Dr. Whitbread called reports of an exploding rat population at Hartland Road "eyewash" and said there has been no increase in complaints and in the judgment of sanitary inspectors no increase in the rat population.

Poison bait is laid twice a week at Hartland Road to control the rats.

RAIN GIVES LIFT TO CAMP FIRE BAN

A ban on camp fires in Vancouver Island forest district was lifted today by forestry officials.

The ban has been in effect since July 14, when continuous dry weather sent the fire hazard zooming to the extremes.

Rain in the past few days has brought the hazard down to low.

DARK BLUE-GREEN in color but golden in price, the new summer shirt worn by Saanich police Sgt. Leslie Ledson cost $23. Constables and sergeants were issued three shirts each. Of wool and a synthetic fabric, they are expected to last five years each and officers are expected to pay their own dry-leaning bills. Meanwhile, Saanich firemen next door have heard their new shirts are on the way. They cost $3.78 each and are worn year-round.

Man Pleads Guilty To 7 More Charges

A man jailed for four months Thursday when convicted of being unlawfully in a dwelling, returned to central court this morning to plead guilty to seven additional charges.

David J. King, 40, of 3229 Doncaster admitted writing six bad cheques totalling $284.80 at downtown stores over the past 24 days.

The goods he got were sold for nominal sums in beer parlors, court was told. None of the merchandise has been recovered.

King also admitted leaving the Dominion Hotel, 759 Yates, owing $60.55 after a four-day stay there earlier this month.

He was scheduled to return to court later today to be sentenced on this morning's charges.

Thursday King was found guilty of forcing his way back into the house of Mrs. Annie Crystal, 630 Constance, after a party at the home he was attending broke up in the early hours of July 4.

Three Months For Indecent Act

A man who blamed his truck's steering when he crashed into a tree last month pleaded guilty to impaired driving in central court this morning.

Court was told his truck ran through a ditch and a fence before hitting the tree in the 900-block Foul Bay Road June 17.

At the same time Aakre was jailed for three months when sentenced for committing an indecent act he had earlier admitted to.

Certificate Earned In Gemmology Course

Samuel J. Edmundson, 363 Robertson Street, has completed a course in gemmology held by the Canadian Jewellers Institute and has been granted his certificate, it was announced today.

CARELESS DRIVERS

Fined in traffic court today for careless driving:

Anne McGee of 1466 Rockland, $40; Alfred Roberts of 3504 Plymouth, $40 and Reginald Pierce of 841 Esquimalt Rd., $35.

STUDENTS' VIEW OF CANADA

We're a Group of 'Negative, Regional Thinkers'

Take 16 teen-agers across Canada from coast to coast and you will have a pretty good assessment of the real Canada.

That's the way it looked when youngsters from Montreal arrived in Victoria Thursday after a cross-country tour and began to sum up their experiences.

The visitors are from four high schools in the Montreal area, the winning teams of a television series educational competition, "Challenge."

The students arrived by ferry Wednesday afternoon from Vancouver, and returned to Vancouver by air Thursday night.

They have been travelling since June 26. By air, train, and bus, they have toured the Maritimes, central Canada, the Prairies and B.C.

They have lots to say about Canada.

"Canadians think too regionally," said John Peeters, 15, from Mount Royal Catholic School.

"I don't disdain regional flavor and I don't like flag-wavers, but it is important to have a clear concept in terms of nationhood."

John didn't find such a concept on his travels.

"There is no place in Canada where Canadians think as Canadians first. I wish there was.

"But travel helps. If only every Canadian could travel from sea to sea.

"Once you've seen the Rockies and the prairies, the east and the west, you can't go back to thinking in terms of your own two blocks."

According to Nancy Layton, 15, of Hudson High School on the outskirts of Montreal, Canadians do have some sense of nationality.

"It's kind of a negative thing, like anti-Americanism. But there is a feeling that we're lucky, that we have no big problems like communism."

Alan Freeman, 16, of West Hill School in downtown Montreal, finds Canada a "miracle."

"When you see how diverse it is, you wonder how it ever stayed together. In every province provincial politics are the big thing, not federal politics."

All were critical of the inability of Canadians to properly preserve historic sites.

"The ultimate insult came when we found the original table from the Quebec Conference of 1864 had been chopped down to fit a smaller room in Regina," said John.

The size of Canada was the greatest impression.

"The Prairies," said Nancy, "are like a fantastic endless backdrop with no one out there."

"It's sheer physical size," said Alan, "is incredible. I knew it was big, but not like this."

Turkey Debs Hit Top Of Popularity Poll

By Penny Saver

You'll have to pardon me if I gobble away today . . . I'm so full of turkey that I'm sure my tastebuds are about to go on strike! I don't blame them, the treats they've been enjoying the last few days are pretty hard to beat.

It all started when I had lunch with John Leonard, who was here this week from Vancouver to tell me about two of the nicest packages that ever helped to take the wrinkles out of a busy housewife's forehead.

John originally hailed from Australia but doesn't for a second regret leaving the land of the kangaroo. As he says, "The only part of the kangaroo that's fit to eat is the tail and we make a soup out of that." John loves to eat and we both had a wonderful time sampling the two dishes he introduced me to. Both are made in the Fraser Valley and, believe it or not, this time we've stolen the show on eastern Canada because they're yet to be introduced there.

Those of you who have had your refrigerators stuffed to the gunwhales with a turkey carcass long after the glow of that first meal will welcome these two packages that make their debut in Victoria this week.

One is a package of 12 slices of turkey that's precooked, covered in a delicious giblet gravy and then frozen in a shallow aluminum pan. Taken from your freezer and popped into a 450 degree oven for 35 minutes, it provides a meal that will have hungry stomachs singing rhapsodies after a long day in the sun.

This little dandy meal is priced at $1.99 and I'm looking forward to astounding the skipper of our family boat when we go cruising this weekend. He's going to jump overboard with glee when I serve this shipboard meal, a-la-Ritz.

The other newcomer to my freezer is going to be just as regular a star on our dining room table. This is a boneless turkey roast that has its own package of giblet gravy. Each one weighs 2 pounds 4 ounces, just the right size for a small family who still likes to eat well.

This one is uncooked and comes in its own aluminum roasting pan. Taken from the freezer and thawed, its cooking time is a handy two hours. It sells for $2.99. As both these new starlets are solid white and dark meat they're well worth their price tags.

After tasting them both, I don't condemn John a bit for forsaking his kangaroos. Wallabies may pack a wallop, but packaged, they'd leave a lot to be desired.

If you have a yen to join the current Turkey Trot brigade give me a ring at 382-3131. I'll be delighted to let you know where to shop.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Lowman

Q. I have what are called dishpan hands. I do all of my own work, cooking and cleaning and laundry and can't seem to keep them presentable. Please tell me what to do.

A. Dishpan hands are rough and also consist of a little network of cuts. Therefore, a cream which is both soothing and healing is essential. There are good ones on the market. It's a good idea also to keep a tube in the kitchen for any minor cuts or burns which may occur.

I hope you wear rubber gloves. Those with a lining will be helpful. Wear cotton gloves when doing your rougher housecleaning. Apply the cream after each dishwashing or other irritating sessions.

Q. I have a curvature of the spine. One hip is higher than the other. Can anything be done about it? Please give me some exercises. I am 15 years old.

A. Yes, you can do something about it, but the exercises you take should be carefully prescribed and supervised. The wrong kind could do more damage than good. Get in touch with an orthopedic physician.

Q. I would like to try false eyelashes because I know how flattering they can be, because some of my friends wear them. However, I feel sort of silly and maybe a little timid about wearing them. I am, after all, 45 years old. Should I or shouldn't I?

A. By all means, yes. When you wrote, "I am, after all, 45 years old," that typed you as being very age-conscious. Stop feeling that way in every category. Perhaps the first step in overcoming age-consciousness might be to buy some false eyelashes and wear them.

You do not have to wear the kind which look like awnings, flapping in the breeze. There are false eyelashes which are delicate and natural in appearance.

Q. Why do some women have a problem with superfluous hair and others do not?

A. It depends on the individual glandular system.

All too often the beef in stroganoff is not tender so Mary Moore switched and made pork stroganoff that IS tender and quite a bit less expensive.

COOKING CAN BE FUN WITH MARY MOORE

Substitute Makes Tender Eating

Moore

The beef stroganoff was tough at an important function with a long buffet table. I could understand the chef's problem for the beef for stroganoff must be from the most expensive cuts to ensure tenderness. Then it occurred to me that pork could be used and would be tender for sure.

I bought lean shoulder pork at 59 cents per pound and made—

PORK STROGANOFF (serves 8 amply)

One and one-half pounds (3 cups packed), clean fresh shoulder pork cut into 2x¼" strips, ½ cup flour (first amount), 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 clove garlic finely chopped, 2 onions chopped (OR ½ Spanish onion), 6 tablespoons flour (second amount), one 10-oz. can consomme, one 10-oz. can mushroom stems and pieces, 2 cups dairy sour cream, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, ½ teaspoon Angostura bitters (optional), 3 cups broad noodles, ½ teaspoon salt, ¾ cups boiling water.

Trim all fat from pork and cut into 2x¼" strips. You should have 3 cups. In a paper bag mix together the ½ cup flour, salt and pepper and shake meat strips in it to dredge them.

In very large frying pan melt butter and saute onions, garlic and meat in it until meat is golden. Remove from heat.

In a separate pan mix a little of the consomme with the 6 tablespoons flour to make a smooth paste then add remaining consomme, the mushrooms and their liquid, sour cream, Worcestershire sauce and Angostura bitters (if used).

Boil the noodles with ½ teaspoon salt in boiling water until tender—about 15 minutes. Drain through colander.

While noodles are cooking add consomme—mushroom—sour cream mixture to meat in pan and heat through, stirring, until thickened and just boiling. Turn out onto large deep platter and arrange drained noodles around edge and serve.

A New You

by Emily Wilkens

Perhaps you're finally ready to fold your tent and head beachward for your annual two-week vacation. Or maybe you whiz off to the shore for sun and sea breezes every weekend.

Most girls adore the golden look in summer. Getting to Tansville, unfortunately, may not be the fun thing it appears. In fact, it can turn out to be sheer agony. Many who hope for a toasty glow end up roasty red instead.

Your skin tone is usually a good indication of the degree to which you may safely expose yourself to the sun. If your skin pigment is dark or olive (brunette or brownette), you're the lucky lass who tans quickly and easily. Burning is rare.

Brownettes and some dark blondes with medium-toned skin can usually achieve a golden tan when proper moderation is exercised.

Fair blondes and redheads should proceed with extreme caution as far as sun-worshipping is concerned. Just a "minute too much" may result in a painful burn, plus a mighty array of freckles.

To suntan sensibly, proceed by degrees. On the first day out, allow yourself about ten minutes per side in direct sunlight, depending upon your skin tone.

On subsequent days, add another ten to 15 minutes, according to your reactions.

Only mad dogs and Englishmen go out in the noonday sun. Avoid broiling on the beach during the hours from 12 to 3, when the sun's burning rays are most intense.

Overexposure to the sun is dangerous for anyone, even the sultriest brunette. It can cause really serious burns, which in some cases require hospitalization. It leads to other problems, too, premature aging and wrinkling, leathery skin, dry hair, and chapped lips.

To counter the sun's effects, use a hair conditioner. Wear moisturized lipstick or lip gloss. There are special glosses for use in sun and surf. If not blemished, safeguard your skin by applying a protective lotion which allows the tanning, but not the burning, rays of the sun to penetrate. Investigate medicated preparations for problem skins!

Romping around in the sun is often doubly dangerous. When you're having fun, you're not as likely to notice the havoc subtly but ultimately caused by the sun. Swimming, sailing and surfing invite windburn as well as sunburn.

Protect your nose and cheeks from the glare with extra-protective preparations, plus a beach hat for shade. Cover up periodically with a gay, long-sleeved shirt or beach dress, or head for the nearest umbrella.

Wear sunglasses for driving, reading, or just sitting on the beach. Eyes are sensitive to bright, direct light, and it's harmful to expose them for any length of time. In addition, you'll squint to compensate for the glare and eventually wind up with permanent lines and wrinkles.

Remember that though a deep, deep bronze tan may be a status symbol, it's neither healthy nor beneficial for your precious skin.

The "New You" who tans with discretion will certainly emerge as this summer's Golden Girl.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Small Threat Will Do Wonders

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I decided after many years to refurnish our home. I am now in the midst of it and am quite pleased with the results so far, but I've encountered a problem.

My decorator makes uncalled-for advances toward me when he comes to my home and also at his shop when no one is around. He is a very unattractive, middle-aged family man.

I prefer not to change decorators at this point, but I am getting tired of ducking and dodging and avoiding his pinches and pats. Please don't advise me to put him in his place as it won't work. And don't suggest I report him to his boss, as he owns the studio.

VALLEY CLIENT

DEAR CLIENT: For you to go on ducking, dodging, and using fancy footwork to escape the clutches of this self-styled Casanova-type merchant is ludicrous. Stop playing games and tell him to keep his mind on his business or you will take your business elsewhere. I guarantee you from that time on you won't have any trouble with him.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter (I'll call her Nellie) is 24 and plans to marry a "handyman." He makes his living from jobs provided by relatives—stacking grocery shelves, running errands, etc.

He is pouty, sullen, discourteous, and egotistical. He attended college but flunked out.

Nellie is the private secretary to an executive and draws a good salary. She has over $6,000 saved, is intelligent, nice looking, and well-liked. She could have her pick of many nice young men, but what she sees in this dud we will never know.

Our pastor tried to talk some sense into her head, but he got nowhere. She says she "loves" him. How can we keep her from making the biggest mistake in her life by going through with this marriage?

WORRIED PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: You can't. So don't try. "Love" with some people is a mental illness which dosen't respond to logic. If this is a "mistake" she will have to make it and learn the hard way. Let's hope her "handyman," with Nellie's help, turns out better than you think he will.

DEAR ABBY: We have recently become friendly with a couple who are strict vegetarians. They are very quiet about it, and don't try to talk other people into it, which we respect and admire.

When we entertain at home and include our vegetarian friends, we always have plenty of vegetables and fruits along with meat and fish for those who are not vegetarians. We've never made an issue of it, but this is the way our vegetarian friends seem more comfortable.

Well, we came in for a great deal of criticism from a CLERGYMAN, mind you. He said when vegetarians are guests, the host should serve NO meat or fish as vegetarians would be offended at the sight of others eating it. Are we wrong?

WILLING TO LEARN

DEAR WILLING: After checking this out with the authorities (some of my best friends are vegetarians) they unanimously agree that they PREFER their hosts to serve normally, and let each guest select what he wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack B. Fielder, 1009 Tolmie Avenue, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Judith-Anne, to Mr. Walter Brian Spaven, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Spaven, 1164 Bewdley Avenue. The ceremony will take place on Friday, August 4, at 7:30 p.m. in St. John's Anglican Church. Canon Grahame Baker will officiate. (Don Ryan Photos)

Bride Chooses Heirloom Ring As 'Something Old' Talisman

An heirloom sapphire and diamond ring, originally belonging to the groom's mother, was "something old" for Joanne Evelyn Thomas for her recent marriage to Dennis Stephen Henry Moore.

The bride's floor-length sheath gown was styled in cage fashion with lace. A sabrina neckline and sleeves tipping the elbows enhanced the slim lines of the gown. Soft fullness at the back extended into a cathedral train. Her headpiece of pearl fabric flowers, shimmering with pearls and rhinestones, held the four-tier wedding veil which misted to chapel-length, and she carried yellow roses with ivy in her cascade bouquet.

White carnations with fern were at the altar of St. Michael's and All Angels Church for the ceremony which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Thomas, 4584 Scarborough Road, and the son of Mrs. E. E. Moore, Vancouver, and the late Evans Moore. Standards of yellow chrysanthemums and white gladioli completed the decor. Rev. W. E. Greenhalgh officiated, and Mr. Thomas gave his daughter in marriage.

Maid of honor Miss Sharon Filek wore a gown of pale green crystal charm, styled with bodice and sleeves of green lace. Her headpiece of tulle was en tone with the gown, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white and yellow chrysanthemums. Bridesmaid, sister of the bride, Miss Patricia Thomas, chose a similar outfit in yellow.

Peter Thomas proposed the toast to his daughter at the reception following in the Thomas' Scarborough Road home.

The newlyweds will make their home at 1724 Newton Road, when they return from a honeymoon at Parksville. For travelling the bride donned a suit in yellow and white, which she complemented with bone accessories and a yellow cymbidium orchid.

The groom's mother, Mrs. E. E. Moore, travelled from Vancouver for the wedding. Also attending were the bride's grandfather, J. Thomas, Mrs. Dorothy Moody of Calgary; Mr. and Mrs. David Thomas of Vancouver, and Miss Nancy Nelson, Grimshaw, Alta.

MARRIED HERE

To Make Home in Kamloops After Trip to Penticton

Following a trip to Penticton, newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Duane Richard Sutherland will make their home in Kamloops, where the groom is teaching high school.

The bride is the former Linda Stringer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell I. Stringer, 4025 Magdelin Street, and the groom is the son of Mrs. John S. Blanchard, 1701 Island Highway, and the late Wilbur MacKay Sutherland. St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church was decorated with arrangements of white and blue gladioli and deep blue delphiniums for the service conducted by Rev. J. A. Roberts.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of silk chiffon, styled with a high ring collar, and soft chiffon panels over the shoulders, forming sleeves. Tiny floral appliques starred with crystals edged the hemline of the slim skirt. A bow of norganza held her cathedral veil of silk illusion net which was accented with soft flowers, and she carried a crescent bouquet of pink gladioli and stephanotis with silver ribbons.

Maid of honor was Miss Corol Smith, and bridesmaids were the Misses Dale Ingram and Brenda Brown.

A tiered wedding cake was cut by the couple with a sword belonging to the groom's family at the reception following in the Olde England Inn. J. A. Sadler proposed the toast to the bride.

First Awards To Women

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal designer Lydia Sperlich and Claire Haddad of Toronto have been named winners of the first Coty Canadian Fashion Critics' Award.

The award, presented for the first time this year, was to honor the Canadian designers "who have contributed most significantly to fashion in the past year."

The winners were chosen by a panel of Canadian fashion editors.

A special collection, consisting of 12 new pieces by each designer, will be shown Nov. 2 as part of a gala at Montreal's Place des Arts, along with collections by this year's American award winners, Rudi Gernrich, Oscar de la Renta, Donald Brooks and Levine.

SPORTY LOOK

Miss Sperlich will present a collection of rainwear and sportswear with dresses and pants that should be worn with such coats.

"I design for the active woman, no matter what her age," Miss Sperlich said. "But what I like about today's young look is that a woman can wear colors which suit her rather than being restricted to basic black because of her age."

Mrs. Haddad has made her name by presenting a line of lounge wear and lingerie which she describes as "pretty things . . . the type of garments men buy at Christmas time."

'Distinguished Airmen, Test Pilots;' Firefighters Buried

In a steady drizzle of rain the bodies of two water-bomber pilots were carried to their last resting place Thursday.

Some 200 persons packed Sands Funeral Chapel in Sidney to pay respects to the men who died fighting a forest fire on Skirt Mountain at Goldstream last Sunday.

Ironically, the rain which dampened the occasion was also putting out the fire which cost the two men their lives.

Conducting the funeral service for Alexander Davidson and R. T. Moore, Canon F. C. Vaughan-Birch said:

"They were distinguished airmen — test pilots — men of outstanding experience.

"The lives of these men challenge us to carry on, conscientiously."

He recalled that both men were decorated wartime fliers and had pioneered their hazardous job of water-bombing.

Mr. Davidson, 43, leaves the widow, Marjorie, a son Craig 16, and daughter Bonnie, 19.

Mr. Moore, 45, leaves the widow Kathy and three sons, Robert 19, Andrew 16, and Donald 10.

Anti-Smoke Fighter Dies at 51

Harold Gregson, 51, of 474 East Burnside, carried his fight against smoke pollution to the eve of his death Wednesday.

In poor health for some time Mr. Gregson maintained a steady barrage of letters to Victoria city council, and the press to protest the smoke hazard from B.C. Forest Products.

One of his last letters to the editor, published recently by the Times, protested that recent equipment changes at the Gorge Road mill had failed to eliminate air pollution.

Employed as a hotel clerk in daily life Mr. Gregson never hesitated to tilt lances with mill executives or members of city council.

His file of letters to city's air pollution committee is one of the fattest in city hall.

For a brief period in 1961-62 he served on the committee he was later to attack for apathy and neglect. Appointed to the committee in Oct. 1961 he resigned the following June.

Mr. Gregson is survived by his wife, May, one brother, Ronald and two nieces living in Edmonton.

Mr. Gregson was a member of the Salvation Army Citadel.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m Saturday in the McCall Chapel with Major R. McKerracher officiating.

RETIRING at the end of the month is deputy minister of lands in the provincial government, Edward W. Bassett, 65. He has held the position since 1954 and was also a commissioner of the Public Utilities Commission. A successor has not yet been named.

WAC's 1967 Project —Get Rid of Grits

A final Centennial project was suggested Thursday by Premier Bennett — get rid of the Liberal government in Ottawa.

"We need a new government this year," he said in an interview. "The quicker the election, the better for all the people."

A federal election this year is considered unlikely, but there has been speculation of one next year.

The premier said a new government in Ottawa "would be good for the country."

It had nothing to do with Nova Scotia Premier Stanfield's decision this week to seek the leadership of the Progressive Conservative party, he said.

Going to Expo? Here's Places to Stay

A little story about accommodation in Montreal during these months of Expo 67 may help you if you are thinking of taking a look at Canada's big centennial spectacular.

Some time ago Rev. H. R. Whitmore of this city and his wife Nan decided to holiday down east and naturally planned a few days in Montreal.

Forbes

They didn't have room reservations in that city when they left here. And they still didn't have anything definite when they reached Ottawa.

However, Mrs. Whitmore discovered a letter in an Ottawa newspaper offering what sounded to her as "the kind of place we'd like."

She contacted the Montreal phone number given in the letter, was attracted by the friendly voice that answered, and reserved a room for the following two or three days.

From here on the story would be better told in her own words. She writes that "Our room is lovely and is classed as an 'eight and two', meaning $8 single or $10 a couple.

"There is a fine double bed, good clothes closet and drawers and use of a bathroom, shower, etc., all to ourselves.

"It's a new subdivision and these 18 young couples are showing true Quebec hospitality. Our hosts come originally from Calgary and Ottawa and are so homey. Buses to Expo leave frequently and all information is available."

Nan Whitmore goes on to say that "these young hosts and hostesses would be happy to entertain visitors coming to Montreal during Expo 67. They haven't had much help from Logexpo and they cannot advertise except by letter such as the one that appeared in the Ottawa paper."

I'm going to give you that letter now in the knowledge that if the Whitmores say the accommodation is good, and the people offering it interesting and hospitable, then it is definitely so.

It reads: "We have been distressed to hear about poor quality accommodation for Expo visitors in Montreal.

"We would like to assure you that there are families living in pleasant Montreal suburban homes within 20-30 minutes driving distance to Expo, who will welcome guests in clean, comfortable homes at moderate government rates.

"More information can be obtained by contacting the writer at 291 Inglewood Avenue, Pointe Claire, Montreal, or telephone (area code 514) 697-1813.

While we are on the Expo 67 track, I'm rather surprised at the report that Princess Grace of Monaco drew 6,000 more of a crowd in the first two hours of the day she attended the big show than did Queen Elizabeth II during the same time on the day she was there.

Looking at turnstile figures alone, one could find a modicum of truth in this statement. But when you remember that in the first two hours of Queen Elizabeth's visit, strict security rules held back the people and kept crowds from entering the gates (something that did not happen on the day Princess Grace was there) the story seems to me to be basically untrue.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When you have to lose a trick any way it is good policy to consider exactly when you want to lose it. There is no bonus paid for winning the first trick.

Most players would have doubled four spades with the South hand. Then they would have complained about bad luck if West had managed to make his contract. We aren't sure West would have, but we are sure that he could have. In fact he might even have made an overtrick if hearts were opened and continued. He would have to gamble that he could get to dummy with a diamond. He would start by leading a high diamond and putting on dummy's king. Later on he would overtake his six with East's eight to finesse the spades. Assuming that he had not already lost a club trick he would wind up discarding dummy's losing club on a long diamond.

All this is academic. South's bid was five hearts. West doubled and led the queen of diamonds. East played the eight and South looked things over.

He saw that he wasn't going to make five hearts but he wanted to hold his loss to one trick and the way to do it would be to keep East out of the lead so he ducked the first diamond.

From then on he had no problems. He won the diamond continuation, drew trumps, knocked out West's ace of clubs, and would have been able to discard a spade on dummy's fifth club except that West cashed his ace of spades right away and saved South this trouble.

East and West could have beaten him two tricks but it would have involved an almost impossible play. East would have had to play his king of diamonds on the queen and later West would have had to lead low to the eight spot.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

ABC-TV may be trying to disguise it as something it isn't but the network is introducing a third night of old movies next fall.

The chancy networks new "Off To See The Wizard" will aim at the youngsters and unreel old family feature pictures never before aired.

Stephen

The film products will be introduced by animated characters from the original "Wizard of Oz."

The animation will total only 4½ minutes but although limited, this marks a return of animation to prime time, something major animators have been predicting for years.

ABC has selected 14 film features from its own and MGM's libraries to fill the major part of the hours. Some of the films are new, a few now in production.

Included in this group is Ivan Tors' "Island of the Lost," a David Wolper documentary titled "Untamed World," and "Mike and the Mermaid," a 30-minute pilot film which wasn't sold and will be expanded to 60 minutes.

Most of the rest of them have been shown previously in theatres. These include "Rhino," "Flipper," "Clarence, The Cross-Eyed Lion," "Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," "Gypsy Colt," "Glass Slipper," and "Tarzan, The Ape Man," from the MGM library.

From its own library the network has selected Alexander The Great and Hellcats. A new title will probably be given the latter movie because of the youthful audience the network hopes to attract.

The other two networks will be watching this film series with a great deal of interest and apprehension.

They also have family-oriented shows in the same time slot. "Off To See The Wizard" will be competing against "Wild, Wild West" on CBS-TV and "Tarzan" on NBC-TV.

TID BITS: CBS-TV will present an hour on "The Hippie Temptation" August 22.

The 36th Couchiching Conference to be held in Geneva Park, Lake Couchiching, Ontario, from July 29 to August 4 will get television treatment from CBC-TV in a special one-hour program August 20 . . . Former baseball great Ted Williams will be commentator for ABC's coverage of the Little League World Series in September.

MAGISTRATE'S CAR RULED TO BE UNSAFE

The station's equipment rejected as unsafe a car owned by Magistrate Gerald Levey, the man who had rejected the station as illegal.

"It was embarrassing," the magistrate said Wednesday.

When the magistrate was asked to switch on the high beam of his headlights, all went well. When he was asked to try low beam, the lights went out.

Last March he had ruled invalid the city's safety inspection bylaw, which makes semi-annual safety checks of vehicles using Vancouver streets mandatory.

His decision was upheld by a higher court June 28 and city council Tuesday amended the bylaw so that safety standards at the central testing station are set by council instead of the station superintendent.

REDUCED TO 6 MONTHS

Jail Sentences Ruled 'Severe'

Three Nanaimo men had two-year and 18-month jail terms reduced to six months each in Victoria Supreme Court chambers today.

Mr. Justice George Gregory, who heard their appeal, said the sentences imposed by Nanaimo magistrate Stan Wardill were "too severe."

The men were sentenced in Nanaimo magistrate's court June 23 for contributing to juvenile delinquency by supplying liquor to juvenile girls.

Leon Marcelle Nepper, 22, was sentenced to two years less a day; Ronald Frederick Evans, 22, and Michael McLean, 21, were each sentenced to 18 months.

They were said to have been found with a 13 and a 15-year-old girl in an abandoned cabin at Westwood Lake.

Police said the girls had stayed the night after an all-night drinking party involving teen-agers.

The three men were brought to Victoria Supreme Court from Oakalla jail. Mr. Justice Gregory allowed their appeal against the sentences under the Juvenile Delinquent's Act. But he told them:

"There is very little excuse for giving liquor to juveniles. It is about time you pulled up your socks unless you want to spend the rest of your lives in and out of jail."

Mr. Justice Gregory said Magistrate Wardill seemed to have taken into consideration matters which were "of his own personal knowledge" and not related to the charge.

The men were not represented by a lawyer. E. George MacMinn appeared for the Crown and Mr. Justice Gregory complimented him on his "very fair attitude."

Sonic Boom Recorded —With Aria

LONDON (UPI) — London's first sonic boom had an astonishing echo Wednesday.

It came from a recording studio in the form of a complaint to the ministry of technology, and demanded compensation for a ruined recording session.

The artist involved was Australian soprano Joan Sutherland. Miss Sutherland was recording an aria from Donizetti's Daughter of the Regiment when the boom rolled over London on Monday.

The recording company was annoyed. "The whole aria had to be recorded again, and it might cost as much as $280," a company spokesman said.

But Miss Sutherland "took the boom in her stride, but she certainly hopes it would not happen again," her secretary said.

The sonic booms were being made to study public reaction to the sound which will be produced by the Anglo-French Concorde, now under development.

BIGGER CUT FOR PANAMA

U.S., Panama Reach Agreement on Canal

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Johnson administration has informed Congress the proposed new treaties with Panama on canal matters include turning operation of the waterway over to a joint U.S.-Panamanian commission.

Dirksen said President Johnson and Panamanian President Marco Robles tentatively planned to sign the pacts next Tuesday.

The joint commission would be composed of five U.S. members and four Panamanian members, he said.

As a symbol of Panamanian sovereignty over the canal zone, the flag of Panama would be flown throughout the area, with the American flag permitted only on U.S. buildings and structures.

Dirksen said the treaties contains these other provisions:

— The United States will have the right to build a new sea-level canal in Panama if it chooses.

— A status of forces agreement patterned after similar treaties with European countries will protect the rights of U.S. troops stationed in defense of the canal.

— The U.S. annual payment to Panama for the canal zone area will be increased from $1.9 million to $17.5 million. In addition Panama's share of income from the canal tolls, now 17 cents for each ton moved through it, will rise one cent a ton each year until it reaches 22 cents."

— The United States will be assured a profit on the canal. It will be entitled to 10 cents a ton above operating costs from canal tolls. Dirksen said he did not know whether this would mean an increase in tolls.

U.S. BREAKS TRADE BAR

LONDON (AP) — At least nine nations including the United States have increased their trade with Rhodesia despite UN sanctions against the rebellious British colony, Board of Trade President Douglas Jay said Wednesday night.

Jay told the House of Commons that trade statistics for the first three months of the year, at present available for only a limited number of countries, showed increases in imports from Rhodesia by the U.S., Luxembourg, Portugal and Switzerland and an increase in exports to Rhodesia by France, West Germany, Japan, The Netherlands, Portugal and Yugoslavia.

Wrong-Way Oil Flush Kills Wildlife

BURNABY (CP) — A federal government spokesman Wednesday confirmed reports that 6,000 gallons of oil—believed to be the cause of wholesale deaths among Burnaby Lake wildlife — was accidentally pumped into a water drain.

W. N. Winram, district inspector at the federal government weights and measures inspection services here, said the incident occurred July 4. He did not say if the water drain led the oil into the lake.

The oil, used by the department to measure capacity of tanker trucks, was discharged when a pipe was hooked up to a water outlet rather than a pipe leading back to an oil storage tank.

Burnaby health department officials Wednesday poured a green, non-toxic dye into the outlet in an effort to trace the route the oil took.

Anonymous Call Forces Landing Of RAF Plane

EDMONTON (CP) — An exhaustive search of two Royal Air Force Britannia turbo-jet transports failed to find any trace of a bomb which an anonymous caller said was on board.

Maj. Gerry Bowen, information officer at Canadian Forces base Namao, five miles north of here, said today one of the Britannias had taken off Thursday night with 88 British soldiers aboard and the other, with 75 aboard, was waiting for clearance when the call came.

The airborne plane was routed to Lakehead airport near Ft. William, Ont., where it landed safely. The other was grounded at Namao. Both were evacuated and searched immediately.

The soldiers, Coldstream Guards who had just completed a one-month training period at Camp Wainright, Alta., were returning to London.

Pearson Enthuses Over Dief Vision At Dam Opening

ELBOW, Sask. (CP) — Tributes to the vision both of his chief political opponent and of a former colleague were paid today by Prime Minister Pearson as he dedicated the Gardiner dam on the South Saskatchewan River, 15 miles northwest of here.

He praised Opposition leader John Diefenbaker, who was Prime Minister when agreement for construction of the dam was reached by the federal and Saskatchewan governments in 1958, and the late Rt. Hon. James G. Gardiner, who urged building of the dam while federal minister of agriculture.

The three-mile-long dam has been named after Mr. Gardiner. The reservoir it creates for irrigation, power and industrial use has been named after Mr. Diefenbaker.

"Without the vision of the two men whose names we are formally enshrining in our history today, this accomplishment would still be no more than hope and aspiration," Mr. Pearson said.

'BOLD DECISION'

"I pay tribute to the vision of the late Jimmy Gardiner, who fought for so many years to have this project undertaken, and to the vision of John Diefenbaker, who took the bold decision as the leader of the government that made this ceremony possible today," the Prime Minister said.

Mr. Pearson said the project results from a great effort in co-operation for the good of Saskatchewan and therefore the good of Canada.

As such, he said it is a true centennial project which could not have been realized without the constructive co-operation of federal and provincial governments.

Mr. Pearson said that in the beginning the project would irrigate 40,000 acres but this can be extended in time to some 200,000 acres and perhaps more with improvements in irrigation technology.

The first power would be generated in 1968 and when the plant is completed, 800,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity would be available in an average year—more than one-third of the total power generated by the Saskatchewan Power Corporation in 1963.

IMPROVE HYDRO ECONOMY

Control of the river also would improve the economics of developing hydro-power sites downstream.

Creation of a lake 140 miles long would provide a vast new recreation area within easy reach of half the population of Saskatchewan.

He said the dam and the lake are an example of "co-operative federalism at its best." Through the federal contribution of the major share of construction cost all the people of Canada had a part in the construction.

Through the co-operation of the prairie provinces uses of the previous water would be tremendously expanded.

Mr. Pearson said no group of men had played a more essential role than the engineers and staff of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act which has been involved in the conservation and reclamation of land and water resources on the prairies since 1935.

He paid tribute to their work and that of contractors, superintendents and workmen "who have accomplished this impressive feat of engineering and construction."

CURTIS:

All Facts To Be Given Before Vote

All the facts on the proposed sewer utility in Saanich will be given to ratepayers before any vote.

This was stated today by Reeve Hugh Curtis, who noted that the proposal to comine all separate sewer systems into one utility has prompted a "small amount" of resident reaction for more information or opposition to the plan.

Saanich is working towards a ratepayer vote on the question in December and municipal officials are working on the details.

Basically, the separately financed individual systems would be rolled into one and an area likely to be sewered in the next five years would be added to this.

SINGLE LEVY

In place of the many different charges at present, there would be a single common levy. This will result in increases for some and substantial decreases for others.

A sewer utility would facilitate expansion of sewers in the municipality and allow it to blend into the regional trunk sewer plan.

Reeve Curtis said it is not posible to give all the details nor to answer some inquiries being received because not all the statistical information has been gathered and council hasn't had the opportunity to review "several alternative plans" open to Saanich in establishing a utility.

MORE STUDIES

"On a subject as important as this, and where changes in the financial structure of existing sewer systems will be recommended, it is essential that ratepayers have all the facts before them in advance of the date they are asked to cast their vote," he said.

"I emphasize again, that such explanatory material will be forthcoming prior to the proposed voting day near the end of the year.

"In all logic and if this municipality is to effectively overcome the sewerage problems which are assuming increasing importance, then a resounding affirmative vote by a fully-informed electorate is essential."

Close to 30,000 Saanich ratepayers will be eligible to vote on the issue.

French Islands Holding Whip In Fish War

Newfoundland to Feel Pinch If New Drive Successful

ST. PIERRE (CP)—These French-owned islands 12 miles off the southern coast of Newfoundland are in a position to hurt the Canadian fishing industry and primarily that of Newfoundland.

President Charles de Gaulle of France may have given an indication here Thursday that his country is about to exploit that political and geographic advantage.

France has a "duty" to St. Pierre-Miquelon, her last North American colonies, the general said during his 10-hour visit en route to Quebec City and Montreal. "France will do what she must."

He pointed out that St. Pierre-Miquelon depend mainly on fishing and tourism as the base for their economy and, admitting that the economy of the islands had a "problem," offered to discuss these issues with their representatives.

Newfoundland was known for a long time as a floating fish wharf and it took concerted efforts of the residents to win the right to set up permanent homes there.

Before that, fishermen from Europe arrived each spring and left in the fall.

St. Pierre-Miquelon, home to about 5,500 French citizens, wants to compromise and, without evicting her loyal French subjects, become the home port for as many of the Grand Banks fishing draggers as possible.

The big thing she has going for her is trans-shipment — A sytem under which foreign draggers, many of them thousands of miles from home, can land fish for freezing and storing and pick up the catch later by refrigerated cargo vessels.

Many of them now pass their cargo on to factory ships or return home when their holds are full.

The European Common Market has financed a $3,000,000 harbor improvement program, adding berthing space by building piers along the waterfront.

General de Gaulle toured these Thursday and visited the Societe de Peche et Congelation fish processing plant here.

There have been rumors in recent years that European and American fishing interests might set up additional plants to fillet, pack and freeze fish.

Any move to entice the lucrative supply business for Grand Banks fishing fleets away from St. Johns, Nfld., could mean potential loss of thousands of dollars to that Canadian port.

GAINS FROM TOURISTS

Up to 5,000 Portuguese fishermen can be found in St. Johns when the entire fleet is in and this means thousands in tourist dollars from the men.

Fuel companies and others also do a lucrative business getting the foreign dragging outfitted.

St. Pierre is even closer to the Grand Banks than St. John's and this gives it some advantage in terms of sailing time for ships which must put into port for fuel, water and food.

The marine haulout here also competes with drydock facilities in Newfoundland and other parts of eastern Canada for repair business when foreign draggers encounter technical trouble.

Many claim it is much cheaper to have repair work done here than at Marystown or St. Johns, Nfld.

DE GAULLE

Quebec Pulls All Stops For Visit

QUEBEC (CP) — The state ers who will line streets and highways to glimpse the general in the history of what Premier Daniel Johnson calls the gest, brashest and costliest bash French-Canadian nation.

The Quebec government has prepared an all-stops-pulled welcome for the general, who ar- Official predictions of Quebec- visit of President de Gaulle of France shapes up as the big- rives Sunday aboard the French navy cruiser Colbert to begin a five-day state visit to Canada. Most of the visit will be spent in this province.

ONE MILLION

exceed 1,000,000. Thousands of flags of France and Quebec line the route and the cost of it all is in the tens of thousands.

It's a headache for police, but no concern is shown for the general's personal safety. Police say the biggest problems will be posed by crowd and traffic control along the many miles of de Gaulle's Quebec travels.

Although there is plenty of pomp and formality scheduled, the theme underlying much of the visit's preparation stresses fun such as street dancing, folksinging and fireworks.

WAVING FLAGS

It is going to be a warmhearted welcome with, according to plans, thousands of tiny tots waving flags of France and Quebec wherever the general goes. And tour organizers anticipate several unscheduled stops at the general's request.

De Gaulle will disembark at Wolfe's Cove beneath the cliffs of the Plains of Abraham where New France fell to British forces in 1759. Much notice has been given that this harbor property belongs to the government of Canada.

He will be greeted by Gov.-Gen. Roland Michener and travel across the plains, also Canadian government territory, to the Citadel, summer residence of the governor-general, where there will be a federal reception.

After this de Gaulle becomes pretty much provincial property —visiting city hall, going to church at the Roman Catholic shrine in Ste. Anne de Beaupre, to lunch at Petit-Cap, site of the first technical school of New France.

While de Gaulle is treated to a state dinner by the Quebec government, a red-white-and-blue fireworks display described as enormous will light the sky over the Plains of Abraham where an outdoor dance will take place.

No. 4 Man Openly Called Mao Enemy

PEKING (Reuters)—Tao Chu, former propaganda chief and No. 4 in the Chinese Communist party, today was openly named in the official Chinese press as an opponent of Mao Tse-tung.

The official Shanghai newspaper Wen Hui Pao publishes two pages of criticism of the 61-year-old Tao which it says were first made in Red Guard wall posters last year.

Tao, last seen in public last December, is one of three Chinese leaders who since then have been constantly condemned in demonstratons, unofficial Red Guard newspapers and wall posters as opponents of the Maoists.

BARE BOTTOMS DRAW COMPLAINT

'We Only Look at Tops!'

TORONTO (CP) — The policeman who wrote the information admits he was unable to determine the sex, but a boy and a girl have been accused of walking naked along the beach of Toronto Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin ter Woort, parents of 18-monthsold Marc and 2½-year-old Lisa will receive summonses by mail because the children were "walking in public disorder, contrary to a bylaw of the Toronto parks commission."

Mr. ter Woort, an economist at the University of Toronto, said police called him Wednesday and read an official report outlining how an officer "while walking in an easterly direction along Ward's Island discovered two boys. . . ."

"I said: 'Wait a minute, I don't have two boys,'" Mr. Woort said. "The officer said that both the kids had short hair."

When Mrs. ter Woort cut in to ask whether the policeman did not know how to tell boys from girls, the officer replied: "We only look at the tops."

Someone, however, objected to the bottoms, and a complaint was lodged that the children had been on the beach without bathing suits for the third time in a week.

Mr. ter Woort says he finds the charges funny. "I figure, what magistrate is going to take them seriously?"

He said he does not intend to pay the $25 fine normally assessed under the bylaw.

Vietnam War Cost Prevents Spending For War on Rats

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. House of Representatives killed an administration bill Thursday to provide federal money for a rat extermination program in the nation's slums.

President Johnson irately termed the economy action "a cruel blow to the poor children of America."

"The least we can do is give our children the same protection that we give our livestock," Johnson declared in a statement after his measure to provide $40,000,000 over a two year period to combat rats went down to defeat.

The adverse administration vote came on a rule which would have made the bill subject to debate and amendment. It was defeated 207 to 176.

'CAN DO WITHOUT'

Opponents of the measure hit hard on the fact it involved spending money while the nation was at war.

"This is one program we could do without," Rep. Delbert Latta (R, Ohio) said in the brief discussion which preceded rejection of the bill.

Rep. H. R. Gross (R, Iowa) mocked at the proposed program. He suggested it could lead to creation of a government post of "high commissioner of the rat corps." He called the legislation "so ludicrous we ought not even to entertain the rule."

The bill would have distributed grants to states and localities to pay up to two-thirds of fhe cost of programs to get rid of rats.

The House banking committee, which approved the measure, put the rat population at least 90,000,000 and estimated their annual damage at $10 per rat.

In a speech that brought a round of applause, Rep. Martha Griffiths (D. Mich) said rats made Genghis Khan and Hitler "look like pikers."

"Rats have killed more humans than all the generals in history put together," she said. "Rats are a living cargo of death. Their tails switch through sewers and over the food you eat.

"If you're going to spend $79,000,000,000 to kill off a few Viet Cong, I'd spend $40,000,000 to kill off the most devastating enemy that man has ever had."

After the defeat, Rep. Theodore Kupferman (R. N.Y.), told the House he was "ashamed" of the vote.

Russians Bungled Mideast Debates

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Western diplomats are not as surprised by the Soviet Union's failure to win the diplomatic battle at the United Nations over the Middle East as by the string of blunders that caused the Russians to lose the skirmishes as well as the war itself.

No one can recall a time when the Kremlin got into so many untenable positions and suffered so many rebuffs in any similar two-month period.

This raises questions of whether Soviet diplomats suddenly lost their touch, and, if so, who was to blame for the step-by-step lapses.

There has been widespread speculation that Nikoklai T. Fedorenko was the central figure and that he may be replaced. But it would be an oversimplification to pin the whole thing on Moscow's delegate to the United Nations.

At least part of the trouble can be traced to top-level officials in Moscow. Some of it resulted from faulty intelligence and some from diplomatic necessity which required the Soviet Union to take losing positions.

Most UN officials don't think Fedorenko initiated the idea of the emergency session of the General Assembly, overriding the long-held Soviet doctrine that peacekeeping matters should be handled by the Security Council.

The decision on this seemed to be one for the highest level. This is true also on the personal participation of Premier Alexei N. Kosygin in the assembly session.

That is one reason why the failure of the Soviet Union to get a clear-cut assembly demand for the withdrawal of Israeli troops from Arab territory is a blow to the Russians, and helps explain why they have kept Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in New York fo: more than four weeks trying to find a face-saving formula.

AT ODDS WITH ARABS

Part of the Soviet trouble resulted from the Kremlin's inability to take a position without co-ordinating it with that of the Arabs. There was, in effect, an Arab veto since the Russians did not want to risk a public break. The Russians were being accused of letting the Arabs down militarily, and they wanted to prove they would not desert them in diplomacy as well.

The Soviet Union appeared to get off on the wrong foot in April. Authoritative sources said some Soviet leaders told a visiting Egyptian parliamentary delegation that Israel was about to attack Syria. This is said to have led to Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser's sending massive forces to Israel's southern borders. This in turn resulted in the Israeli mobilization and the war.

In May, when the Security Council was called at the request of Canada and Denmark to deal with the mounting crisis, Fedorenko accused the two countries of trying to dramatize the situation. He said there was no urgency in sending out an appeal for a breathing spell as Thant had suggested.

When the war broke out June 5, most council members were ready to vote an immediate ceasefire appeal. Fedorenko insisted that the appeal be linked with a demand for Israeli troops to pull back to their June 4 positions.

THAT YODEL AT SUMMIT IS JUDY

STEELE GLACIER, Y.T. (CP)—Vast silence in the Steele Glacier area of the St. Elias Mountains echoed on Thursday with a loud yodel from the 9,500-foot summit of a peak near Steele Mountain.

The alpinist, booted and parkaed on the snowy peak, was State Secretary Judy LaMarsh.

She had been flown to the top of the nameless peak by helicopter during her visit to the Yukon Alpine Centennial Expedition's general camp on a grassy area at Steele Glacier.

OTTAWA PLANS COMMITTEE TO PROBE SAUCER REPORTERS

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The National Research Council is moving to set up a special committee to study the latest reports of Unidentified Flying Objects and ascertain if there is anything that would warrant further investigations, it was learned here today.

The committee will probably operate under the chairmanship of Dr. R. S. Rettie, head of the space research and facilities branch of NRC in Ottawa.

Pearson Goes Home Richer —And Wiser About the West

EDMONTON (RP) — A Cheechako got involved in a contest with a pair of sourdough Thursday and finished a poor third.

Prime Minister Pearson came out of the east to challenge Alberta's Premier Manning and Edmonton Mayor Vince Dantzer in a gold panning competition.

When it was over, Mr. Manning and Mr. Dantzer had proven themselves far more adept than Mr. Pearson at finding gold on the western plains.

For the record, Mr. Dantzer ended up with $8.75 worth of gold nuggets and Mr. Manning panned $6.09 worth. The prime minister had to settle for $3.50 worth.

Mr. Pearson got off to a slow start and never caught up to Mr. Dantzer who worked swiftly and surely or Mr. Manning, who worked methodically.

The gravel in the pan was "salted" with tiny nuggets to ensure each contestant got some, but at one point Mr. Pearson took a couple of dollar bills from his pocket and attempted to "salt" his pan even more.

When he held up his tiny bag of nuggets for Mr. Manning to admire, the premier said:

"You've got rocks in these besides."

After having their gold weighed at the "assay office" on the Edmonton Exhibition grounds, Mr. Pearson asked what he should do with the gold he had panned.

Said Mayor Dantzer:

"Take it back to Ottawa and give it to Mr. Sharp."

Cheechako was a term originally applied to dudes who arrived in the west during gold rush days. It is thought to be a corruption of the word Chicago, where many of them came from.

Mr. Pearson officially opened the annual Klondike Days celebration later Thursday.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Stephen Smith, age 10, of Gloster, Louisiana, for his question:

How many litters a year do squirrels have?

In the squirrel world, planned parenthood depends upon the summery seasons of tender shoots and toadstools, grasses and grasshoppers, nuts and berries. If the first litter arrived in early spring, there may be time to bring up another brood before these graceries become scarce.

The earth is well populated with squirrels of assorted sizes and colors. They are not at home in Australia or Madagascar and naturally they avoid the polar regions. But at least one type is at home in every other region of the earth. Some live in burrows, others prefer life in the trees and a few are aerial acrobats. Not all of them wear bushy tails and each type has its own ideas of planned parenthood. As a rule the ground squirrels devote the whole summer season to the tending and educating of one litter. But when conditions are suitable, many tree squirrels produce two litters a year.

In the squirrel world, two litters a year seems to be the limit. The average brood is two to six. And all infant squirrels are tiny, helpless babes and for the first month or two, the devoted parents are kept busy protecting them. The nest of a tree squirrel may be as big as a beach ball, though we seldom see it. It is a shaggy ball of sticks and tangled twigs, lined with leaves and grasses and sometimes cushioned with shredded bark. The bulky nest may be high inside a hollow tree or perched in the lofty fork of a leafy bough.

Our sassy red squirrel bears her first brood in early summer. There may be four infants, totalling a weight of one whole ounce. Their fur begins to grow after about two weeks and in a month or so the frisky youngsters are playing in the high branches. The red squirrel is not a Southerner. In his northern range winter comes early and as a rule there is time to rear only one litter each year.

Grows Quickly

Our larger grey squirrel bears her first brood in April and the youngsters are ready to leave home at the age of six weeks. The parents often have time to rear another litter before the winter sets in. The second brood may be born in July. Life is risky. But barring accidents, a pair of sturdy grey squirrels may live 15 years and produce two litters of four to six children a season. A bigger grey squirrel makes his home in the Rockies. This handome, bushy-tailed Westerner produces a litter in June and another in September.

Our fluffy little flying squirrel lives the specialized life of a performing acrobat. The infants are born in early summer and the training program of the one litter lasts until the following spring. Our sassy chipmunks are ground squirrels. The babes are born in an underground nest and there is one litter each season. Prairie dogs are bigger ground squirrels. The female gives birth to her one litter of the season in the springtime.

All infant squirrels are tiny and sightless, furless and helpless. A newborn babe of the striped eastern chipmunk weighs about a ninth of an ounce. Growth during the first two weeks is slow. But after a month or six weeks, many youngsters are able to leave home. That teeny-tiny baby chipmunk is old enough to start dating at 2½ months. The prairie dog infant may be two inches long. But he develops slowly and begins dating at the age of two years.

Is it true that some rocks acrually grow?

Rocks, of course, are inorganic or non-living minerals. They cannot multiply and grow as living things do. Nevertheless, in a sense, some rocks do grow from other rocks. Perhaps it is more correct to say that they form from other minerals. A region of swampy flats may become dry. In time its soft muds change into stiff beds of hard shale. With still more time, the shales may change into more compact layers of hard slate. You might say that the slate grew from the original mud — even though it shrank during the process as it became heavier and more dense.

People who farm rocky soils often suspect that rocks grow in the ground like crops. They removed loads of pebbles from the surface, expecting that this is the end of them. But next season, more rocky pebbles have arrived to take their places. Actually, they were there all the time, down lower in the soil. Rain and melting snows moved the plowed and loosened soil and a new crop of rocks appeared on the surface. But they did not grow as plants and living animals grow.

Penicillin Dangerous For Some

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Alvarez

Quite a few people write to ask me about viruses and colds, and where they could learn something about them. Many ask me if when they have a cold they should take the penicillin that their doctor commonly wants to inject into them, or that they commonly feel is necessary.

I have to say that we doctors all know that cold and flu are due to viruses, and viruses are not affected by penicillin. However, many of my medical brethren seem to feel that when a person has a cold, an injection of penicillin may protect him from getting a pneumonia or a bad bronchitis or something — for which penicillin does work.

Against this idea is the fact that today quite a few people are so sensitive to penicillin that when given an injection they can go into a state of shock with a high fever and big hives all over their body. When I have a cold it never occurs to me to take penicillin. In my long life I have had at least 200 colds — usually with a sinusitis — and so far they have all cleared up in 10 days or so without any medicine.

People write asking me what to do for a diarrhea, and I cannot answer, because diarrhea is a sympton that can be due to many causes.

When a patient comes in with the complaint of diarrhea, I have an expert reontgenologist X-ray the didigestive tract from one end to the other; I have a proctologist look into the lower end of the large bowel with a lighted tube to see if there is any ulceration present, and I have a laboratory expert study the stools for parasites, such as ambas, and also for certain dysentery-producing germs.

Sometimes, when the reports of all the tests are in, I have before me no clear-cut answer to the question, "Why the loose bowels?" Then I have to sit down with the patient and go back over the history, hunting for clues. In many a case, with this I find the cause of the trouble. For instance, a shy woman may tell me that her "diarrhea" comes in spells, as in cases of "mucous colitis," whenever she became nervous or worried.

Several women with the worst and most constant diarrheas I have ever heard of proved to have only a nervous trouble. I remember an extremely nervous woman with from 20 to 30 bowel movements a day.

Because she had had so many thorough examinations that had revealed no ulceration of her bowel, and no parasites, I just sent her some codeine, and told her to take half a grain four times a day. With this she immediately was well.

CONSERVATIVES FAVORED

By PETER NEWMAN

OTTAWA — A development which could seriously affect the future realignment of the Canadian party structure is about to explode on an already volatile political scene.

In a book due to be pubdays, Ernest Manning, Canada's most successful politician, in effect, renounces Social Credit and throws his support behind the Conservative party.

People close to the Alberta premier claim that his dramatic move is not the result of any sudden revelation, but the end of a long and earnest search for an ideology to fit the times.

While Manning continues to protest any personal involvement in national politics, his forthcoming book leaves open the possibility that he might become an important influence on the next Conservative administration.

He is understood to have already acepted an invitation to address the pre-convention thinkers' conference which the Conservatives are planning for Quebec City on August 7-10.

Reliable political sources who have read the book say that Manning is advocating three important changes in Canada's political scene:

1. That Social Crediters give up the idea their party will ever become a national force.

2. That they join the federal Conservative party.

3. That the Conservative party adopt his new philosophy and turn ideologically to the right, so that national politics in Canada becomes realigned into recognizable left- and right-wing movements.

Manning's book, called "Political realignment: A Challenge to Thoughtful Canadians," is based only in part on his "white paper on human resources development" published last March, which outlined a non-partisan but ultra-conservative approach to government.

The new volume, which was largely the work of Manning himself (though he had help from his son Preston and Eric Schmidt, a sociologist) is based on the idea that in Canadian society today the self-reliant individual is losing control over his own destiny.

RIGHT WING

Those who have read a draft of the Manning book describe it as a well-thought-out appeal to people who support a similar right-wing philosophy, but now find themselves in different political parties.

It's an attempt to form an alliance between the supporters of pure free enterprise and politicians who are conscious of the realities of getting elected in what has become a welfare state.

Manning attempts to combine these two strains into a new political philosophy he calls social conservatism. It keeps the emphasis on the individual as the primary source of production and as the main benefactor of economic activity but it does reflect some concern for the under-privileged.

In terms of practical politics, probably the most interesting part of Manning's book is his examination of the various national political parties as potential vehicles for his new philosophy.

Most significant is his rejection of Social Credit as an effective national force, even though he has fought hard to help its cause during 10 federal election campaigns.

SHARE IDEAS

Although a number of its adherents share his ideas, he also rejects the Liberal party, because he claims it is too monolithic, too close to the federal civil service, and too imbued with what he calls "nineteenth century socialism." He takes strong exception to the "universality" approach inherent in most of the Liberal welfare measures. The NDP, he disqualifies by definition, and then turns his attention to the Conservatives.

While Manning recognizes the Tory party's leadership problem, he points out that the kind of approach to politics he is preaching has

MOVE TO TORIES DENIED IN PART

EDMONTON (CP)—Premier Manning says he has written a small book advocating a political realignment in federal politics but denied published reports that he, in effect, renounces Social Credit and throws his support behind the Progressive Conservative party.

The 100-page book, Political Realignment, a Challenge to Thoughtful Canadians, is expected to be ready for the presses early next month.

In an interview, Premier Manning said the book simply stresses what he has been saying for two years, that there is a desperate need in Canada for realignment of political thinking.

He was asked to comment on a report, by Peter Newman of Ottawa, saying that in the book he renounces Social Credit, supports the Conservatives and that he is understood to have accepted an invitation to address a thinkers' conference planned by the Conservatives in Quebec City Aug. 7-10.

But seas have been calm and drilling progress by the $10 million SEDCO 135F has been good. The first hole is now 6,022 feet deep and drillers are preparing to log it for the third time since work began last month. Logging entails recording the geological formations exposed by the well, and the hope is they will soon spell out "O-I-L." (Photo by Bill Staley.)

380 Dead In Viet Battles

3 MiGs Downed Over N. Vietnam

From AP—Reuters

SAIGON (CP) — South Vietnamese and South Korean troops reported killing 380 Communist soldiers in two savage battles today.

Over North Vietnam U.S. Navy pilots shot down three MiGs from the sky and probably downed a fourth.

The aerial action was the first significant dogfight over the North in six weeks when U.S. pilots claimed to have downed 27 MiGs in a month.

South Vietnamese headquarters said an elite airborne battalion killed 240 soldiers in northernmost Quang Tri province along the coastal plain in a fight with what was evidently a battalion of about 500 men. The Communists were reported to have abandoned 89 weapons on the field.

JUNGLE HQ TAKEN

About 100 miles to the south in coastal Binh Dinh province, troopers of South Korea's White Horse division overran jungle headquarters of the Viet Cong's 95th Regiment and reported killing 140 guerrillas. They captured 70 weapons.

A U.S. military spokesman said all four jets downed were MiG-17s, encountered during a bombing raid on a gasoline storage centre at Ta Xa about 20 miles northwest of the port city of Haiphong.

There were no immediate reports on U.S. losses.

Military sources said it is believed the North Vietnamese air force is concentrating on replacing its losses and retraining its men, besides being harassed by regular American bombings of its major MiG bases.

The Communist fighters signalled renewed activity two days ago when eight MiGs challenged raiding U.S. Phantom jets, but neither side suffered casualties in a brief exchange of fire.

STRAFE SUPPLY TRUCKS

In raids Thursday, Thunderchief and Phantom jets attacked Yen Bai airfields 78 miles northwest of Hanoi, where supply trucks coming south from China are believed to be halting for refuelling, a U.S. spokesman said.

Meanwhile, in South Vietnam, B-52 bombers flew three missions over the northern province of Thua Thien to unload bombs on infiltration routes reported being used to move North Vietnamese men and equipment into the South.

The U.S. military command issued figures Thursday showing that more Americans have been killed or wounded in the first 6½ months of this year than in all of 1966.

Command officials said 4,448 Americans were killed in action so far this year, about 600 less than the entire year of 1966, and 35,104 U.S. troops were wounded since Jan. 1—a jump of some 5,000 over the total for 1966.

De Gaulle Tour May Jolt Canadian Unity Efforts

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Fears are growing among federal officials that French President Charles de Gaulle's tour will harm Canadian efforts towards national unity.

His visit may deliberately or inadvertantly strengthen the separatist cause.

He arrives in Quebec City Sunday.

Canadian untiy may be severely damaged, depending on how de Gaulle conducts himself during the visit and how the wild-eyed separatists in Quebec seek to exploit his presence.

GREAT GAINS

French Canada has made great gains in recent years — during Prime Minister Pearson's administration — in insisting on a special status for Quebec.

English speaking Canadians have learned to adjust and accommodate themselves to this fact of life, particularly noticeable in a city such as the capital where there is a large population of French-speaking as well as English-speaking Canadians.

There is worry here that General de Gaulle — always a trouble maker — may see the visit as a golden opportunity to strengthen support for his anti-United States views in this country.

He may seize the chance to stir up old antagonisms and increase his popularity in Quebec so that the federal government would be reluctant to line up with the U.S. in any new confrontation with France over the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

General de Gaulle may be out to deliberately "neutralize" Canada.

The French president is a past master at exploiting such difficulties as exist in Canada. He instinctively seizes on the dramatic and symbolic. With him in Quebec will be Premier Daniel Johnson, who is demanding more provincial influence in both domestic and international affairs — in particular Quebec influence.

CALLING CARD

President de Gaulle left a calling card Thursday at St. Pierre Miquelon — a promised $2,000,000 trawler.

His wife's nephew Jacques Philippe Vendroux, newly elected deputy of St. Pierre, said this was the only hard promise de Gaulle made during private talks with Governor J. J. Buggia and local government officials.

The trawler will be based here and government owned. Mr. Vendroux declined to say when it would arrive.

Vendroux, asked about rumored development of a gambling casino on the island, said this was possible. He would say no more.

Police Think Dead Girl Murdered

CALGARY (CP) — Body of a Comox man's 14-year-old daughter has been found outside the city here and RCMP officers say they suspect foul play.

Dead is Marlene Lowry, 14, missing for more than five weeks from her Calgary home.

Marlene, younger daughter of Mrs. Ivy Lowry of Calgary and Sgt. Merlin Lawry of Comox, was reported missing by her mother June 10 after she failed to return from a party with school friends the previous evening.

Supt. J. L. Vachon of the Calgary RCMP said it was not yet known whether the girl had been criminally assaulted.

A statement issued by the RCMP said the body, badly decomposed and semi-nude, was found by Frederick Newsome, a Cochrane, Alta. farm worker, in a field three-tenths of a mile from Highway 1A on the city's outskirts.

"The clothing was in a state of disarray and an article of clothing was found around the girl's neck," the statement said. "Foul play is suspected. However the exact cause of death has not yet been determined."

SOVIET STILL HOPES FOR UN PEACE FORMULA

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)—Russia refused today to abandon hope of General Assembly agreement on the Middle East despite Arab reluctance to accept any solution recognizing the existence of Israel.

The Russians are reported to be showing new interest in a Latin American formula to link the crucial issue of Israeli troop withdrawal with the Arab countries, ending their state of war with Israel and acknowledging the Jewish state. Canada supports this formula.

Let Liberals Join Tories, Says Bonner

A merger of the Liberal and Conservative parties nationally would be more in the interest of Canada than realignment of Conservatives with Social Credit, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today.

He was commenting on the philosophy of Social Conservatism as proposed in Alberta Premier Manning's book, Political Realignment: A Challenge to Thoughtful Canadians, to be published in August and reviewed today by Peter Newman.

Mr. Bonner, speaking in the absence from Victoria of Premier Bennett, said he had not read the book.

But he deplored any appeal to the right which Mr. Manning considers essential to the survival of individuality.

REALIGNMENT

Mr. Bonner agreed that Canadian political parties are in need of realignment.

"The Liberals are publicly and completely in disarray," he said. Only the Conservatives are in worse shape.

He said "Rather than inventing a new party such as 'social conservatism,' I'm rather in-

STRANDED ON MOUNTAIN

Tiny Woman's Pack Almost Big as Her

GLENNALLEN, Alaska (AP) — An Anchorage bush pilot plans to make another attempt to pick up a Japanese woman attempting to climb 12,002-foot Mount Drum alone.

Pilot Mort Clement said he attempted to pick up the 32-year-old woman at a pre-designated spot on the mountain Thursday but high wind and "downdrafts as great as 2,000 feet per minute" prevented a landing.

Clement said he saw Miss Sakae Kishi's yellow nylon tent at the pre-arranged point near the 4,000-foot level.

"The wind at that point might be blowing as high as 70 knots, and it would be most likely she would remain under the protection of her cover," he added.

He said he dropped notes wrapper in a large, orange plastic container with streamers attached advising the climber to stay at the pickup spot until he could land.

Tshombe Freed To Hang

Secret Trip Likely To Congo Gallows

ALGIERS (UPI)—The Algerian supreme court today ordered former Congolese Premier Moise Tshombe extradited to The Congo, where he faces execution on the gallows on treason charges.

Tshombe had been tried in absentia in the Congolese capital of Kinshasa and sentenced to die. He was in exile in Spain at the time.

At the United Nations, meanwhile many UN delegates said The Congo could not afford to execute Tshombe because it would have a full-scale rebellion on its hands.

Diplomats warned Congolese authorities to proceed with caution. One source said, "even the simple presence of Tshombe in his home might trigger trouble." Another said, "If they execute Tshombe they will have another civil war. The Katangese will rise up in arms."

KATANGA

Tshombe comes from mineral-rich Katanga province which he led in secession from the central Congolese government shortly after The Congo obtained its independence from Belgium in 1960.

Tshombe later served as premier of a reunited Congo but then went into self-exile in Europe.

Tshombe was taken to Algeria June 30 after his private plane was hijacked over the Mediterranean June 30 and the pilot forced to fly at gunpoint to an airport near Algeris.

Shortly afterward, a rebellion by Tshombe's former Katanga gendarmes and white mercenary troops broke out in the northeastern Congo but the rebels were put to flight by Congolese government forces.

Just before the Algerian court announced its decision Tshombe said he was "the victim of the CIA and of my popularity in The Congo."

The 48-year-old Tshombe has sometimes been called the "rubberman" because of his past ability to bounce back from difficult situations.

MASSACRES

Mobutu's government had demanded Tshombe's extradition from Algeria to Kinshaha, where he was sentenced to death on charges of treason, massacres in Katanga province and other offences against the state, described as criminal.

Informed sources said it was likely that Tshombe would be extradited in secret and that the move would be announced only after he reached the Congo.

In a spirited declaration before the court, Tshombe said his friendship with President Charles de Gaulle of France "displeased the imperialists."

In his declaration, Tshombe outlined his political career and said:

"I will go to The Congo if the supremec court so decides, for I am a man. But I call the court's attention to the responsibility it has in the eyes of the Congolese people and the entire world."

NEGROES MEET TO CONSIDER BLACK POWER

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — About 600 delegates to the first U.S. national conference on Black Power are gathered here today intent on making the once-divisive slogan a working symbol of Negro unity.

All whites, including reporters, were excluded from all working sessions and delegates, including H. Rapp Brown, chairman of the Student Non-violent Co-ordinating Committee, were asked not to give individual news conferences.

But the tone of the orientation session Thursday set by Negro comedian Dick Gregory and Los Angeles black nationalist Ron Karenga, was not so much anti-white as pro-black and anti-white exploitation.

Minneapolis Erupting In Violence

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rock throwing, at least two shootings and a dozen small fires were reported as violence flared up in Minneapolis, Minn., Thursday night and early today.

A police inspector said the second outbreak in two nights occurred on the Negro north side of the city. There were no deaths from the shootings but two injuries.

Earlier, Mayor Arthur Naftalin blamed the Wednesday night outbreak of street fights and firebombing on a few "lawless" individuals and said the Negro community was not at fault.

In Durham, N.C., 300 Negroes staged a relatively peaceful march to the city hall to underline their demands for better housing and other social reforms.

A battalion of national guardsmen were dismissed after the march, but a small number of the guardsmen remained on the scene where policemen, sheriff's deputies and state highway patrolmen — all heavily armed—lined the route of the march.

FORECAST MORE VIOLENCE

A group of Negro leaders in Cairo, Ill., warned city officials Thursday to expect more racial violence if demands were not met by Sunday afternoon.

"Cairo will look like Rome burning down," if the Negroes don't obtain satisfaction, one of their spokesmen said.

The Illinois city was hit by firebombing and sniping last Sunday night and fires were ignited Tuesday night despite a strict police surveillance.

Mister Tshombe's fit t' be tried but Th' Congo's already done it.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A United States Quaker organization which recently transported a cargo of medical supplies to North Vietnam in defiance of the U.S. government made known today it will try to make another shipment soon.

"It's a matter of conscience," said Lawrence Scott, 58, leader of the project. "When people are being bombed and are bleeding, it's a religious right and duty to help them, whoever they are."

Despite a tightening web of federal pressures and roadblocks, the undeterred task group is going ahead with its planning, gathering funds, screening volunteers, awaiting a go-ahead from the North Vietnam Red Cross.

40 ENLIST

About 40 persons have offered their servies for the outlawed mission, aimed at helping civilian war casualties.

It still is contingent on approval from North Vietnam, Scott said, adding that arrangements are being made through correspondence handled from abroad to avoid government interception. However, the sailing date is expected to be in late August.

Scott said the organization has chartered for a year's use a 50-foot U.S. ketch, Phoenix, which carried an initial $10,000 medical shipment to Haiphong last March. The crew members on that voyage were ordered deprived of their passports.

In Washington Thursday, officials of the U.S. treasury department said it has recommended to the justice department prosecution of those crew members under the assets control provisions of the Trading With the Enemy Act.

The justice deparment said the case is under review. Conviction would carry a maximum penalty of 10 years in jail and a $10,000 fine.

Rumors Continue That Duvalier Assassinated

SANTO DOMINGO (Reuters)—Nineteen senior Haitian officials have been executed by firing squad and 15 others dismissed, says reports reaching the Dominican Republic capital amid continuing rumors that President Francois Duvalier has been assassinated.

The rumors say Duvalier was overthrown and killed by a dissident faction within the Haitian regime.

The reports of the executions named Lucien Chauvet, former prefect of Port au Prince and Luckner Cabronne, former minister of public works, as two of these shot.

SHARK MORE THAN SHE COULD BEAR

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—Former Olympic swimmer Linda McGill, training for an attempt on the English Channel record, leaped topless into an accompanying boat today when a shark rose beside her in Sydney Harbor.

Miss McGill was swimming with the top of her bathing suit turned down to avoid chafing her shoulders and lessen water resistance.

They knew Rein Bowie, 23, had been arrested a week ago on a charge of possessing a narcotic and that his bail was set at $2,000 by Magistrate Lorne Jackson.

They also knew Bowie hadn't been able to raise the money and was scheduled to appear in court Thursday to ask that bail be reduced.

But they didn't know that after he was told to return later in the day, after another case had been completed, he was unkindly turned away from the jail and told to leave.

"He came into court just before lunch time," Magistrate Jackson said. "But we were in the middle of another case and I told him to come back at 2:30 p.m."

Bowie was apparently taken back to jail but before he was admitted he was mistaken for someone else and told to leave.

"Then shortly after 3 p.m., Bowie showed up in court all clean and shaved," the magistrate said. "He told me he hadn't had a decent wash and shave since arrested last week, so when he was told to go, he went.

"I took it that if he returned under these extraordinary circumstances he could be depended on, so I reduced bail from $2,000 to $200."

Arthur Mayse

If there is one thing we Victorians will turn out for in traffic-jamming numbers, it is a free show such as the Royal Canadian Navy and its guests offered the city this week.

Further, having assembled in our thousands at whatever vantage points are available, I think we provide a pretty good show ourselves.

This thought overtook me a few minutes after 10 o'clock Wednesday evening on a patch of foreshore above Esquimalt's Kinver Beach. I don't know how many of us had swarmed there from the streets where our cars lined the curbs for many blocks. But we made a sizeable quorum as we waited under a darkening and dubious sky for the spectacle to begin.

As Victoria crowds tend to be, this one was so quiet that a stranger would think we'd come to attend a funeral. That, of course, never signifies that we aren't enjoying ourselves.

A few of us had brought lawn chairs. Others scrambled down to the rock-cupped beach below and settled on damp drift-logs, or clambered up to the big black dome to the left for a wider view.

The rest stood on a patch of burned-over grass, waiting in couples, families and casual clumps for the ships to light up.

The people around watched him through his act, then returned their attention to the darkening sea.

Out there, the rearward destroyers of the Centennial fleet rode to their anchors. Seven were full in our view, two others partially blocked off by the far point of the cove.

One moment they lay dark and vaguely sinister; the next, as if a single switch had been pulled, they became magic vessels, outlined end to end by their strings of golden lights.

The crowd gave a pleased murmur, hunched its shoulders against another gentle shower, and settled to wait for the second treat of the evening — the fireworks display.

All this time, more people had been coming down from cars parked anywhere up to half a mile away. The little fir-tree had by now acquired a veritable monkey-load of youngsters, and some older boys had climbed high on the wire mesh fence that crowns the other point.

There they clung in black silhouette, while the illuminated ships twinkled across the water, and a separate blaze of lights to the south showed where the P & O liner "Canberra" headed out to the Pacific.

Then all lights but hers were doused, and up went the fireworks.

Close to where we watched stood a young skeptic, age eight or nine.

While the rockets streamed skyward, he carped, knocked and criticized. Stubbornly, this junior viewer refused to be impressed. But when the last of the fireworks barrage had burst splendidly against the night and the ship-lights blinked on again, he was reluctant to leave.

"Maybe they'll have a re-firing," he protested to his parents.

The show was over, though; and, amiably as it had gathered, the crowd began its return to the cars.

It was properly black by this time, with no stars overhead. However there was a scattering of flashlights among us. These helped where the path dipped over a soggy spot, and in a passage through a longshore woodpile.

All in all, it was a pleasant, communal sort of evening, climaxed by a piece of crowd behavior that I think the navy should know about.

After the last rocket burned out, everyone stood there in the dark and extended thanks with a hearty bout of hand-clapping.

The experiment is in the form of the 45,000-ton Atlantic City which tied up here Thursday to load 1,500,000 board feet of deck cargo.

Largest carrier ever to enter the docks, she will carry a total of 13 million board feet of lumber plus 10,000 tons of pulp and paper when she sails from Port Alberni for England next week.

At 668 feet she almost overlaps her berth.

Commissioned only three months ago, the Atlantic City may or may not be back.

Chartered to Canadian Transport by owners Sir William Reardon Smith and Sons Ltd., it will depend on how the round trip works out financially.

REPEAT

If the lumber carrying proves profitable, she will probably repeat her maiden voyage which entailed picking up coal from Poland, dropping it off at Japan then sailing in ballast to Vancouver Island to load lumber.

Powered by a 13,800-horsepower Sulzer engine, the Atlantic City made the Japan-Canada crossing in only 11 days.

Her propeller is 20 feet in diameter and with all that weight moving through the water it takes five or six miles to bring her to a full stop.

55 MEN

To sail her takes 55 crew and officers.

Her first voyage wasn't the most uneventful.

Said chief officer, Anthony Thomas: "We came through the Suez Canal just before war broke out.

"We could see tanks and men being moved across the canal into the Sinai Desert.

"One of the foreign pilots told us they were getting ready to fight. The Egyptian pilots wouldn't say anything."

Due to bridges being closed to allow troop movements, the passage through the canal took three days instead of the normal 24 hours.

NOT TOO UPSET

Asked how ships would fare if the canal is closed to British and U.S. shipping, Mr. Thomas said:

"I don't think anyone would get too upset. With the large bulk carriers of today it wouldn't make much difference. We'd just sail straight round.

"The canal is outdated anyway."

Restrictions Too Severe For Ruggers

Saanich restrictions on a proposed private rugby ground will probably be too restrictive for the Oak Bay Wanderers to proceed.

But the club will wait for a draft bylaw including the restrictions and it is willing to work with Saanich to find an alternative playing field.

This was stated by a club official today following a meeting Thursday night.

Council decided earlier this week to include such restrictions as no commercial use of the ground, no floodlights and no clubhouse.

WAIT FOR WORDING

The rugby club official said while it is felt this will be "to prohibitive" to go ahead with the project it will wait for the bylaw to be drafted.

He also mentioned working with Saanich to find an alternative site if this is the case, specifically the municipally-owned Lambrick Estate at Gordon Head — suggested by one councillor who opposed the club's rezoning application.

The club applied to rezone just over four acres on the north side of Walema between Santa Clara and Del Monte. Council rejected the application at a public hearing, then reconsidered this decision and proceeded but with restrictions on the ground.

Ask The Times

Q. When did the Empress of India come to Vancouver? M.G.

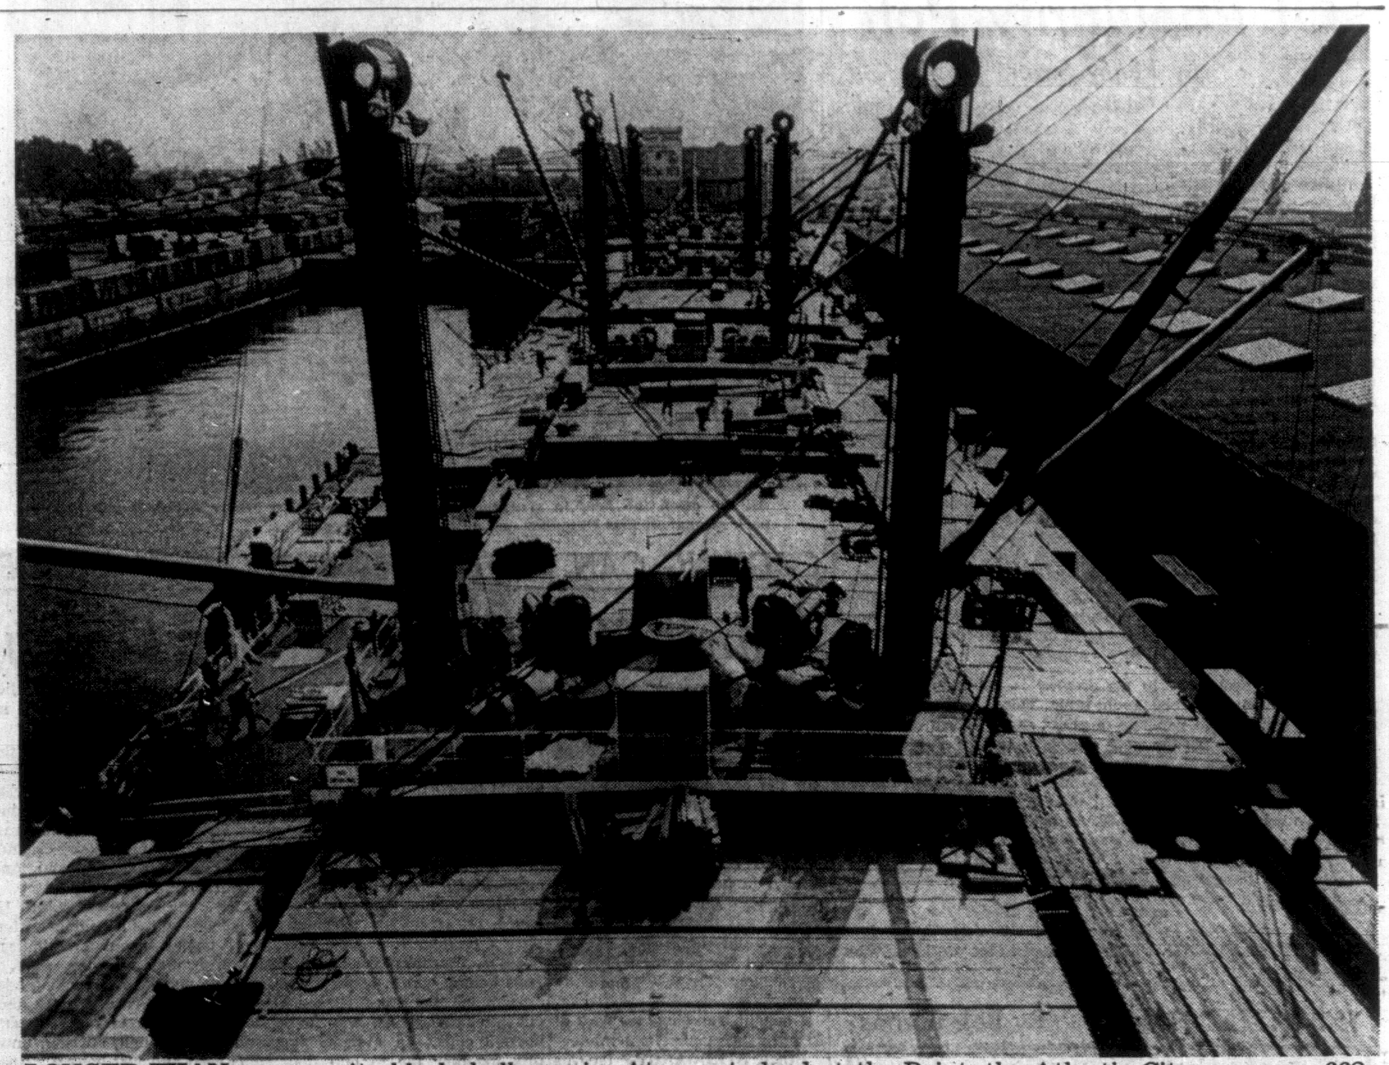
A. The ship was launched in 1890 and came to this coast the following year. It was on the Orient run until at least 1911, says a CPR supokesman here.

Q. What is red tide and how does it affect seagulls when they eat shellfish? I am nine years old. R.C.

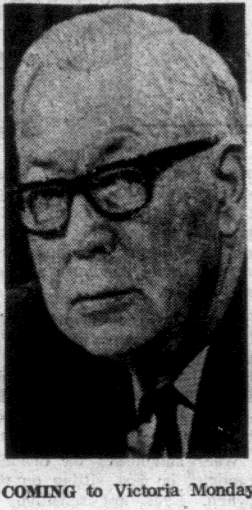
A. Red tide is an algae which grows in the sea at certain times of the year and is poisonous. The poison is concentrated in oysters and clams and when these shellfish are eaten by humans it produces disease which affects the nerves and can be fatal. Birds are much more resistant to poison than animals and humans and there are no known cases of seagulls being affected through eating contaminated shellfish.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.



LONGER THAN many a city block, bulk carrier Atlantic City almost overlaps her berth at Ogden Point. As longshoremen load lumber on her decks she's also busier than the average city block, with loaders darting back and forth across the timbers. Largest ship to load at the Point, the Atlantic City measures 668 feet from stem to stern and has a deadweight of 45,000 tons. She could become a frequent visitor to Vancouver Island if the V.I.-U.K. run is financially successful. —(Bill Halkett Photo)



COMING to Victoria Monday to speak at Gyro Club luncheon at Empress Hotel is Senator Wallace McCutcheon, former federal cabinet minister and now in the running for the leadership of the national Conservative party which will be decided in September.

CURTIS DEMANDING ACTION

Open Dump Disposal 'Absolutely Absurd'

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis will reactivate local government consideration of improved garbage disposal.

And a new ratepayers group in Saanich will urge all Greater Victoria municipal councils to consider improved methods of both garbage and sewage disposal.

At present, garbage is trucked to open dumps and sewage from the sanitary sewer areas is piped into the sea.

Reeve Curtis, who initiated inter-municipal consideration of garbage disposal some time age, said today he is in the process of reactivating the subject at the inter-municipal level.

TECHNICAL REVIEW

He said there was a technical review by experts but at least one municipality didn't report back to the inter-municipal committee.

President Roy Ralfs of the Saanich Action Committee, which met Thursday night in Prospect Lake Community Hall, said local councils will be asked to investigate alternative methods of garbage and sewage disposal.

About 40 person attended the meeting and another one is expected to be held next month.

LACK OF INTEREST

The Saanich Action Committee has been concerned about the Hartland Road dump, used by the city and Saanich and located just outside Saanich borders.

Reeve Curtis said there doesn't seem to be a "strong interest" in garbage disposal in other municipalities although there is in Saanich.

Public reaction will assist others in reaching a decision, he said.

'ABSURD'

"In the last part of the 20th century, for municipalities to condone carting garbage into the hills and leaving it is absolutely absurd," he said.

While he had not failed to bring this to the attention of others, the result was "something short of overwhelming agreement."

The reeve said there is no reason why the present method can't be improved but it will cost money. If the public will support paying for first-class disposal "then we can do it."

"On the face of it, it is the kind of thing that could be turned to the regional board, failing inter-municipal co-operation," he said.

But it was "unrealistic" for Saanich to tackle the problem alone.

"ALL OR NOTHING'

If the city of Victoria did not join the effort, it would still use Hartland Road dump.

"It has to be an all or nothing situation, otherwise we are just reducing the size of the dump a little," he said.

But while dumping is a "totally unsatisfactory principle," the present dump is being run in a better way than several years ago. "But it is still a dump," he added.

The question of rats, he said, was "properly refuted" by medical health officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread earlier this week.

Dr. Whitbread called reports of an exploding rat population at Hartland Road "eyewash" and said there has been no increase in complaints and in the judgment of sanitary inspectors no increase in the rat population.

Man Pleads Guilty To 7 More Charges

A man jailed for four months Thursday when convicted of being unlawfully in a dwelling, returned to central court this morning to plead guilty to seven additional charges.

David J. King, 40, of 3229 Doncaster admitted writing six bad cheques totalling $284.80 at downtown stores over the past 24 days.

The goods he got were sold for nominal sums in beer parlors, court was told. None of the merchandise has been recovered.

King also admitted leaving the Dominion Hotel, 759 Yates, owing $60.55 after a four-day stay there earlier this month.

He was scheduled to return to court later today to be sentenced on this morning's charges.

Thursday King was found guilty of forcing his way back into the house of Mrs. Annie Crystal, 630 Constance, after a party at the home he was attending broke up in the early hours of July 4.

Three Months For Indecent Act

A man who blamed his truck's steering when he crashed into a tree last month pleaded guilty to impaired driving in central court this morning.

Wendell Aakre, 25, of 5994 West Saanich Rd., was fined $350 and barred from driving.

Court was told his truck ran through a ditch and a fence before hitting the tree in the 900-block Foul Bay Road June 17.

At the same time Aakre was jailed for three months when indecent act he had earlier admitted to.

Certificate Earned In Gemmology Course

Samuel J. Edmundson, 363 Robertson Street, has completed a course in gemmology held by the Canadian Jewellers Institute and has been granted his certificate, it was announced today.

RAIN GIVES LIFT TO CAMP FIRE BAN

A ban on camp fires in Vancouver Island forest district was lifted today by forestry officials.

The ban has been in effect since July 14, when continuous dry weather sent the fire hazard zooming to the extremes.

Rain in the past few days has brought the hazard down to low.

DARK BLUE-GREEN in color but golden in price, the new summer shirt worn by Saanich police Sgt. Leslie Ledson cost $23. Constables and sergeants were issued three shirts each. Of wool and a synthetic fabric, they are expected to last five years each and officers are expected to pay their own dry-leaning bills. Meanwhile, Saanich firemen next door have heard their new shirts are on the way. They cost $3.78 each and are worn year-round.

CARELESS DRIVERS

Fined in traffic court today for careless driving:

Anne McGee of 1466 Rockland, $40; Alfred Roberts of 3504 Plymouth, $40 and Reginald Pierce of 841 Esquimalt Rd., $35.

STUDENTS' VIEW OF CANADA

We're a Group of 'Negative, Regional Thinkers'

Take 16 teen-agers across Canada from coast to coast and you will have a pretty good assessment of the real Canada.

That's the way it looked when youngsters from Montreal arirved in Victoria Thursday after a cross-country tour and began to sum up their experiences.

The visitors are from four high schools in the Montreal area, the winning teams of a television series educational competition, "Challenge."

The students arrived by ferry Wednesday afternoon from Vancouver, and returned to Vancouver by air Thursday night.

They have been travelling since June 26. By air, train, and bus, they have toured the Maritimes, central Canada, the Prairies and B.C.

They have lots to say about Canada.

"Canadians think too regionally," said John Peeters, 15, from Mount Royal Catholic School.

"I don't disdain regional flavor and I don't like flag-wavers, but it is important to have a clear concept in terms of nationhood."

John didn't find such a concept on his travels.

"There is no place in Canada where Canadians think as Canadians first. I wish there was.

"But travel helps. If only every Canadian could travel from sea to sea.

"Once you've seen the Rockies and the prairies, the east and the west, you can't go back to thinking in terms of your own two blocks."

According to Nancy Layton, 15, of Hudson High School on the outskirts of Montreal, Canadians do have some sense of nationality.

"It's kind of a negative thing, like anti-Americanism. But there is a feeling that we're lucky, that we have no big problems like communism."

Alan Freeman, 16, of West Hill School in downtown Montreal, finds Canada a "miracle."

"When you see how diverse it is, you wonder how it ever stayed together. In every province provincial politics are the big thing, not federal politics."

All were critical of the inability of Canadians to properly preserve historic sites.

"The ultimate insult came when we found the original table from the Quebec Conference of 1864 had been chopped down to fit a smaller room in Regina," said John.

The size of Canada was the greatest impression.

"The Prairies," said Nancy, "are like a fantastic endless backdrop with no one out there."

"It's sheer physical size," said Alan, "is incredible. I knew it was big, but not like this."

Rocks Go Hammering —Find Aroma of Roses

RICHMOND—Victoria Shamrocks went in here Thursday night with six regulars missing, losers of five of their six previous games and the hangover of a 15-7 embarrassment to New Westminster Salmonbellies fresh in their minds.

And they came out smelling roses.

So help me, George Wainborn, the Rocks whacked, thumped and demolished Salmonbellies 10 12. Now first place is all Victoria's, to have and to hold at least until Saturday. That's when second-place Coquitlam (with 24 points, one behind Victoria) meets Vancouver (two points out of the lead).

Victoria manager Hec McNeill explained Victoria's victory in six words: "They hammered them into the ground."

The lightest team in the Inter-City Lacrosse League, Shamrocks began hitting the 'Bellies after the losers had taken an 8-4 lead.

"They were going after our little guys," McNeill said. "So we went after them. When they heard footsteps that was it for them."

TWO GOALTENDERS

Shamrocks used two goalkeepers, George Grover and Doug Thompson. They stopped a total of 32 shots.

From the 8-4 stage on, Victoria scored 11 of the next 15 goals.

Ranjit Dillon led the carnage with two goals and six assists. He now has 73 points, five more than Coquitlam's Mike Gates to lead the individual scoring derby.

Bill Munroe had four goals and two assists. Glen Vickers, working in Ron Jay's spot, fired four goals. Nirmal Dillon was one and three.

Victoria scored five times on the power play.

The Rocks travel to Vancouver Tuesday, host the mainlanders next Wednesday.

SENIORS' GOLF

Bigelow Man To Overcome

By DON LeBLANC

HALIFAX (CP)—A West Coast physician was favored to win the 1967 Canadian senior golf championship today in the final round of the 54-hole tournament at Ashburn Golf Club here.

Dr. George Bigelow, 57, of Victoria, runner-up to Jack Littler of Port Credit, Ont., in last year's tournament at Brantford, Ont., fired his second two-over-par 69 in as many days Tuesday for a 36-hole total of 138.

"I'd be satisfied with a 69 anytime on this course," he said as he walked off the 5,322-yard layout with a two-stroke lead over Jack Nash, 55, of London, Ont.

Bigelow said an overnight rain would help the course, but the weatherman offered only a slight chance of a shower. Sunny, humid weather was expected for the third day in a row.

"If we don't get rain tonight there will be trouble for everyone tomorrow," said Bigelow, who went out in 34 and fired a 35 on the back nine.

"The approaches to the greens are getting very hard and the balls are bouncing."

FINISHED SECOND

Nash, who finished Wednesday's opening round in a three-way tie for second place with a 72, carded a 35-33—68 for a two-round score of 140.

He had a one-stroke lead over Montrealers Romeo Trudeau and Gordon B. Taylor who slipped to third position with 141s after sharing the early lead with Bigelow.

"I played well, but couldn't get my putts up to the holes," Nash said. "If I get back to my normal putting tomorrow, I'll do all right."

Littler, 59, had a rough time on the front nine and made the turn at a six-over-par 39, picking up a 35 on the back. His 74 dropped him into a fourth place deadlock with Don Anderson of St. Thomas, Ont. who carded a 37-35—72. They each had a 146, eight strokes behind the leader.

W. W. Martin of Brantford and Phil Farley and Hugh Borthwick, both of Toronto, had 147s.

Borthwick and Martin were leading the 60-65 and 65-70 age groups, respectively, while Francois Mavor of Edmundston, N.B., was ahead in the 70- and-over class with a 36-hole total of 162.

Prizes will be awarded for the best score in each group and to the top provincial team.

Bill Wakeham Trails Norman By Five Blows

WINNIPEG—Moe Norman of Toronto, seeking his third straight victory, shot a three-under-par 67 Thursday to take the first-round lead in the 54-hole, $6,700 Manitoba Open golf tournament.

One stroke behind were Bobby Cox of Vancouver, George Shortbridge of St. Paul and Roger Burht of Minneapolis. Also below par, at 69, were Winipeg-pros Stan Homeniuk and Don Harrison.

Billy Wakeham of Victoria, recent winner of the Ontario Open, shot a 38-34 for a 72.

HOCKEY POSITIONS

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has announced the appointment of Pierre Turmel of Ottawa as CAHA administrative assistant and Ken C. Mantin of Truro, N.S., as development co-ordinator.

Seattle Shopping Spree Brought Bonus for Bill

You know how it is with some Canadians.

Bowes' shopping bag literally ran over when he returned from a recent safari South.

In it were:

- Don McKeta, former assistant coach to Jim Owens at University of Washington;
- Fred Forsberg, University of Washington grad; and,
- Steve Bramwell, another UW grid grad.

They will direct Victoria's pro football Steelers.

WILL ALSO PLAY

McKeta is the head man, Forsberg and Bramwell are his aides. Also assisting in the coaching is Joe Carver, former coach of Shearwater Flyers, Canadian intermediate champions.

But sharp shopper Bowes came up with a bonus. Forsberg and Bramwell will play as well as tutor.

Forsberg, 23, is a six-one, 260-pounder, who played as middle linebacker four years for the Huskies. He also had pro time, with Calgary and Denver last year.

Bramwell is the physical antithesis of Forsberg. Also 23, he is a mere five-eight, 145 pounds.

Says Bowes: "Don't sell him short. You have to see him to believe him." What Bowes means is that TNT often comes in small packages.

RECORD HOLDER

Bramwell, a medical student, made the All-American Academic squad in 1964-65. He also excels on the field, holding NCAA career yardage records for kick-off and punt returns and the combined title.

He will handle flanker and kick-return duties for the Steelers.

Drills will be held nightly at 6:30 except Saturdays, when workouts will be held at 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. All workouts are open to the public.

Victoria All-Stars Win Colt Opener

PORTLAND, Ore. — Victoria All-Stars defeated Portland Appaloosa, 7-0, Thursday in the opening game of the Colt League district baseball tournament.

Ralph Anderson pitched a four-hit shutout for Victoria.

Elwood Thomas hit a three-run homer while Larry O'Malley drove in two runs with a pair of singles and Brent Mullins hit a run-scoring sacrifice fly.

Portland Pintos thrashed Dawson Creek, 15-0, in the other game.

Winner of the tournament advances to the sectional tourney at Tri-Cities, Wash.

Carling Hopes Fade With Shutout Loss

Carlings missed a golden opportunity to move closer to first place Luckies in Men's Senior Softball League action Thursday night at Central Park.

The Carls went down 5-0 to Luckies in the last scheduled league meeting between the teams.

Instead of being a game and a half behind the leaders Carls are now two and a half. Luckies have three league games to play, Carls have four.

Argo Rowers Out in Front

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP)—Toronto Argonauts took over command of the Henley regatta Thursday.

Paced by its high-stroking junior 155-pound eight-oared champions, Argos ran up 52½ points for a solid 10-point lead on the Ecorse Boat Club of British Columbia in the second day of competition at this 85th Royal Canadian Henley Regatta.

Colts Draw Again

LONDON (CP)—The Canadian Colts cricket team drew with Repton College in Derbyshire Thursday for its eighth draw in 12 matches of a British tour.

Repton scored 152 for 8 wickets declared in the one-day match, and Colts followed with 114 for 9.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Susan Brown and Gayle Hitchens, both of Vancouver, met today in the 36-hole final of the B.C. Women's Close golf championship.

Miss Brown won two-up to eliminate defending champion Marylin Palmer of Kamloops in Friday's semi-final play. Miss Hitchens defeated Janet McWha also of Vancouver, 6 and 5 in the other semi-final match.

The amateur golfers playwd the game in a drenching downpour Thursday that resulted in pools of water on greens.

Miss Hitchens three-putted the 17th to go one down and got into trouble on the 18th where she was forced to recover with a left-hand shot.

Belkin Advances

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Foot-sore Canadian Mike Belkin broke through the blistering service of defending champion Cliff Richey and advanced to the semifinals of the national clay court tennis tournament Thursday with a 7-9, 6-2, 6-3, 6-1 victory.

Sizzling 66 Suits Dave Hill Better

DENVER (AP)—Dave Hill, a professional golfer who once managed to record 178 strokes for one round of golf—well, that's the way it came out on his card and he signed it—was in far better circumstances today.

Hill, 30, from the mountain resort town of Evergreen, 30 miles from Denver, led such as Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper into the second round of the $150,000 Professional Golfers Association championship.

Hill got a six-under-par 66 Thursday, a record for the site of this 49th PGA title romp, the 7,436-yard, par 36-36—72 Columbine Country Club course.

Nicklaus, the U.S. Open champion, who banged out five birdies and then an eagle in a seven-hole span finished with a 67 and observed ruefully:

"I wilted. I just got tired and started spraying the ball."

Masters champion Gay Brewer was also in the 75 group.

Sandwiched at 69 were Julius Boros, Dan Sikes and two other new names, Don Bies of Seattle, Wash. and Davis Love Jr. of Atlanta.

Hill's famous score came in last summer's Thunderbird. He actually had a 78 in the second round, but somehow it came out 178-and his 36-hole total was 257.

Thursday he was consistent off the tees, driving into the rough on 14 holes and finding the fairway only twice on each nine.

Hill's eagle two came on an eight iron on the 473-yard 14th.

Floyd to Face Quarry Again

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Jerry Quarry and Floyd Patterson have been rematched for Oct. 28 as one of the elimination boxing matches to determine a heavyweight champion.

Their first meeting last June 9 ended in a controversial draw after the scheduled 10 rounds.

Uruguay Abandons Plans for Teams

MONTEVIDEO (Reuters) — Uruguay, one of the world's leading soccer powers, will not be competing in the Pan-American Games football tournament in Winnipeg.

Financial difficulties forced the Uruguayan Olympic Committee to abandon plans to send teams for the football, basketball and volleyball competitions.

Canadians Thriving On Heat and 'Beat'

WINNIPEG (CP)—Heat, muscle twinges and a Latin-American bongo beat are keeping Canada's Pan-American Games swimmers awake nights—and they're thriving on it.

Coaches say Ralph Hutton of Campbell River, B.C., who won eight medals in the 1966 British Empire Games in Jamaica, is in his best form ever; Elaine Tanner of Vancouver, who won seven medals in seven events in Jamaica, is entered in eight here and turning in workouts "up in world times."

But while the coaches waxed eloquent over the athletes, the swimmers commented wryly on living conditions.

Bob Stoddard, of St. Catharines, Ont., said:

"It's tough to sleep in this heat with eight guys to a room and those Cubans with their bongo drums.

"With them it's record players all day and bongos all night."

The Cubans, right at home in the heat that hung in the mid-90s, complained only that the mosquitos were interfering with their bongo playing.

SLEEP ON FLOOR

Marilyn Corson, the Parry Sound, Ont., butterfly threat who lives in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., said:

"Some of the girls—me for one—are sleeping on towels on the floor because it's cooler. Some girls are sleeping on mattresses on the floor."

Bob Eynon of London, Ont., the women's coach, said that training and other facilities—including food—"are fantastic."

"We had a choice of steak or lobster for lunch yesterday."

Miss Tanner injured a shoulder muscle playing tennis prior to the Canadian swimming championshps here recently and aggravated it playing volleyball but, says Eynon, it has responded so well that he has entered her for eight events.

Mary Pat Pumfrey of Victoria has a strained muscle in the right knee, but Eynon says "it's coming around. Knee troubles are chronic with breaststrokers."

Focal point of the Canadian team at the moment is Bob Kasting of Lethbridge, Alta., who wanted to go to the barber to have his head shaved to cut down on water resistance.

"But the guys on the team volunteered and cut it for free. They left the sideburns, however, and it's cutting down on my times."

Lake Eights Beat Bedford

LONDON (CP) — Shawnigan Lake School oarsmen from British Columbia had two victories over Bedford School at Bedford, just north of London, as their tour of England continued Thursday.

Over a mile course on the narrow and winding Ouse River, the Shawnigan Lake first eight won by six feet over Bedford's first crew in the time of 4:48.

The Canadian second crew won by four lengths over Bedford Seconds in a ¾-mile race. Time was 3:35.

ACE GYMNAST OUT OF GAMES

WINNIPEG (CP) — The United States gymnastic team will be without one of its top performers in the Pan-American Games.

BRITON WINS . . . . . . BISLEY MATCH

Favored Canuck Slips

BISLEY, England (CP) — A Canadian who last week was considered the man to beat could manage only 10th place Thursday as a Briton won the Queen Mary competition, top servicemen's prize of the Bisley rifle meeting.

RAF Cpl. R. N. Van-Gelderen won the Queen Mary with 358 points out of a possible 400 in the two-stage competition calling for rapid and deliberate fire and snap-shooting.

Sgt. Joseph Daigle, 37-year-old native of Lakeburn, N.B., who in 1965 became the first Canadian to win both the Queen Mary and the Service Rifle championships, collected 330 points for 10th place.

Top Canadian in the event was Pte. Carol Potvin, Sgt. Daigle's teammate from the 3rd Battalion, Royal 22nd Régiment, stationed at Valcartier, Que. Pte. Carol, 26-year-old native of Chicoutimi, Que., seventh with 340.

A team of Royal Marines spoiled the Van Doo team's bid Thursday for the Roberts snapshooting competition, final servicemen's event at this two-week competition for Commonwealth marksmen.

The marines won Thursday's second heat and edged the Canadian team by two points on aggregate score.

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, JULY 21, 1967 —PAGE 19

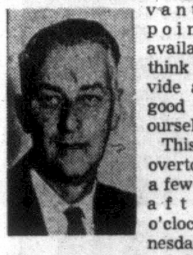
Arthur Mayse

If there is one thing we Victorians will turn out for in traffic-jamming numbers, it is a free show such as the Royal Canadian Navy and its guests offered the city this week.



Further, having assembled in our thousands at whatever vantage points are available, I think we provide a pretty good show ourselves.

This thought overtook me a few minutes after 10 o'clock Wednesday evening on a patch of foreshore above Esquimalt's Kinver Beach. I don't know how many of us had swarmed there from the streets where our cars lined the curbs for many blocks. But we made a sizeable quorum as we waited under a darkening and dubious sky for the spectacle to begin.

As Victoria crowds tend to be, this one was so quiet that a stranger would think we'd come to attend a funeral. That, of course, never signifies that we aren't enjoying ourselves.

A few of us had brought lawn chairs. Others scrambled down to the rock-cupped beach below and settled on damp drift-logs, or clambered up to the big black dome to the left for a wider view.

The rest stood on a patch of burned-over grass, waiting in couples, families and casual clumps for the ships to light up.

The people around watched him through his act, then returned their attention to the darkening sea.

Out there, the rearward destroyers of the Centennial fleet rode to their anchors. Seven were full in our view, two others partially blocked off by the far point of the cove.

One moment they lay dark and vaguely sinister; the next, as if a single switch had been pulled, they became magic vessels, outlined end to end by their strings of golden lights.

The crowd gave a pleased murmur, hunched its shoulders against another gentle shower, and settled to wait for the second treat of the evening — the fireworks display.

All this time, more people had been coming down from cars parked anywhere up to half a mile away. The little fir-tree had by now acquired a veritable monkey-load of youngsters, and some older boys had climbed high on the wire mesh fence that crowns the other point.

There they clung in black silhouette, while the illuminated ships twinkled across the water, and a separate blaze of lights to the south showed where the P & O liner "Canberra" headed out to the Pacific.

Then all lights but hers were doused, and up went the fireworks.

Close to where we watched stood a young skeptic, age eight or nine.

While the rockets streamed skyward, he carped, knocked and criticized. Stubbornly, this junior viewer refused to be impressed. But when the last of the fireworks barrage had burst splendidly against the night and the ship-lights blinked on again, he was reluctant to leave.

"Maybe they'll have a refiring," he protested to his parents.

The show was over, though; and, amiably as it had gathered, the crowd began its return to the cars.

It was properly black by this time, with no stars overhead. However there was a scattering of flashlights among us. These helped where the path dipped over a soggy spot, and in a passage through a longshore woodpile.

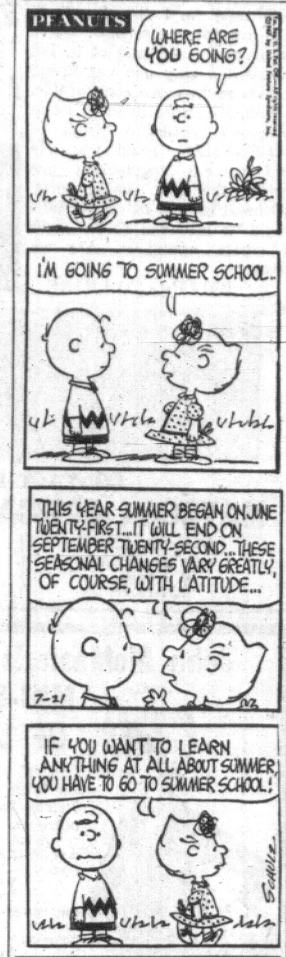
All in all, it was a pleasant, communal sort of evening, climaxed by a piece of crowd behavior that I think the navy should know about.

After the last rocket burned out, everyone stood there in the dark and extended thanks with a hearty bout of handclapping.

Giant Carrier Loading Lumber In British Test

By TERRY IZZARD

An experiment which could see larger bulk carriers docking at Ogden Point is being carried out by a British company.



PEANUTS
WHERE ARE YOU GOING?
THIS YEAR SUMMER BEGAN ON JUNE TWENTY-FIRST...IT WILL END ON SEPTEMBER TWENTY-SECOND...THESE SEASONAL CHANGES VARY GREATLY, OF COURSE, WITH LATITUDE...
7-21
IF YOU WANT TO LEARN ANYTHING AT ALL ABOUT SUMMER, YOU HAVE TO GO TO SUMMER SCHOOL!
SCHULZ

The experiment is in the form of the 45,000-ton Atlantic City which tied up here Thursday to load 1,500,000 board feet of deck cargo.

Largest carrier ever to enter the docks, she will carry a total of 13 million board feet of lumber plus 10,000 tons of pulp and paper when she sails from Port Alberni for England next week.

At 668 feet she almost overlaps her berth.

Commissioned only three months ago, the Atlantic City may or may not be back.

Chartered to Canadian Transport by owners Sir William Reardon Smith and Sons Ltd., it will depend on how the round trip works out financially.

REPEAT

If the lumber carrying proves profitable, she will probably repeat her maiden voyage which entailed picking up coal from Poland, dropping it off at Japan then sailing in ballast to Vancouver Island to load lumber.

Powered by a 13,800-horsepower Sulzer engine, the Atlantic City made the Japan-Canada crossing in only 11 days.

Her propeller is 20 feet in diameter and with all that weight moving through the water it takes five or six miles to bring her to a full stop.

55 MEN

To sail her takes 55 crew and officers.

Her first voyage wasn't the most uneventful.

Said chief officer, Anthony Thomas: "We came through the Suez Canal just before war broke out.

"We could see tanks and men being moved across the canal into the Sinai Desert.

"One of the foreign pilots told us they were getting ready to fight. The Egyptian pilots wouldn't say anything."

Due to bridges being closed to allow troop movements, the passage through the canal took three days instead of the normal 24 hours.

NOT TOO UPSET

Asked how ships would fare if the canal is closed to British and U.S. shipping, Mr. Thomas said:

"I don't think anyone would get too upset. With the large bulk carriers of today it wouldn't make much difference. We'd just sail straight around.

"The canal is outdated anyway."

Restrictions Too Severe For Ruggers

Saanich restrictions on a proposed private rugby ground will probably be too restrictive for the Oak Bay Wanderers to proceed.

But the club will wait for a draft bylaw including the restrictions and it is willing to work with Saanich to find an alternative playing field.

This was stated by a club official today following a meeting Thursday night.

Council decided earlier this week to include such restrictions as no commercial use of the ground, no floodlights and no clubhouse.

WAIT FOR WORDING

The rugby club official said while it is felt this will be "too prohibitive" to go ahead with the project it will wait for the bylaw to be drafted.

He also mentioned working with Saanich to find an alternative site if this is the case, specifically the municipally-owned Lambrick Estate at Gordon Head — suggested by one councillor who opposed the club's rezoning application.

The club applied to rezone just over four acres on the north side of Walema between Santa Clara and Del Monte. Council rejected the application at a public hearing, then reconsidered this decision and proceeded but with restrictions on the ground.

Ask The Times

Q. When did the Empress of India come to Vancouver? M.G.

A. The ship was launched in 1890 and came to this coast the following year. It was on the Orient run until at least 1911, says a CPR spokesman here.

Q. What is red tide and how does it affect seagulls when they eat shellfish? I am nine years old. R.C.

A. Red tide is an algae which grows in the sea at certain times of the year and is poisonous. The poison is concentrated in oysters and clams and when these shellfish are eaten by humans it produces disease which affects the nerves and can be fatal. Birds are much more resistant to poison than animals and humans and there are no known cases of seagulls being affected through eating contaminated shellfish.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

COMING to Victoria Monday to speak at Gyro Club luncheon at Empress Hotel is Senator Wallace McCutcheon, former federal cabinet minister and now in the running for the leadership of the national Conservative party which will be decided in September.

CURTIS DEMANDING ACTION

Open Dump Disposal 'Absolutely Absurd'

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis will reactivate local government consideration of improved garbage disposal.

And a new ratepayers group in Saanich will urge all Greater Victoria municipal councils to consider improved methods of both garbage and sewage disposal.

At present, garbage is trucked to open dumps and sewage from the sanitary sewer areas is piped into the sea.

Reeve Curtis, who initiated inter-municipal consideration of garbage disposal some time age, said today he is in the process of reactivating the subject at the inter-municipal level.

TECHNICAL REVIEW

He said there was a technical review by experts but at least one municipality didn't report back to the inter-municipal committee.

President Roy Ralfs of the Saanich Action Committee, which met Thursday night in Prospect Lake Community Hall, said local councils will be asked to investigate alternative methods of garbage and sewage disposal.

About 40 person attended the meeting and another one is expected to be held next month.

LACK OF INTEREST

The Saanich Action Committee has been concerned about the Hartland Road dump, used by the city and Saanich and located just outside Saanich borders.

Reeve Curtis said there doesn't seem to be a "strong interest" in garbage disposal in other municipalities although there is in Saanich.

Public reaction will assist others in reaching a decision, he said.

'ABSURD'

"In the last part of the 20th century, for municipalities to condone carting garbage into the hills and leaving it is absolutely absurd," he said.

While he had not failed to bring this to the attention of others, the result was "something short of overwhelming agreement."

The reeve said there is no reason why the present method can't be improved but it will cost money. If the public will support paying for first-class disposal "then we can do it."

"On the face of it, it is the kind of thing that could be turned to the regional board, failing inter-municipal co-operation," he said.

But it was "unrealistic" for Saanich to tackle the problem alone.

"ALL OR NOTHING'

If the city of Victoria did not join the effort, it would still use Hartland Road dump.

"It has to be an all or nothing situation, otherwise we are just reducing the size of the dump a little," he said.

But while dumping is a "totally unsatisfactory principle," the present dump is being run in a better way than several years ago. "But it is still a dump," he added.

The question of rats, he said, was "properly refuted" by medical health officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread earlier this week.

Dr. Whitbread called reports of an exploding rat population at Hartland Road "eyewash" and said there has been no increase in complaints and in the judgment of sanitary inspectors no increase in the rat population.

Poison bait is laid twice a week at Hartland Road to control the rats.

RAIN GIVES LIFT TO CAMP FIRE BAN

A ban on camp fires in Vancouver Island forest district was lifted today by forestry officials.

The ban has been in effect since July 14, when continuous dry weather sent the fire hazard zooming to the extremes.

Rain in the past few days has brought the hazard down to low.

Man Pleads Guilty To 7 More Charges

A man jailed for four months Thursday when convicted of being unlawfully in a dwelling, returned to central court this morning to plead guilty to seven additional charges.

David J. King, 40, of 3229 Doncaster admitted writing six bad cheques totalling $284.80 at downtown stores over the past 24 days.

The goods he got were sold for nominal sums in beer parlors, court was told. None of the merchandise has been recovered.

King also admitted leaving the Dominion Hotel, 759 Yates, owing $60.55 after a four-day stay there earlier this month.

He was scheduled to return to court later today to be sentenced on this morning's charges.

Thursday King was found guilty of forcing his way back into the house of Mrs. Annie Crystal, 630 Constance, after a party at the home he was attending broke up in the early hours of July 4.

Three Months For Indecent Act

A man who blamed his truck's steering when he crashed into a tree last month pleaded guilty to impaired driving in central court this morning.

Wendell Aakre, 25, of 5994 West Saanich Rd., was fined $350 and barred from driving.

Court was told his truck ran through a ditch and a fence before hitting the tree in the 900-block Foul Bay Road June 17.

At the same time Aakre was jailed for three months when sentenced for committing an indecent act he had earlier admitted to.

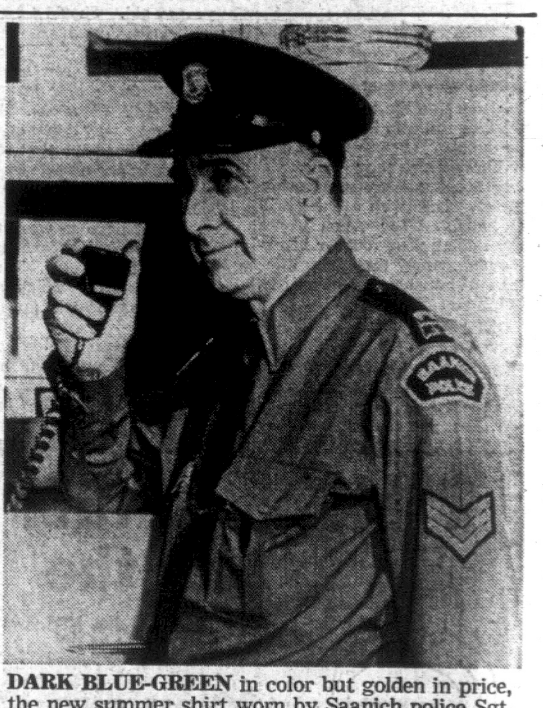
Certificate Earned In Gemmology Course

Samuel J. Edmundson, 363 Robertson Street, has completed a course in gemmology held by the Canadian Jewellers Institute and has been granted his certificate, it was announced today.

CARELESS DRIVERS

Fined in traffic court today for careless driving:

Anne McGee of 1466 Rockland, $40; Alfred Roberts of 3504 Plymouth, $40 and Reginald Pierce of 841 Esquimalt Rd., $35.



DARK BLUE-GREEN in color but golden in price, the new summer shirt worn by Saanich police Sgt. Leslie Ledson cost $23. Constables and sergeants were issued three shirts each. Of wool and a synthetic fabric, they are expected to last five years each and officers are expected to pay their own dry-cleaning bills. Meanwhile, Saanich firemen next door have heard their new shirts are on the way. They cost $3.78 each and are worn year-round.

STUDENTS' VIEW OF CANADA

We're a Group of 'Negative, Regional Thinkers'

Take 16 teen-agers across Canada from coast to coast and you will have a pretty good assessment of the real Canada.

That's the way it looked when youngsters from Montreal arrived in Victoria Thursday after a cross-country tour and began to sum up their experiences.

The visitors are from four high schools in the Montreal area, the winning teams of a television series educational competition, "Challenge."

The students arrived by ferry Wednesday afternoon from Vancouver, and returned to Vancouver by air Thursday night.

They have been travelling since June 26. By air, train, and bus, they have toured the Maritimes, central Canada, the Prairies and B.C.

They have lots to say about Canada.

"Canadians think too regionally," said John Peeters, 15, from Mount Royal Catholic School.

"I don't disdain regional flavor and I don't like flag-wavers, but it is important to have a clear concept in terms of nationhood."

John didn't find such a concept on his travels.

"There is no place in Canada where Canadians think as Canadians first. I wish there was.

"But travel helps. If only every Canadian could travel from sea to sea.

"Once you've seen the Rockies and the prairies, the east and the west, you can't go back to thinking in terms of your own two blocks."

According to Nancy Layton, 15, of Hudson High School on the outskirts of Montreal, Canadians do have some sense of nationality.

"It's kind of a negative thing, like anti-Americanism. But there is a feeling that we're lucky, that we have no big problems like communism."

Alan Freeman, 16, of West Hill School in downtown Montreal, finds Canada a "miracle."

"When you see how diverse it is, you wonder how it ever stayed together. In every province provincial politics are the big thing, not federal politics."

All were critical of the inability of Canadians to properly preserve historic sites.

"The ultimate insult came when we found the original table from the Quebec Conference of 1864 had been chopped down to fit a smaller room in Regina," said John.

The size of Canada was the greatest impression.

"The Prairies," said Nancy, "are like a fantastic endless backdrop with no one out there."

French Islands Holding Whip In Fish War

Newfoundland to Feel Pinch If New Drive Successful

ST. PIERRE (CP)—These French-owned islands 12 miles off the southern coast of Newfoundland are in a position to hurt the Canadian fishing industry and primarily that of Newfoundland.

President Charles de Gaulle of France may have given an indication here Thursday that his country is about to exploit that political and geographic advantage.

France has a "duty" to St. Pierre-Miquelon, her last North American colonies, the general said during his 10-hour visit en route to Quebec City and Montreal. "France will do what she must."

He pointed out that St. Pierre-Miquelon depend mainly on fishing and tourism as the base for their economy and, admitting that the economy of the islands had a "problem," offered to discuss these issues with their representatives.

Newfoundland was known for a long time as a floating fish wharf and it took concerted efforts of the residents to win the right to set up permanent homes there.

Before that, fishermen from Europe arrived each spring and left in the fall.

St. Pierre-Miquelon, home to about 5,500 French citizens, wants to compromise and, without evicting her loyal French subjects, become the home port for as many of the Grand Banks fishing draggers as possible.

The big thing she has going for her is trans-shipment — A sytem under which foreign draggers, many of them thousands of miles from home, can land fish for freezing and storing and pick up the catch later by refrigerated cargo vessels.

Many of them now pass their cargo on to factory ships or return home when their holds are full.

The European Common Market has financed a $3,000,000 harbor improvement program, adding berthing space by building piers along the waterfront.

General de Gaulle toured these Thursday and visited the Societe de Peche et Congelation fish processing plant here.

There have been rumors in recent years that European and American fishing interests might set up additional plants to fillet, pack and freeze fish.

Any move to entice the lucrative supply business for Grand Banks fishing fleets away from St. Johns, Nfld., could mean potential loss of thousands of dollars to that Canadian port.

GAINS FROM TOURISTS

Up to 5,000 Portuguese fishermen can be found in St. Johns when the entire fleet is in and this means thousands in tourist dollars from the men.

Fuel companies and others also do a lucrative business getting the foreign dragging outfitted.

St. Pierre is even closer to the Grand Banks than St. John's and this gives it some advantage in terms of sailing time for ships which must put into port for fuel, water and food.

The marine haulout here also competes with drydock facilities in Newfoundland and other parts of eastern Canada for repair business when foreign draggers encounter technical trouble.

Many claim it is much cheaper to have repair work done here than at Marystown or St. Johns, Nfld.

DE GAULLE

Quebec Pulls All Stops For Visit

QUEBEC (CP) — The state visit of President de Gaulle of France shapes up as the biggest, brashest and costliest bash in the history of what Premier Daniel Johnson calls the French-Canadian nation.

The Quebec government has prepared an all-stops-pulled welcome for the general, who arrives Sunday aboard the French navy cruiser Colbert to begin a five-day state visit to Canada. Most of the visit will be spent in this province.

The accent of elaborate preparations, intricate right down to the last fleur-de-lys in detail, is on a popular tour of the French president among the people of France's former colony in North America.

ONE MILLION

Official predictions of Quebecers who will line streets and highways to glimpse the general exceed 1,000,000. Thousands of flags of France and Quebec line the route and the cost of it all is in the tens of thousands.

It's a headache for police, but no concern is shown for the general's personal safety. Police say the biggest problems will be posed by crowd and traffic control along the many miles of de Gaulle's Quebec travels.

Although there is plenty of pomp and formality scheduled, the theme underlying much of the visit's preparation stresses fun such as street dancing, folksinging and fireworks.

WAVING FLAGS

It is going to be a warmhearted welcome with, according to plans, thousands of tiny tots waving flags of France and Quebec wherever the general goes. And tour organizers anticipate several unscheduled stops at the general's request.

De Gaulle will disembark at Wolfe's Cove beneath the cliffs of the Plains of Abraham where New France fell to British forces in 1759. Much notice has been given that this harbor property belongs to the government of Canada.

He will be greeted by Gov.-Gen. Roland Michener and travel across the plains, also Canadian government territory, to the Citadel, summer residence of the governor-general, where there will be a federal reception.

After this de Gaulle becomes pretty much provincial property—visiting city hall, going to church at the Roman Catholic shrine in Ste. Anne de Beaupre, to lunch at Petit-Cap, site of the first technical school of New France.

While de Gaulle is treated to a state dinner by the Quebec government, a red - white - and-blue fireworks display described as enormous will light the sky over the Plains of Abraham where an outdoor dance will take place.

BARE BOTTOMS DRAW COMPLAINT

'We Only Look at Tops!'

TORONTO (CP) — The policeman who wrote the information admits he was unable to determine the sex, but a boy and a girl have been accused of walking naked along the beach of Toronto Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin ter Woort, parents of 18-months-old Marc and 2½-year-old Lisa will receive summonses by mail because the children were "walking in public disorder, contrary to a bylaw of the Toronto parks commission."

Mr. ter Woort, an economist at the University of Toronto, said police called him Wednesday and read an official report outlining how an officer "while walking in an easterly direction along Ward's Island discovered two boys. . . ."

"I said: 'Wait a minute, I don't have two boys,'" Mr. Woort said. "The officer said that both the kids had short hair."

When Mrs. ter Woort cut in to ask whether the policeman did not know how to tell boys from girls, the officer replied: "We only look at the tops."

Someone, however, objected to the bottoms, and a complaint was lodged that the children had been on the beach without bathing suits for the third time in a week.

Mr. ter Woort says he finds the charges funny. "I figure, what magistrate is going to take them seriously?"

He said he does not intend to pay the $25 fine normally assessed under the bylaw.

Vietnam War Cost Prevents Spending For War on Rats

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. House of Representatives killed an administration bill Thursday to provide federal money for a rat extermination program in the nation's slums.

President Johnson irately termed the economy action "a cruel blow to the poor children of America."

"The least we can do is give our children the same protection that we give our livestock," Johnson declared in a statement after his measure to provide $40,000,000 over a two year period to combat rats went down to defeat.

The adverse administration vote came on a rule which would have made the bill subject to debate and amendment. It was defeated 207 to 176.

'CAN DO WITHOUT'

Opponents of the measure hit hard on the fact it involved spending money while the nation was at war.

"This is one program we could do without," Rep. Delbert Latta (R, Ohio) said in the brief discussion which preceded rejection of the bill.

Rep. H. R. Gross (R, Iowa) mocked at the proposed program. He suggested it could lead to creation of a government post of "high commissioner of the rat corps." He called the legislation "so ludicrous we ought not even to entertain the rule."

The bill would have distributed grants to states and localities to pay up to two-thirds of the cost of programs to get rid of rats.

The House banking committee, which approved the measure, put the rat population at least 90,000,000 and estimated their annual damage at $10 per rat.

In a speech that brought a round of applause, Rep. Martha Griffiths (D. Mich) said rats made Genghis Khan and Hitler "look like pikers."

"Rats have killed more humans than all the generals in history put together," she said. "Rats are a living cargo of death. Their tails switch through sewers and over the food you eat.

"If you're going to spend $79,000,000,000 to kill off a few Viet Cong, I'd spend $40,000,000 to kill off the most devastating enemy that man has ever had."

After the defeat, Rep. Theodore Kupferman (R. N.Y.), told the House he was "ashamed" of the vote.

No. 4 Man Openly Called Mao Enemy

PEKING (Reuters)—Tao Chu, former propaganda chief and No. 4 in the Chinese Communist party, today was openly named in the official Chinese press as an opponent of Mao Tse-tung.

The official Shanghai newspaper Wen Hui Pao publishes two pages of criticism of the 61-year-old Tao which it says were first made in Red Guard wall posters last year.

Tao, last seen in public last December, is one of three Chinese leaders who since then have been constantly condemned in demonstratons, unofficial Red Guard newspapers and wall posters as opponents of the Maoists.

FAILED DISMALLY IN UN

Russians Bungled Mideast Debates

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Western diplomats are not as surprised by the Soviet Union's failure to win the diplomatic battle at the United Nations over the Middle East as by the string of blunders that caused the Russians to lose the skirmishes as well as the war itself.

No one can recall a time when the Kremlin got into so many untenable positions and suffered so many rebuffs in any similar two-month period.

This raises questions of whether Soviet diplomats suddenly lost their touch, and, if so, who was to blame for the step-by-step lapses.

There has been widespread speculation that Nikoklai T. Fedorenko was the central figure and that he may be replaced. But it would be an oversimplification to pin the whole thing on Moscow's delegate to the United Nations.

At least part of the trouble can be traced to top-level officials in Moscow. Some of it resulted from faulty intelligence and some from diplomatic necessity which required the Soviet Union to take losing positions.

Most UN officials don't think Fedorenko initiated the idea of the emergency session of the General Assembly, overriding the long - held Soviet doctrine that peacekeeping matters should be handled by the Security Council.

The decision on this seemed to be one for the highest level. This is true also on the personal participation of Premier Alexei N. Kosygin in the assembly session.

That is one reason why the failure of the Soviet Union to get a clear-cut assembly demand for the withdrawal of Israeli troops from Arab territory is a blow to the Russians, and helps explain why they have kept Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in New York fo: more than four weeks trying to find a face-saving formula.

AT ODDS WITH ARABS

Part of the Soviet trouble resulted from the Kremlin's inability to take a position without co-ordinating it with that of the Arabs. There was, in effect, an Arab veto since the Russians did not want to risk a public break. The Russians were being accused of letting the Arabs down militarily, and they wanted to prove they would not desert them in diplomacy as well.

The Soviet Union appeared to get off on the wrong foot in April. Authoritative sources said some Soviet leaders told a visiting Egyptian parliamentary delegation that Israel was about to attack Syria. This is said to have led to Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser's sending massive forces to Israel's southern borders. This in turn resulted in the Israeli mobilization and the war.

In May, when the Security Council was called at the request of Canada and Denmark to deal with the mounting crisis, Fedorenko accused the two countries of trying to dramatize the situation. He said there was no urgency in sending out an appeal for a breathing spell as Thant had suggested.

When the war broke out June 5, most council members were ready to vote an immediate ceasefire appeal. Fedorenko insisted that the appeal be linked with a demand for Israeli troops to pull back to their June 4 positions.

THAT YODEL AT SUMMIT IS JUDY

STEELE GLACIER, Y.T. (CP)—Vast silence in the Steele Glacier area of the St. Elias Mountains echoed on Thursday with a loud yodel from the 9,500-foot summit of a peak near Steele Mountain.

The alpinist, booted and parkaed on the snowy peak, was State Secretary Judy LaMarsh.

She had been flown to the top of the nameless peak by helicopter during her visit to the Yukon Alpine Centennial Expedition's general camp on a grassy area at Steele Glacier.

OTTAWA PLANS COMMITTEE TO PROBE SAUCER REPORTS

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The National Research Council is moving to set up a special committee to study the latest reports of Unidentified Flying Objects and ascertain if there is anything that would warrant further investigations, it was learned here today.

The committee will probably operate under the chairmanship of Dr. R. S. Rettie, head of the space research and facilities branch of NRC in Ottawa.

That's how White Satin is. Still made to Sir Robert Burnett's original 1770 London Dry formula; still exactly as dry and satin-smooth today as it ever was. After all, when great taste can keep a gin famous for generations on both sides of the ocean—we wouldn't dream of changing it. What we have done, though, is change the White Satin bottle. Pearson Goes Home Richer —And Wiser About the West

EDMONTON (RP) — A Cheechako got involved in a contest with a pair of sourdough Thursday and finished a poor third.

Prime Minister Pearson came out of the east to challenge Alberta's Premier Manning and Edmonton Mayor Vince Dantzer in a gold panning competition.

When it was over, Mr. Manning and Mr. Dantzer had proven themselves far more adept than Mr. Pearson at finding gold on the western plains.

For the record, Mr. Dantzer ended up with $8.75 worth of gold nuggets and Mr. Manning panned $6.09 worth. The prime minister had to settle for $3.50 worth.

Mr. Pearson got off to a slow start and never caught up to Mr. Dantzer who worked swiftly and surely or Mr. Manning, who worked methodically.

The gravel in the pan was "salted" with tiny nuggets to ensure each contestant got some, but at one point Mr. Pearson took a couple of dollar bills from his pocket and attempted to "salt" his pan even more.

When he held up his tiny bag of nuggets for Mr. Manning to admire, the premier said:

"You've got rocks in these besides."

After having their gold weighed at the "assay office" on the Edmonton Exhibition grounds, Mr. Pearson asked what he should do with the gold he had panned.

Said Mayor Dantzer:

"Take it back to Ottawa and give it to Mr. Sharp."

Cheechako was a term originally applied to dudes who arrived in the west during gold rush days. It is thought to be a corruption of the word Chicago, where many of them came from.

Mr. Pearson officially opened the annual Klondike Days celebration later Thursday.

Slide Derails Italian Train

BOLZANO, Italy (UPI) — The Rome-Munich express packed with German and Austrian tourists returning from Italy was derailed today by a landslide. The wreckage was hit by an oncoming freight.

First official reports said one person was killed and 20 persons were injured.

The accident occurred about 10 miles from the Brenner Pass as the train approached the Austrian border in a driving rainstorm that caused the landslide. Tons of rocks knocked the express off the tracks and it was hit by a freight coming in the opposite direction.

STRANDED ON MOUNTAIN

Tiny Woman's Pack Almost Big as Her

GLENNALLEN, Alaska (AP) — An Anchorage bush pilot plans to make another attempt to pick up a Japanese woman attempting to climb 12,002-foot Mount Drum alone.

Pilot Mort Clement said he attempted to pick up the 32-year-old woman at a pre-designated spot on the mountain Thursday but high wind and "downdrafts as great as 2,000 feet per minute" prevented a landing.

Clement said he saw Miss Sakae Kishi's yellow nylon tent at the pre-arranged point near the 4,000-foot level.

"The wind at that point might be blowing as high as 70 knots, and it would be most likely she would remain under the protection of her cover," he added.

He said he dropped notes wrapped in a large, orange plastic container with streamers attached advising the climber to stay at the pickup spot until he could land.

Miss Kishi arrived at Glennallen from Tokyo Saturday and began her ascent of the mountain that afternoon. Although she weighs only 78 pounds, she toted a 58-pound pack of supplies.

Tshombe Faces Death On Gallows in Congo

380 Dead In Viet Battles

From AP—Reuters

SAIGON (CP) — South Vietnamese and South Korean troops reported killing 380 Communist soldiers in two savage battles today.

Over North Vietnám U.S. Navy pilots shot down three MiGs from the sky and probably downed a fourth.

The aerial action was the first significant dogfight over the North in six weeks when U.S. pilots claimed to have downed 27 MiGs in a month.

South Vietnamese headquarters said an elite airborne battalion killed 240 soldiers in northernmost Quang Tri province along the coastal plain in a fight with what was evidently a battalion of about 500 men. The Communists were reported to have abandoned 89 weapons on the field.

JUNGLE HQ TAKEN

About 100 miles to the south in coastal Binh Dinh province, troopers of South Korea's White Horse division overran jungle headquarters of the Viet Cong's 95th Regiment and reported killing 140 guerrillas. They captured 70 weapons.

A U.S. military spokesman said all four jets downed were MiG-17s, encountered during a bombing raid on a gasoline storage centre at Ta Xa about 20 miles northwest of the port city of Haiphong.

There were no immediate reports on U.S. losses.

Military sources said it is believed the North Vietnamese air force is concentrating on replacing its losses and retraining its men, besides being harassed by regular American bombings of its major MiG bases.

The Communist fighters signalled renewed activity two days ago when eight MiGs challenged raiding U.S. Phantom jets, but neither side suffered casualties in a brief exchange of fire.

STRAFE SUPPLY TRUCKS

In raids Thursday, Thunderchief and Phantom jets attacked Yen Bai airfields 78 miles northwest of Hanoi, where supply trucks coming south from China are believed to be halting for refuelling, a U.S. spokesman said.

Meanwhile, in South Vietnam, B-52 bombers flew three missions over the northern province of Thua Thien to unload bombs on infiltration routes reported being used to move North Vietnamese men and equipment into the South.

U.S. infantrymen and Viet Cong guerrillas clashed 18 miles south of here on the fringes of the Mekong Delta.

De Gaulle Tour May Jolt Canadian Unity Efforts

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Fears are growing among federal officials that French President Charles de Gaulle's tour will harm Canadian efforts towards national unity.

His visit may deliberately or inadvertantly strengthen the separatist cause.

He arrives in Quebec City Sunday.

Canadian untiy may be severely damaged, depending on how de Gaulle conducts himself during the visit and how the wild-eyed separatists in Quebec seek to exploit his presence.

French Canada has made great gains in recent years — during Prime Minister Pearson's administration — in insisting on a special status for Quebec.

English speaking Canadians have learned to adjust and accommodate themselves to this fact of life, particularly noticeable in a city such as the capital where there is a large population of French-speaking as well as English-speaking Canadians.

There is worry here that General de Gaulle — always a trouble maker — may see the visit as a golden opportunity to strengthen support for his anti-United States views in this

Algeria Orders Extradition

ALGIERS (UPI)—The Algerian supreme court today ordered former Congolese Premier Moise Tshombe extradited to The Congo, where he faces execution on the gallows on treason charges.

Tshombe had been tried in absentia in the Congolese capital of Kinshasa and sentenced to die. He was in exile in Spain at the time.

At the United Nations, meanwhile many UN delegates said The Congo could not afford to execute Tshombe because it would have a full-scale rebellion on its hands.

Diplomats warned Congolese authorities to proceed with caution. One source said, "even the simple presence of Tshombe in his home might trigger trouble." Another said, "If they execute Tshombe they will have another civil war. The Katangese will rise up in arms."

KATANGA

Tshombe comes from mineral-rich Katanga province which he led in secession from the central Congolese government shortly after The Congo obtained its independence from Belgium in 1960.

Tshombe later served as premier of a reunited Congo but then went into self-exile in Europe.

Tshombe was taken to Algeria June 30 after his private plane was hijacked over the Mediterranean June 30 and the pilot forced to fly at gunpoint to an airport near Algeris.

Shortly afterward, a rebellion by Tshombe's former Katanga gendarmes and white mercenary troops broke out in the northeastern Congo but the rebels were put to flight by Congolese government forces.

Just before the Algerian court announced its decision Tshombe said he was "the victim of the CIA and of my popularity in The Congo."

MASSACRES

Mobutu's government had demanded Tshombe's extradition from Algeria to Kinshaha, where he was sentenced to death on charges of treason, massacres in Katanga province and other offences against the state, described as criminal.

Informed sources said it was likely that Tshombe would be extradited in secret and that the move would be announced only after he reached the Congo.

In a spirited declaration before the court, Tshombe said his friendship with President Charles de Gaulle of France "displeased the imperialists."

In his declaration, Tshombe outlined his political career and said:

"I will go to The Congo if the supreme court so decides, for I am a man. But I call the court's attention to the responsibility it has in the eyes of the Congolese people and the entire world."

NEGROES MEET TO CONSIDER BLACK POWER

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — About 600 delegates to the first U.S. national conference on Black Power are gathered here today intent on making the once-divisive slogan a working symbol of Negro unity.

All whites, including reporters, were excluded from all working sessions and delegates, including H. Rapp Brown, chairman of the Student Non-violent Co-ordinating Committee, were asked not to give individual news conferences.

But the tone of the orientation session Thursday set by Negro comedian Dick Gregory and Los Angeles black nationalist Ron Karenga, was not so much anti-white as pro-black and anti-white exploitation.

Let Liberals Join Tories, Says Bonner

A merger of the Liberal and Conservative parties nationally would be more in the interest of Canada than realignment of Conservatives with Social Credit, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today.

He was commenting on the philosophy of Social Conservatism as proposed in Alberta Premier Manning's book, Political Realignment: A Challenge to Thoughtful Canadians, to be published in August and reviewed today by Peter Newman.

Mr. Bonner, speaking in the absence from Victoria of Premier Bennett, said he had not read the book.

But he deplored any appeal to the right which Mr. Manning considers essential to the survival of individuality.

REALIGNMENT

Mr. Bonner agreed that Canadian political parties are in need of realignment.

"The Liberals are publicly and completely in disarray," he said. Only the Conservatives are in worse shape.

He said "Rather than inventing a new party such as 'social conservatism,' I'm rather inclined to believe the country would accept the merging of Liberal and Conservative par-

BID FOR TWO-PARTY SYSTEM

Premier Manning Seen Dumping Socreds as National Force

By PETER NEWMAN

OTTAWA — A development which could seriously affect the future realignment of the Canadian party structure is about to explode on an already volatile political scene.

In a book due to be published in about 10 days, Ernest Manning, Canada's most successful politician, in effect, renounces Social Credit and throws his support behind the Conservative party.

People close to the Alberta premier claim that his dramatic move is not the result of any sudden revelation, but the end of a long and earnest search for an ideology to fit the times.

While Manning continues to protest any personal involvement in national politics, his forthcoming book leaves open the possibility that he might become an important influence on the next Conservative administration.

He is understood to have already acepted an invitation to address the pre-convention thinkers' conference which the Conservatives are planning for Quebec City on August 7-10.

Reliable political sources who have read the book say that Manning is advocating three important changes in Canada's political scene:

1. That Social Crediters give up the idea their party will ever become a national force.
2. That they join the federal Conservative party.
3. That the Conservative party adopt his new philosophy and turn ideologically to the right, so that national politics in Canada becomes realigned into recognizable left- and right-wing movements.

Manning's book, called "Political Realignment: A Challenge to Thoughtful Canadians," is based only in part on his "white paper on human resources development" published last March, which outlined a non-partisan but ultra-conservative approach to government.

The new volume, which was largely the work of Manning himself (though he had help from his son Preston and Eric Schmidt, a sociologist) is based on the idea that in Canadian society today the self-reliant individual is losing control over his own destiny.

Those who have read a draft of the Manning book describe it as a well-thought-out appeal to people who support a similar right-wing philosophy, but now find themselves in different political parties.

It's an attempt to form an alliance between the supporters of pure free enterprise and politicians who are conscious of the realities of getting elected in what has become a welfare state.

Manning attempts to combine these two strains into a new political philosophy he calls social conservatism. It keeps the emphasis on the individual as the primary source of production and as the main benefactor of economic activity but it does reflect some concern for the under-privileged.

In terms of practical politics, probably the most interesting part of Manning's book is his examination of the various national political parties as potential vehicles for his new philosophy.

Most significant is his rejection of Social Credit as an effective national force, even though he has fought hard to help its cause during 10 federal election campaigns.

Although a number of its adherents share his ideas, he also rejects the Liberal party, because he claims it is too monolithic, too close to the federal civil service, and too imbued with what he calls "nineteenth century socialism." He takes strong exception to the "universality" approach inherent in most of the Liberal welfare measures. The NDP, he disqualifies by definition, and then turns his attention to the Conservatives.

While Manning recognizes the Tory party's leadership problem, he points out that the kind of approach to politics he is preaching has

CONSERVATIVES FAVORED

MOVE TO TORIES DENIED IN PART

EDMONTON (CP)—Premier Manning says he has written a small book advocating a political realignment in federal politics but denied published reports that he, in effect, renounces Social Credit and throws his support behind the Progressive Conservative party.

The 100-page book, Political Realignment, a Challenge to Thoughtful Canadians, is expected to be ready for the presses early next month.

In an interview, Premier Manning said the book simply stresses what he has been saying for two years, that there is a desperate need in Canada for realignment of political thinking.

He was asked to comment on a report, by Peter Newman of Ottawa, saying that in the book he renounces Social Credit, supports the Conservatives and that he is understood to have accepted an invitation to address a thinkers' conference planned by the Conservatives in Quebec City Aug. 7-10.

He may seize the chance to stir up old antagonisms and increase his popularity in Quebec so that the federal government would be reluctant to line up with the U.S. in any new confrontation with France over the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

General de Gaulle may be out to deliberately "neutralize" Canada.

The French president is a past master at exploiting such difficulties as exist in Canada. He instinctively seizes on the dramatic and symbolic. With him in Quebec will be Premier Daniel Johnson, who is demanding more provincial influence in both domestic and international affairs — in particular Quebec influence.

CALLING CARD

President de Gaulle left a calling card Thursday at St. Pierre Miquelon — a promised $2,000,000 trawler.

His wife's nephew Jacques Philippe Vendroux, newly elected deputy of St. Pierre, said this was the only hard promise de Gaulle made during private talks with Governor J. J. Buggia and local government officials.

The trawler will be based here and government owned. Mr. Vendroux declined to say when it would arrive.

Vendroux, asked about rumored development of a gambling casino on the island, said this was possible. He would say no more.

Pearson Insists: Admit Arabs

He reaffirmed an earlier stand that Canada must admit its share of Arabs if there is a United Nations program for immigration.

The chamber had written to Mr. Pearson to say directors felt Canada should not admit several thousand Arab refugees, in effect placing them in a strange environment for which they would be ill-prepared.

The prime minister agreed the refugee problem could not be solved by scattering Arabs through many countries; that most must be re-settled in Arab States.

This could be accomplished through an economic program that would provide for the refugees to be self-supporting.

But Canada will have to accept "a certain number, as well as the obligation to train and prepare those accepted for immigration into our population," Mr. Pearson said.

"As I see it, the problem is, in fact, threefold: Israel will have to readmit at least a token number; the majority will have to be absorbed in Arab countries through international development schemes which would make that possible; and some will move from the area to overseas countries where there are opportunities for them."

been a part of its traditional concerns.

He urges Social Crediters to get out of the federal field and support the Conservative party and states that he himself will work hard to help bring about such a realignment.

Manning plays down the importance of individual leadership in this process, emphasizing again and again that the most important step is to commit a political movement to a distinguishable set of principles, something that's accepted, adopted, written down and unchanging.

He insists that he himself will not run for national office under his new banner of social conservatism, but will do everything else in his power to foster his philosophy's adoption by the federal Tories.

Manning's policy declaration is a highly significant move because he has been a loyal adherent of Social Credit since the party was founded and became its youngest cabinet minister in 1935 and premier of Alberta in 1943.

His swing away from Social Credit is an attempt, which is gaining adherents in all federal parties, to polarize the nation's politics into recognizable left and right-wing movements.

Manning believes that in such a realignment, the Conservatives are bound to triumph, becuase they would enlist the loyalties of "all the Tories, many right-wing Liberals, and most Social Crediters and a substantial block of people not now associated with any party," while the opposing group would have only "leftist-type Liberals ad the NDP."

"I prefer not to comment on the subject matter of the book until it is available to the public, other than to say that it will have an important message for the Canadian people substantially different from that conveyed by Mr. Newman's premature and largely inaccurate speculations," Mr. Manning said.

"The book most definitely will not be a repudiation of Social Credit nor will it be an endorsation of the present Conservative party.

"I am not throwing my support behind the Progressive Conservative party as such, nor am I urging other Social Crediters to do so. Equally untrue is Mr. Newman's statement that I have accepted an invitation to speak at the Conservative party thinkers' conference prior to the leadership convention."

Although he would not discuss the content of the book, Mr. Manning said "It is wholly false to even suggest that I have renounced the philosophies of Social Credit."

B.C. Social Credit League president George Driediger predicted the book would "disrupt the political climate.

"This is going to cause an awful lot of people to take a new look at Canadian politics . . . It is going to come as a shock to some of our people."

'. . . THIS GREAT COUNTRY'

Queen Mother Optimist on Canada

By BRENDA LARGE

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Queen Mother Elizabeth today thanked the people of the Atlantic provinces for making her 13-day centennial tour "so enjoyable." She also looked optimistically into Canada's second century.

She said at a luncheon at Newfoundland's Memorial University: "Wherever I have been in the Atlantic provinces, I have been received with a kindness which has touched me most deeply, and which I will always remember with gratitude."

Speaking about Canada's centennial year and the country's future, the 66-year-old Queen Mother said:

"As Canada moves forward into its second century, I have found all around me a spirit of courage and enterprise which I feel certain bodes well for the people of this great country in the years ahead."

The Queen Mother told Premier Joseph Smallwood it seemed "hardly possible" it was nearly 30 years since her last visit to St. John's with her late husband King George VI.

"We were deeply touched then by the loyalty and affection shown to us, and in a broadcast to the people of Newfoundland I recall that the King spoke of the pleasure which it gave to us to be in the capital city of the oldest colony in the empire."

Newfoundland has seen many changes in the intervening years and in 1949 experienced "an historic transition" from the status of a colony to full membership in Canadian confederation.

"Since I arrived here yesterday, I have seen all around me evidence of progress and prosperity and I know that what is true of St. John's is ture also for the rest of this forward-looking province."

Later, the Queen Mother will attend a garden party in her honor given by Lt.-Gov. Fabian O'Dea at Government House.

LEAVES SATURDAY

The Queen Mother concludes her 13-day visit to the Atlantic provinces Saturday when she flies back to London aboard an RCAF Yukon aircraft.

Thursday, the streets of St. John's, were bedecked with Union Jacks, the new Canadian flag and the red ensign as more than 30,000 Newfoundlanders turned out to welcome the Queen Mother.

This island province is enjoying one of its hottest summers in recent history and temperatures reached the high 80s Thursday afternoon when the Queen Mother attended a trooping the color ceremony at the Pleasantville parade ground, site of a former American air force base during the Second World War.

The Newfoundland Regiment, which fought in both the First and Second World Wars, performed the trooping ceremony. The Queen Mother was welcomed to the parade ground by the honorary colonel of the regiment, Sir Leonard Outerbridge, the first lieutenant-governor of Newfoundland after it became a province.

Following the ceremony, the Queen Mother presented the Canadian forces decoration to the regiment's honorary lieutenant-colonel, Mr. Albert M. Martin.

A thousand Newfoundland school children, including a large contingent of brownies, cubs, guides and scouts, gave the Queen Mother a rousing welcome when she attended a children's rally Thursday morning at Memorial Staduim. She told them, in a brief speech, that in Canada's Centennial Year "the emphasis has been on youth because it is on you that the future depends."

Don Messer Show Coming to Arena Saturday Night

Can you still remember songs like "Donald, Where's Your Troosers" and "Love Is But a Lassie?"

If so, you're probably going to the Don Messer Jubilee Show coming to town Saturday night.

Presented by Festival Canada, the Centennial Commission's performing arts program for 1967, the show will feature such performers as Marg Osborne and Charlie Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. Gunter Buchta and the popular Buchta dancers.

The country music show starts at Memorial Arena at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are still available at the Arena box office.

Test your diamond I.Q.

Q. DO YOU ASSUME THAT UNLESS YOU CAN SEE A FLAW WITH THE NAKED EYE, A DIAMOND IS FLAWLESS?

A. Flaws or inclusions that can be seen with the un-aided eye, obviously mar the beauty of a diamond. Only when there is no flaw visible under 10-power magnification should a diamond properly be called "flawless." As members of the American Gem Society, we have been trained to determine a diamond's clarity exactly, and show you exactly. AGS affiliation is awarded only to those jewelers who qualify on the basis of gemological knowledge and high ethical standards. Come in soon and let us explain the "Four C's" of diamond value to you.

WEEKEND WEATHER PICTURE ACROSS CANADA

SYNOPSIS—Southeastern B.C. was cloudy with scattered showers overnight and a thunderstorm occurred at Kimberley before midnight. Partial clearing in other areas of B.C. allowed patches of fog and low cloud to form along the coast and in the interior valleys. Sunny skies will result in warmer temperatures Saturday. However, a weak disturbance from the Gulf of Alaska will give increasing cloudiness to the north coast later today and this cloud will spread inland through the central interior Saturday.

Brinks Cuts Services In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — A "tremendous upsurge in criminal activity" in the Montreal area has forced Brinks Express Co. Ltd. to cancel several contracts to cash company payrolls, a Brinks spokesman said Wednesday.

Arnold Coley, manager of Brinks' Montreal division, said in an interview seven armed robberies of payrolls in the last 12 months netted thieves about $800,000. There were no successful payroll robberies involving Brinks men in the previous 12 months.

The crime increase forced the company to discontinue its practice of dispatching money-laden armored cars to cash employees cheques "in hazardous locations" in the Montreal area.

"We are sitting ducks in some places," Mr. Coley said. "When we make pick-ups and deliveries to banks we can disperse our men on the streets and against walls and use guns to protect ourselves.

"But when we have to move into certain public places, like hospitals, and perhaps set up cheque cashing operations in a cafeteria where anybody can walk in, anything can happen."

La Presse Sale Wins Approval

QUEBEC (CP)—A bill to permit the sale of Montreal La Presse to the Trans-Canada Corp. Fund of Montreal was approved Thursday by the public bills committee of the Quebec legislature.

Legislative action permitting the sale was necessary because of a 1961 law limiting sales of La Presse Co. shares to within the family of the late Treffle Berthiaume.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Deterioration of western crops due to dry weather continued to be a major factor in trade on the Winnipeg grain exchange today.

Flax scored broad advances in very active trade. Rapeseed prices showed underlying firmness as July contracts were closed. Oats and barley trade was domestic. Rye prices were steady in light trade.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat all were unchanged except Durham grades which were up three cents.

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures advanced more than two cents on the board of trade today and corn futures again set seasonal lows.

Wheat futures had fluctuated over a narrow range throughout the morning and around noon made a strong move ahead. Large commercial buying set off the advance which also gained momentum over short-covering.

MARKET SUMMARIES

ABC Stock Suffers Jolt

After a delayed opening American Broadcasting suffered a 21-point drop on the New York stock exchange today.

Selling pressure built up on news Thursday that the U.S. justice department had asked an appeals court to overturn approval of the proposed merger of ABC with International Telephone and Telegraph. IT and T held a fractional gain.

AT TORONTO Dominion Bridge lost 1¼ to 17½ and Oshawa A and Versatile Manufacturing lost 1 each to 45½ and 38.

Chrysler of Canada and GMC gained 1½ each to 52 and 91½, Great West Life Assurance 1¼ to 55¼, and Revenue Properties 1⅛ to 11⅛.

The western oil index rose with Banff and Central-Del Rio up 1⅝ each to 15⅞ and 17⅝ and Hudson's Bay and Great Plains ½ each to 39¼ and 16.

Uraniums were ahead fractionally with Denison up ¾ to 73¾; Roman Corp., a holding company for Denison, ⅝ to 21⅝, Rio Algom ⅜ to 35½ and Stanrock 25 cents to 4.25.

Golds were up with Kerr-Addison ahead ⅝ to 14⅝, Madsen 7 cents to 1.80 and Dickenson 20 cents to 3.30.

In speculative activity, Northgate and Silverfields lost 20 cents each to 5.90 and 4.30 and Frobex 35 cents to 4.10.

Dome Pete remained 1½ points lower at 63 and Dominion Bridge, which said Thursday it expects lower earnings this year compared with last year, moved down 1⅛ points to 17½. Shell Oil slid one point to 30 and Calgary Power ¾ to 23¾. Steinberg's A and Weston A each were off ½ at 19½ and 18⅛ respectively.

AT LONDON equities presented quite a firm appearance on the stock market today, although trading was not large and gains among leaders were small.

In mixed dollar stocks, most Canadian issues were within one point of Thursday's levels. Canadian Pacific and International Nickel firmed up. Canadian banks improved.

The announcement of a merger between Bass and Charrington, two leading breweries, attracted buyers to that section.

Copper shares fell, then rallied well. Profit-taking lowered gold shares but some Australians advanced.

AT VANCOUVER Okanagan Helicopters rose .20 to $3.15 in pre-noon trading.

Commonwealth Acceptance was also better in the industrials and rose .15 to $2.

The mines were weak with Coronet off .10 to $1. Highmont was down .30 to $3; Utica, .10 off at $3.20, and Atlas, .04 weaker at $2.90.

PORTAGE DAM OPENING SET FOR SEPT. 12

HUDSON'S HOPE (CP)—A spokesman for the Portage Mountain hydro project said Thursday the massive 600-foot high dam will be completed almost a year ahead of schedule and will be officially opened Sept. 12 by Premier Bennett.

William Findlay, project manager for the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, said first power from the dam will be produced next fall, ahead of forecasts.
